$19,000 ASKED

Foundation Votes Money For Pupils

Six directors of the San Francisco Foundation yesterday voted unanimously to donate $10,000 to help finance school bus transportation from Marin City to Tamalpais High School.

The amount is $9,000 less than the $19,000 requested by the Marin County Labor Council, which spearheaded the drive for bus transportation funds.

John May of Tiburon, executive director of the San Francisco Foundation, presented the Marin request to his directors yesterday, after meeting with Marin officials on Jan. 18.

"I presented six copies of the Independent-Journal news story of the January 18 meeting to the directors," said May. "The directors agreed to put up $10,000. They did not go all the way, with the idea that school bus transportation is a public responsibility. We think very strongly that this is a public and not a private responsibility and are making the grant in the hope that this will tend to move the public agencies toward accepting and fulfilling their responsibility."

May announced that the $10,000 will be forwarded to Frank A. Cassou, business director of Tamalpais High School.

Cassou and other Marin leaders, including labor, business, education and civic officials, requested the $19,000 for a two-fold purpose:

1. Help Marin City students who must pay 60 cents a day bus fare to attend Tamalpais High School.

2. Use this initial donation as a pump primer to push for legislation that would permit a county to set up a countywide school transportation system to serve all districts.

Peace Bid Dropped, Rusk Says

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes raided the Haiphong area yesterday for the first time in a month, apparently ending a bombing restraint ordered by President Johnson while American officials looked into peace prospects.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated that the peace probe ended after the Communists launched their biggest offensive of the war Jan. 30.

Fighting from that Red campaign against major South Vietnamese cities has died out in all but Hue and Saigon, where the allies reported some success in efforts to clear out Communist-held areas, and a Marine convoy reached Hue.

RED LOSSES

The U.S. Command said the Communist death toll climbed by 1,085 yesterday, reaching a total of 27,706 since Jan. 29. The allied death toll was reported as 2,707, including 920 Americans, 1,733 South Vietnamese and 54 other allies.

The President's bombing ban applied to the areas around Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, and Haiphong, the key port city, officials in Washington said.

The American raid yesterday was on the Cat Bi airfield, four miles southeast of Haiphong. Navy A6 Intruder pilots said strings of 1,000-pound bombs cut across the intersection of runways. But heavy overcast and darkness prevented further damage assessment.

LBJ ORDERS

Washington reports said Johnson ordered the bombing restraint early in January, and American officials looked for signs that the Hanoi government would respond by leveling off military activity to open the way for peace talks.

U.S. Marines recaptured the railroad station and the soccer stadium in Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon, and held all of the southern part of the city except one Communist pocket along Highway 1 near the An Cuu Bridge.

The Viet Cong was flying its flag in the one-third of the old walled Citadel which it still controls in fighting against South Vietnamese attackers.

Bridge Board Denies Painter His Job Back

Paul Powell of Mill Valley was denied probationary reinstatement as a painter on the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday in an 8-4 vote of span directors.

Powell and two Negro painters, Jimmie Lee Wilkins and James Haugabook, were fired last April by Bridge General Manager James Adam. The men charged discrimination, and one, Wilkins, has been rehired on orders of the state Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco led the move to rehire Powell, a Caucasion, on condition of six months' probation as a "compromise."

Director E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County protested, saying:

"We'd be laying ourselves wide open to being accused of discrimination. We're not willing to compromise on Negro painters, and now (you want to) open up our generosity and hire a white man?"

Haugabook's discrimination charges were dismissed by the FEPC.

Director John E. Dearman, a Negro attorney from San Francisco, supported rehiring Powell. He said he would be "delighted to tell anyone" no discrimination would be involved in Powell's reinstatement.

Besides Dearman and Leonoudakis, Directors Ben K. Lerer and Daniel F. Del Carlo voted for rehiring.

Meanwhile, Wilkins, rehired Dec. 14, was given $5,704 in back pay by directors yesterday after Leonoudakis was assured by bridge district attorney Jerome B. White that the board would not be liable for damages because of the pay vote.

Gambling Traced To Bay Aide

OAKLAND (UPI) — The double life of Thomas N. Truax stretched today to Las Vegas' neon-faced casinos where investigators said he lost at least $200,000 in stolen federal funds.

Truax, a trusted regional government official whose appetite for gambling apparently outdistanced his $829 monthly salary, disappeared Thursday. So did $510,000.

Investigators said Truax, 26, Berkeley, flew to Las Vegas after calling in sick to the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) where he was employed as the assistant administrator.

"We don't anticipate a large percentage of recovery," said Deputy Atty. Gen. Marshall Mayer. He added Truax had lost "a couple of hundred thousand, perhaps more" gambling in Las Vegas.

Truax was described as "clean-cut, highly competent, conscientious and knowledgeable" by officials of ABAG — an organization of cities and governmental bodies in the San Francisco area. He lived with his wife in a modest apartment.

"He was apparently leading a normal life," said Warren Schmid, executive director of ABAG. "There was no reason to suspect him."

But an informant "who revealed Truax's double identity" caused ABAG officials to recheck their accounts which held

French Arms Aid May Go To Iraq

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle today joined with Iraq in demanding Israel abandon Arab lands seized in the Mideast war and hinted that France will swap arms for Iraqi oil.

De Gaulle and President Abdul Rahman Aref of Iraq issued a joint communique following the Iraqi leader's departure from a four-day state visit.

Lindsay, Rockefeller Split On Garbage Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today pressed his effort to end the now politically entangled sanitation strike without a National Guard call-up as the massive garbage pile-up grew and health and fire hazards mounted.

Holding out against Mayor John V. Lindsay's repeated pleas for a guard call-up, the governor accused the mayor of a breach of position in the strike and began new talks to seek a permanent solution to the crisis.

As the deepening division between the two Republicans became apparent, there was new urgency for a settlement in the disruption of private trash collections throughout the city. This added 5,000 tons to the daily accumulation.

With the city already inundated by 80,000 tons of rotting garbage and refuse, Rockefeller said in a television address to the city's eight million people that he would call out the National Guard "if necessary."

Rockefeller said that ordering out the Guard posed "very real risks as far as the stability and structure of organized labor and organized community life is concerned."

He said his peace formula which Lindsay rejected would have cost the city only $250,000 more than the $4 million it was already prepared to pay the striking sanitation men.

Taking to the air after Lindsay refused to reconsider his veto Rockefeller called the mayor's rejection a "breach of the position he had previously taken in relation to the union."

Newspaper Unions Set Offer Talks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Unions made plans for separate membership meetings tomorrow morning as the strike against San Francisco newspapers dragged on today in its fifth week.

At least three of the 15 unions involved in the strike—the mailers, International Typographical Union and the American Newspaper Guild—planned votes on whether to accept a common expiration date on contracts.

A spokesman at strike headquarters said this would be a "favorable step."

The independent morning Chronicle and Hearst's afternoon Examiner, both printed by the struck San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., haven't published since Jan. 5.

The mailers' contract expired last March and two other contracts have since expired. Some do not expire until next year.

Sam Kagel, appointed strike mediator by Mayor Joseph Alioto, began meeting yesterday with each of the unions, the publishers and officials of the printing company.

He was "receiving full cooperation from all parties," said Kagel.

He reported to Alioto that "putting together the machinery to accomplish a common expiration date among 15 unions and the publishers is highly complicated."

Kagel said that as soon as he has finished defining the issues in each case a joint session may be arranged.

Korea Talks Raise Hopes For Pueblo

SEOUL (AP) — Hopes rose again today for the release of the Pueblo crewmen with the conclusion of the fifth private meeting between U.S. and North Korean officials and the impending arrival of U.S. troubleshooter Cyrus Vance. North Korea has held the crewmen 17 days.

The talks at Panmunjom today lasted three hours, the longest session since talks began eight days ago. American officials were silent on what took place but the speculation in Seoul was that both sides settled "final procedural matters" for the release of the one dead crewman and three injured men.

SEOUL STAND

Sources also said that South Korea is expected to inform Vance that it wants to take back operational control of South Korea's 600,000-man armed forces. The United States currently has control of these forces under the auspices of the U.N. Command.

Foreign Minister Choi-Kyuhah said yesterday his government is more concerned about fundamental security arrangements against the Communist threat than about the $100 million special fund for Korea that President Johnson has requested from Congress.

VANCE TASK

Smoothing things over with South Korean leaders is seen as a major—though unannounced—purpose of Vance's visit. The South Koreans have been piqued by what they regard as the U.S. stress on the Pueblo incident and relative inattention to the Communist guerrilla attempt on the life of President Park.

White House Denies Vietnam Nuclear Tale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House and Pentagon have moved firmly to quiet rumors that the use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam is under consideration.

White House press secretary George Christian, responding to reports quoting Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., as saying requests for nuclear weapons had been made, denied President Johnson had been asked to authorize their use.

Shortly after Christian issued his denial yesterday, it was disclosed J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a letter if he had any information about reports U. S. tactical nuclear weapons may have been introduced into South Vietnam.

Fulbright said his "simple inquiry" arose from a closed committee discussion of a report that a specialist on such weapons went to South Vietnam last weekend.

The Defense Department replied in a statement that four U. S. scientists are now in Vietnam "to assist in the appraisal of the effectiveness of new weapons."

It would not say what these were, but it added they "have no relationship whatsoever to nuclear systems of any kind.

"Neither these scientists nor any others have been sent to Vietnam in connection with nuclear matters, and there is no intention to send any scientists to Vietnam in connection with nuclear matters."

Rep. Craig Hosmer, of California, ranking Republican House member of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, said he knew of no request by the military to use tactical nuclear weapons.

Hosmer, who recently said the United States should consider using such weapons in the event war breaks out in Korea, told a reporter that in his opinion the U. S. fortress at Khe Sanh did not lend itself to the employment of tactical nuclear weapons. They could, in fact, result in injury to allied forces, he said.

Benefits Asked For Pueblo Crew

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two pieces of legislation aimed at financial help for California veterans were introduced in the Legislature yesterday.

One, authored by Sen. George E. Danielson, D-Los Angeles, would increase the maximum limit of a Cal-Vet loan from $15,000 to $20,000. It would require a special veterans bond approval by the voters.

The other, by Assemblyman George Milias, R-Gilroy, would authorize special benefits for California servicemen who served aboard the seized USS Pueblo. The measure would include veterans who served in or near Korea from Jan. 1, 1968 to June 1, 1969.

24 From Vessel Survive Atlantic

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-four persons who abandoned a foundering Canadian vessel at sea were rescued by a Norwegian freighter early today after spending 10 harrowing hours aboard three small lifecraft in the stormy Atlantic.

The 22-man crew of the freighter Charny and two passengers, a man and his wife, were taken aboard the cargo ship Vinni, directed in its rescue effort by U.S. Air Force planes circling overhead.

Novato Council Accepts Speeded-Up Resignation

Novato planning director Mark Philip David has resigned effective at once, and this was accepted at a special meeting of the city council today.

David last week resigned effective March 31, but the council, after a closed meeting Tuesday, said this was too long to keep David. Wednesday, City Mgr. J. Julien Baget dismissed the planner, who had been with the city only three months.

David sent a new letter to the council making his resignation effective today. The council accepted it today.

David has not made it clear why he resigned. Neither Mayor J. Wayne Womack nor Baget have said why the planner was dismissed earlier.

Missing Report Results In Judge Ordering Bandit Suspect Freed

Because a police report from the Marin County Sheriff's office disappeared, a man suspected of robbing and beating the manager of the Hilarita Housing office in Tiburon Monday was released from jail yesterday.

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court ordered Edward Boone Greene, 22, of 343 Drake Avenue, Marin City, freed because no complaint was lodged against him by the district attorney's office. A formal charge can still be filed, however.

Gary W. Thomas, deputy district attorney, said his secretaries had called the sheriff's office several times during the day, asking for the report.

The report arrived in the district attorney's office at about 4:30 p.m., after Green was released, said Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas.

Not so, said Inspector Guido Battaglia of the sheriff's office. The report was delivered to a receptionist at the district attorney's office by 12:15 p.m., he said.

Green and Efram Freeman, 23, of 18 Dutton Court, Marin City, were arrested at 10:30 p.m. Thursday by Lt. William Johnansen of the Tiburon sheriff's sub-station.

Green was booked for suspicion of armed robbery. Freeman was booked for suspicion of possession of a concealed weapon after a revolver was found in their car in the Waldo Point section of Sausalito.

Mrs. Evelyn Hughes, the Hilarita office manager, was released Thursday from Marin General Hospital, where she underwent treatment for head wounds suffered in a pistol whipping at the office Monday.

The question of who lost the police report may have been academic, according to deputy district attorney Thomas.

"We probably would have had to release them pending further investigation anyway," he said.

REAGAN'S NEUTRAL — Cordial, but cautious, Gov. Ronald Reagan welcomes Sen. Thomas Kuchel to Sacramento. The governor yesterday renewed his pledge to retain neutrality in the primary election contest between the veteran Senator and challenger Max Rafferty, who seeks the nomination on the GOP ticket. (AP Wirephoto)

Kuchel Stresses Need Of Tight Crime Curbs

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—U. S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel said today crime in the nation can be restrained with stiff firearms control and regulation of interstate shipments of master keys.

Sen. Kuchel was closeted for 90 minutes with Gov. Ronald Reagan in the Capitol yesterday. He and Reagan reported that the Governor has repeated his pledge to remain neutral in the impending GOP nomination contest between Kuchel and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty.

Kuchel, who announced Thursday his candidacy for re-election, today told the Junior Chamber of Commerce state board of directors the United States can not tolerate "terror of any kind" in the streets.

He called for quick passage of the federal safe streets and crime control act by Congress. Kuchel said the legislation would devote greater resources to the control of crime.

"I support the goals of this legislation and believe this program must be closely coordinated with state and local government," he said.

GUN CONTROL

The 16-year Senate veteran also said the control of firearms would be a great aid in stemming the rising crime rate.

"I believe that each individual state should have the responsibility for the regulation of guns," he said, but added "what we need is a federal law to control, or to regulate, the flow of arms between one state and another."

Kuchel, who is minority Senate whip, also called for regulation of the flow of master keys across state borders.

KEY CURBS

"One of the leading causes of auto theft in America is the uncontrolled sale and miuse of the so-called master key," he said. "For a small, minimal price, any citizen — law-abiding and criminal alike—can obtain a key which will open the doors of literally hundreds of cars."

Kuchel said he has proposed legislation which would require that no master key be shipped through interstate commerce to a person prohibited by state law from receiving or possessing such a key.

"Our grievances, whatever they might be, must be settled in the halls of Congress and in the courts, surely not in the streets," he said.

Graduate Draft Policy Decried

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House education panel asked President Johnson today to make clear whether he will allow enough graduate-level draft deferments this year to avert what educators predict would be a "disastrous" drop in graduate school enrollment.

In a bipartisan letter to Johnson, six members of a special House subcommittee on education said they were "deeply concerned" with the delay in setting deferment regulations and with the prospect graduate school ranks will be depleted by the draft.

Under draft law written last year, Johnson has authority to determine what portion of the nation's graduate students will be subject to the draft. He has not yet announced his policy.

Rail Strike Ends; Trains Roll Again

By United Press International

Missouri Pacific and Seaboard Coast Line freight and passenger trains returned to normal pre-strike schedules today, less than 24 hours after an "interim" agreement ended a four-day walkout by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

The trainmen, who went on strike Monday night in protest against the railroads' reduction of train crews, began returning to work last night.

The strike, marked by scattered incidents of vandalism and harassment, forced supervisory crews to take over trains carrying materiel for the war in Vietnam.

The BRT called off its strike when the union and railroads agreed to make a survey by Feb. 15 into the controversial question of train crews.

A federal judge in Lincoln, Neb., averted a similar strike against the Union Pacific Thursday when he granted a BRT-requested injunction to prevent the line from trimming its train crews.

A Missouri Pacific spokesman said the interim agreement calls for half of the trainmen's jobs that were being worked before the arbitration award three and one-half years ago to be returned by Feb. 15. The railroad will negotiate with the union on the size of the remaining crew, he said.

Orangeburg Curfew Aids Cooling Off

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Encouraged by the racial peace during last night's dusk-to dawn curfew, police and National Guardsmen allowed business to go on as usual today in Orangeburg.

The curfew, imposed after three Negro students were killed and 50 persons injured, will be in effect again tonight, starting at 5 p.m.

J. P. Strom, chief of the State Law Enforcement Division (SLED), said "things look better" today but stressed that the curfew would be continued nightly until order is fully restored.

The curfew and the exodus of most students from two predominantly Negro colleges in the town were generally credited with last night's racial peace. Attempts to integrate a bowling alley Monday night led to nightly demonstrations and Thursday night's three deaths.

Judge Ready To Defend Secrecy Rule

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ventura County Superior Court Judge Marvin Lewis says he will go before the state District Court of Appeals March 14 to justify his decision to conduct a murder trial behind closed doors.

The Appelate Court yesterday issued a writ of mandate ordering Judge Lewis to open the murder trial of William Anthony Clinger, 24, to the press and public. The judge accepted service of the writ but said he will continue to keep the trial closed.

Clinger is accused of the fatal stabbing of Veryl Robert Hays, 44, a bartender, last May 10.

The trial began Jan. 25. A jury was selected but it has not been seated in the courtroom. Instead the judge has closed the courtroom, and witnesses enter and leave each weekday. There is no indication of what is taking place inside.

On Feb. 7 the Oxnard Press-Courier asked the Appellate Court for a writ of mandate to open the trial.

Kennedys Hit On Gun Bans

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The president of the National Rifle Association says the Kennedy brothers in the U.S. Senate are holding up passage of federal gun control legislation.

Harold W. Glassen said in a speech yesterday that "it's not the NRA and its almost one million members who are blocking proposed gun control laws."

He charged Sens. Robert Kennedy of New York and Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts are insisting on their own version of the Dodd gun control bill.

"They have shown no effort at compromise while we have been willing to compromise," Glassen said.

The Dodd measure now before Congress permits dealers to exchange guns in interstate commerce, but makes it illegal to buy guns from an out-of-state dealer.

Glassen also urged that machine guns, sawed-off shot guns and silencers be outlawed.

ADA Split Seen Over McCarthy Endorsement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans for Democratic Action, an alliance of liberals and trade unionists, headed for a showdown today over whether to support the peace candidacy of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., chairman of the Washington, D.C. Democratic Committee, introduced a motion at today's opening of the two-day ADA national board meeting to put the liberal political action group solidly behind McCarthy in his bid to unseat President Johnson.

The move focused attention on a sharp split in the ADA between liberals who strongly support McCarthy and labor-oriented members who prefer Johnson despite their misgivings over his Vietnam policy.

Gus Tyler, assistant president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, took the floor after Rauh introduced his motion at the closed session. Sources said he strongly opposed any ADA endorsement of McCarthy's candidacy.

Blizzard Hits Sierra Crash Rescue Party

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (AP)—A sheriff's helicopter team prepared today to return to snow-swept Pyramid Peak to recover the bodies of three men and a woman found in the wreckage of a light plane.

El Dorado County Sheriff Ernest Carlson said is three-man 'copter crew was grounded for several hours in a near blizzard at the wreckage of the plane previously thought to have only three men aboard.

He said the plane has been positively identified as the one missing en route from Reno, Nev., to Davis near Sacramento on Wednesday, but the victims so far are unidentified.

The only ones reported aboard the plane on take-off were three Sacramento area men: pilot Bruce M. Leer, 37, the plane's owner, Thomas Blackshear, 30, and Nick Kolo.

Searchers said the red-and-white plane plowed into the snow at a 45-degree angle, ripping both wings off.

Gen. Hershey Admits His Desire To Draft Dr. Spock

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey says the United States must remain at the ready with enough military manpower to cope with any international crisis.

Hershey said yesterday this means that in certain situations, such as the hijacking of the USS Pueblo, a higher draft call may be needed.

"Anytime anything happens any place we ought to brace for higher draft calls," he said during a 10-minute news conference while he paid a courtesy call on Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"But I can't plan to deliver more people until the armed forces asks for them," Hershey said. "Obviously we're planning for more people."

While Hershey spoke, 50 anti-draft demonstrators chanted "hell no we won't go" outside Reagan's office. An effort to gain entrance was blocked by state police.

Hershey again took his unyielding stand against adult opponents of the draft, such as Dr. Benjamin Spock, who has been indicted on conspiracy charges.

"I have more desire to try to get hold of these older people that are trying to corrupt our youth," he said. "They're the kind of people I'd like to see punished. I have more sympathy with the kids."

Reagan took the opportunity to reply to Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., who accused the governor of mixing politics with appointments to local draft boards.

Reagan said he has recommended 40 appointees for the posts and all are in line with a national Selective Service directive to name women and persons from minority groups.

"If that constitutes a political maneuver, they'll have to take it up with Washington," Reagan said.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Tuna Boats Sail

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Crews of about 60 tuna boats ended a boycott and went fishing for the first time in three months today, but the 12-boat fleet of the National Marine Terminal (NMT) was not expected to be with them.

Owners of the 60 boats have agreed to a rotation sailing order so there will be enough work for all, but NMT has declined to join the agreement.

Boat owners and fishermen three months ago agreed not to fish for tuna until their demands were met. They demanded, and canneries finally agreed to pay, $307 a ton for yellowfin tuna.

SOVIET-BUILT "BEAGLE"
Old jet bomber spotted near Hanoi

Jet Bombers Seen In North

SAIGON (AP) — American pilots have sighted two and possibly three Soviet-made jet bombers on a North Vietnamese airfield northwest of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The bombers, twin jets capable of carrying bomb loads of 6,000 pounds each, were identified as IL28's, known as Beagles.

It was the first sighting of bombing planes in North Vietnam so far in the war, although the U.S. Air Force six months ago reported the North Vietnamese had six Beagles in their inventory.

The pilots made no claim of hits on the Communist bombers.

The IL28 is classed as a light bomber, carries a three-man crew, can attain speeds of 450 to 550 miles an hour and has a range of 550 to 1,000 miles, depending on its bomb load. It was first put into production in 1950.

Priest Faces Jail Sentence

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Groppi, a firebrand priest prominent in a nonstop campaign for a strong city-wide open housing law, faced a possible fine or jail term today after being convicted of resisting arrest.

Rev. Groppi

A 12-member Circuit Court jury that included one Negro returned the verdict against the white, Roman Catholic cleric yesterday after two hours and 35 minutes of deliberation.

Judge F. Ryan Duffy, who set Monday as the sentencing date, could impose a maximum penalty of a $500 fine, a year in jail or both.

Father Groppi was arrested Aug. 31 as he marched with open housing supporters toward City Hall, in violation of a short-lived ban on demonstrations imposed by Mayor Henry Maier.

Police testified during the two-day trial that he kicked one officer in the chest and cursed while being lifted into a patrol wagon.

The priest, who testified in his own defense yesterday, denied he cursed or kicked anyone. He said he "wiggled" his foot.

Wolden Nears Prison Portals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former San Francisco Assessor Russell L. Wolden is to report to authorities Tuesday to begin serving a prison term of one to 14 years.

Wolden is under sentence for conspiracy and accepting bribes as county assessor.

Yesterday had been the deadline for his surrender but at the request of doctors and his attorney, Wolden's trip to the state medical facility at Vacaville was postponed.

Wolden, 58, who is under treatment for a heart condition, would have had to stay in the city jail through the weekend and Monday's holiday.

KANOYA, Japan (UPI) — Kiichi Nakano, 58, told police today he shot and killed a large eagle last Dec. 19 in self-defense. Police filed charges anyway, accusing him of killing a rare bird protected by law. Nakano said an eagle swooped down and grabbed his dog in its talons. The bird dropped the dog, wheeled and made another dive—this time on Nakano and his wife. Nakano shot it.

Black Point's Reaction Mixed On Mobile Homes

It was not too friendly a homecoming for developer John Kenney at last night's Black Point Improvement Club meeting.

Almost exactly three years ago, he was welcomed with his plans to build a planned community for 7,500 persons on the 710-acre Sartorio Ranch southeast of Highway 37. His new proposal to turn the property into a $10 million mobile home park for just about the same population, got a mixed reception last night.

The project, which might take 10 years to complete — "seven if we're lucky" — will cluster up to 1,800 mobile homes around twin lakes, where his earlier plan had single-family homes. Development of a shopping center, hillside apartments and hilltop homes on his new plan appear almost identical to the earlier plan.

FIRST LOOK

Kenney explained he was giving the Black Point club first look at his proposal, which he will take to the Marin County Planning Commission as soon as possible. He must seek a rezoning to use the special new mobile home parks designation.

The club took no official stand on his proposal because it is not yet before any official Marin County body.

Although some club members sided with Kenney and his planner, David Van Pelt, in arguing that present-day mobile homes are luxurious and could form a good community, others disagreed.

Carpenters Union representative Henry Torget decried Kenney's statistics that 25 per cent of new housing starts nationwide last year were mobile homes, ranging from $7,500 upwards of $40,000.

"Ninety five per cent of them are built in Orange County with non-union labor," Torget said.

TAX ISSUE

He complained that the mobile homes project would give little employment to local labor, and was joined by others in arguing that the structures, depreciating under the vehicle tax laws, would not pay the tax load created by the new population.

Kenney and his staff said studies in Westminster (Orange County) and elsewhere concluded that the mobile home parks did provide a beneficial local tax base.

He described his project as being run like a huge hotel, with 24-hour management, rigid eligibility rules for residents, rentals of $65 a month and up for spaces, extensive private roads, parks and recreation facilities, and complete neighborhood services.

ported from the base that Communist gunners hit a Marine four-engine C130 cargo plane coming in for a landing, igniting 16,000 pounds of fuel. All six crew members were reported killed.

The airfield was ordered closed indefinitely, but it was not immediately known if this was because of the wrecked plane on the runway or because of the Communist gunners, who fired at other planes landing at Khe Sanh earlier in the day.

The 5,000 Marines in the camp, facing an estimated 20,000 North Vietnamese in the surrounding area, depend on the airplanes for supplies.

Rare Cancer Inherited, Medics Think

BOSTON (SS) — A common cancer of the nervous system called neuroblastoma has been found in three girls and a boy in the same family, suggesting that the tumor may be inherited. It occurs in young childresn.

The two pediatricians reporting the cases in the Dec. 7 issue of The New England Journal of Medicine say that to their knowledge this is the first time in which four siblings have had the tumor and the first in which a parent had abnormally high urinary compounds including dopamine, the hormone norepinephrine and VMA (3-methoxy-4-hydroxymandelic acid).

The boy and two of the girls died in spite of treatment by radiation and drugs, but the youngest girl Laurie lived after surgery and therapy with vincristine and cyclophosphamide. When the tumor was first discovered, Laurie was five months old.

Like her mother, she was excreting dopamine, norepinephrine and VMA in her urine in modestly high quantity, indicating a hereditary link.

Dr. Jane Chatten, pathologist and pediatrician, Children's Hospital, Philadelphia, and Dr. Mary L. Voorhess, now of the State University Hospital of Syracuse, report the four cases.

Another report on neuroblastoma in the same issue of the Journal points out that radiotherapy now is successful in curing 35 to 40 per cent of cases. Before 1941 cure depended largely on complete surgical excision.

A team of four physicians from Babies Hospital, New York, and Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons found 50 cases of neuroblastoma in a period of 14 years. Sixteen of the children have survived without recurrence of their tumors for more than three years since diagnosis.

Thirty-three were male; 75 per cent of all cases occurred during the first three years of life. The adrenal gland was the site of origin in 20 patients and 20 more had an adrenal-gland-related tumor.

Diagnosis before the child is one year of age is most hopeful as to outcome.

Bargain Hunter Robbed By Trio

A San Francisco youth who went to Marin City to buy a four-speed automobile transmission at a bargain was robbed of $100 last night by three holdup men.

The Marin City sheriff's station said Frank G. McKeever, 18, went to a service station seeking the man who was to sell him the transmission. Not finding him, he went to a market on Cole Drive, and there met three men who told him they knew where he could find a transmission at a bargain.

McKeever told sheriff's deputies they took him to an apartment house at 79 Cole. They went inside the apartment house. When three men emerged from the apartment house a few minutes later, one of them held a .22 caliber pistol on McKeever and they took his money. Deputies said McKeever was not sure the three men were the same ones who went in.

Pentagon Asks War Trip Delay By Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it has urged congressmen to postpone trips to Vietnam until a later date, presumably after the Viet Cong city offensive is over. But entertainers are free to go.

The Pentagon disclosed this yesterday after being asked about reports of such advice to congressmen. Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., who had planned to leave tomorrow, said he was postponing the trip at the Pentagon's request.

But Pentagon spokesmen said show business figures bound for Vietnam to entertain U.S. servicemen will not have to curtail such trips.

One of these, actor Sebastian Cabot, was due to leave for Vietnam today.

In San Francisco yesterday, Cabot replied readily when asked why he thinks congressmen are being grounded at a time when entertainers are still being cleared for travel.

"Maybe they think actors can do more good than congressmen out there," he said.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Farmland Case Lost By Son

In 1950 Pete, 65, married his second wife. His son, John, didn't like the idea. He asked his father to make a deed to his farm to John, to keep the new wife from getting it should Pete die.

They went to a lawyer and Pete deeded the farm over to his son. The very next day Pete had second thoughts. He did not really want to make out the deed. He had made a mistake. Still he did nothing about it.

Despite the deed, Pete stayed on the farm, paid taxes, and acted as the owner for some years. He then wanted to sell three acres to his neighbor and he had his son, John, sign the deed. Much later Pete wanted to sell the whole farm and move to the city, but John would not sign the deed.

As a result Pete sued, asking the court to "quiet" his title to the land and declare him its owner. Son John replied that he had title to the land. Even if there was a mistake, his father had waited too long to do anything about it — in all, 15 years.

The court first ruled for John, the son, and against Pete, but on appeal the California Supreme Court said that the delay did not bar Pete's lawsuit.

Fortunately for Pete, he had remained on the farm and acted as the rightful owner. Had Pete left the land and brought a suit for fraud, or tried to sue to have the deed revoked, he might well have lost out.

Anyone who delays too long in asserting his claims may lose any rights he might have had in court. A "quiet title action" is an exception.

The law spells out specific periods of time in which to bring lawsuits: In personal injuries, one year; property damages, three years; contracts, four years; and some real property disputes, five years.

Although these time limits may not have passed, a court may still bar a lawsuit under the doctrine of "laches."

Under the doctrine of "laches" a person cannot delay too long if it harms other persons who relied on things as they appeared. Such a laggard may have been wronged; but he knowingly led others to think he was not going to sue. The court may therefore bar his suit especially if the others had made plans and carried them out, relying on his inaction.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

Mexico Has Poor Ratio Of Doctors

MEXICO CITY (SS) — Mexico is in 43rd place among the world's 102 nations in the ratio of doctors to people with 1,700 inhabitants serviced by one doctor, according to a survey released by the Mexican Social Security Institute.

Israel, with one doctor for each 430 inhabitants is in first place, and Ruanda Uganda is last with one medical man for each 144,000.

While Mexico appears to have a fairly good doctor-to-populace distribution, the institute pointed out that this is not the case, due to poor distribution of practitioners, with 39.6 per cent concentrated in Mexico City, which has 14 per cent of the nation's population (now over 6 million).

Of the 2,370 municipalities in the republic only 1,040 have doctors and 1,330 bust

Of the 2,370 municipalities in the republic only 1,040 have doctors and 1,330 lack medical service of any kind. Towns with populations of over 50,000, which account for a total of 12 million of the nation's 44 million people, have 18,322 of the 25,033 doctors registered.

Some 32 million Mexicans, therefore, are attended bybust

Some 32 million Mexicans, therefore, are attended by 6,711 doctors, with this meaning that 71.44 per cent of total population has only 26.5 per cent of the nation's medical men to attend them.

There is a definite need to offer medical men an incentive to remain in Mexico, the institute warned, with guaranteed fringe benefits. This is necessary to keep them from migrating to other countries, especially the United States. In the 1961-65 period, almost 1,000 doctors left Mexico, the institute study revealed.

Deputies Tell Burglary Rash

Sheriff's deputies today reported a wave of burglaries and attempted burglaries Wednesday and Thursday in unincorporated areas near Mill Valley.

More than $800 worth of loot was stolen Wednesday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Vernon Saterlie, 312 Starling Court, Tamalpais Valley. She reported the loss of a $300 white fox stole, a $300 stereophonic phonograph, a $150 tape recorder, three small radios, $11 cash, a bedspread and a wheelbarrow.

Rex C. Simmons of 387 Lowell Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, also reported a burglary Wednesday of his residence. Taken were a coat, sport jacket, a suit, slacks, a motion picture camera and a still camera.

The thieves also drank some of his bourbon, breaking the bottles in his fireplace, and stole two bottles of scotch.

On Thursday Gordon Kiefer of 37 Reed Boulevard, Apt. 1, Strawberry, reported a burglar has stolen a portable television set and six sets of cuff links.

The residence of Victor Lucier, 378 Lowell Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was entered Thursday but deputies reported nothing was taken. The burglars had a snack of beer, tuna sandwiches and root beer on the living room rug.

One apparent burglary attempt was broken up Thursday when Kirk Willat of 6 Sky Road, Alto, arrived home from school for lunch to find two Negro men, 25 to 30 yars old, at the house. One man was standing at a side door wielding a pair of garden clippers. The other was in a car.

One man told Willat he thought the house was his uncle's and he was trying to get in. The pair drove away when Willat said it was his house.

The nickname "wildcatter" for an oil driller was coined by pioneers of the American oil industry. In remote areas of Pennsylvania, wild cats fought at night over food scraps left by daytime drilling crews.

Belvedere Child Bitten; Dog Sought

A dog which bit a six-year-old child in Belvedere yesterday is being sought by Marin County Health Department officials so that the youngster will not have to undergo a painful series of anti-rabies shots.

Peter Racely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Racely of 300 Vista Linda Drive, said the dog was tied to a pole in front of a beauty shop on the Boardwalk. He described the dog as a German shepherd type and black and white. Anyone having information about the animal may call the health department.

Beards have long been frowned on in world armies. From about the third century B.C., soldiers were ordered to shave, not for hygienic reasons but because whiskers give a handhold to an enemy in close fighting.

Car Burglaries Reported By Two

A thief stole a stereophonic tape player from his car Wednesday while it was parked at the College of Marin, Kentfield, Joseph M. Bemers of Sonoma told sheriff's deputies.

Larry B. Brokaw of 696 Las Colindas, Terra Linda, told deputies Wednesday someone stole the spare tire and wheel from the trunk of his Volkswagen.

Break Blamed For Novato Water Lack

An explanation of why water was shut off to a section of Novato for three hours earlier this week was given today by Jerome B. Gilbert, district manager of the North Marin County Water District.

Water to approximately 100 homes in the West Novato area was off Tuesday afternoon while a break in the main was being repaired, Gilbert said.

A crew of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. hit the main along Sutro Avenue shortly after 1 p.m., Gilbert said. The North Marin Water District crews tried to notify all of the homes that the water would be shut off while the repairs were made he said.

The areas affected were Sutro Avenue, the Pleasant Valley School, Wild Horse Valley and West Vineyard Road, he said.

The water was shut off from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m., Gilbert said. said.

Curriculum Report

A description of first grade curriculum will be given by teachers to West Marin Union School District trustees Monday at 8 p.m. at West Marin School.

Parents' Try To Punish Coed Is Fatal

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ault remained in jail today after being arrested yesterday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the suicide death of their daughter, Linda.

The 21-year-old Arizona State University coed died early Monday morning in a Phoenix hospital after she shot herself in the head Sunday rather than kill her pet dog.

The shooting of the animal was ordered by her parents as punishment for the girl spending the night with an Air Force officer, authorities said.

An inquest was held Wednesday and the parents testified they wanted Linda, a divorcee, to be "sorrowful" for her night with the Air Force lieutenant.

Both testified they felt Linda did not know the gun was loaded when she put the barrel to her temple, instead of slaying the dog.

Sgt. John Field, Phoenix police department homicide officer, said the charge was filed against the parents because it was assumed the parents realized the "emotional state of their daughter when they provided her with a loaded pistol."

Rezoning Topic For Larkspur

The Larkspur Planning Commission is scheduled to consider rezoning of property along the west side of Locust Avenue between King and Ward streets at its 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday at City Hall.

Ronald H. Glander, building and planning superintendent, said the property was long ago zoned commercial but failed to develop commercially. The commission may make it multiple residential zoning.

The commission also will consider a landscaping plan of Peter Wikel for an office building at 275 Magnolia Avenue, and a fill permit application by Alice B. Copeland along Magnolia Avenue near Bon Air Road.

HE LIKES BEATLES

San Francisco Symphony's New Maestro Visits For Early Stint

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A young Japanese conductor who likes the Beatles as well as Bach is getting acquainted with members of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra which he will begin conducting in two years.

Seiji Ozawa, 32, was named last week to succeed Josef Krips as musical director of the San Francisco Symphony at the beginning of the 1970-71 season, when Krips will become maestro emeritus.

NOW IN CITY

"It's a marvelous thing for me," said Ozawa on his arrival yesterday in San Francisco for three guest concerts.

The new conductor wore youthful clothes and long, bushy hair, which was matched by a serious, ambitious approach to his career as a conductor. He now heads the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

"Toronto is my first orchestra," Ozawa told newsmen at San Francisco International Airport.

"Until I came with Toronto, I didn't know any of the difficulties of a musical director — with the musicians, the directors, the unions. I have been very happy with the Toronto Symphony. I hope I can do as good work with the San Francisco Symphony."

He said he could not comment on the quality of San Francisco's symphony orchestra because he will only begin his "real work with the orchestra this week" in preparation for guest conducting appearances Feb. 14, 15, and 16. But he said "It is one of the big orchestras in the world."

OLD FRIENDS

The Japanese maestro said he was sentimentally attracted to the San Francisco symphony because it was the first major orchestra to invite him to perform as a guest conductor six years ago.

Ozawa said that, contrary to some rumors, he was not offered a position with the New York Philharmonic, of which he was former assistant conductor, nor with the Chicago Symphony, whose summer Ravinia Festival he has headed for the past four seasons.

LIKES BEATTLES

Ozawa told reports he liked some modern music, including the Beatles, whose "Sergeant Pepper" album he said was very good. "They try so many things, and most successfully," he said.

As for classical music, Ozawa said Bach was once his great favorite and remains among his preferred composers.

"My piano teacher was a specialist in Bach," he said. "I played almost all Bach. I still like Bach, but I like the young musicians. You have to learn every score. I am so busy learning the scores I don't have much time to think about what composers I like best."

TRADITIONS CITED

Ozawa said that while the Japanese tradition in music is "basically different" from the western tradition, the two are "now getting closer."

During the past two or three years, he said Japanese musicians have been "recovering our own traditional music," and gaining recognition for it in Europe and America.

Arriving on the same jet from Japan with Ozawa was Miss Miki Irie of Tokyo and her mother.

Miss Irie, wearing oval sunglasses and a brilliant white fur coat, demurely declined to say when she and the maestro would be married. Their engagement has not yet been "officially announced."

Woman On Probation For Automotive Fray

Pat Davis, 34, of Redwood City was placed on a year's probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for disturbing the peace of Patrick Barnard of 8 Laurel Avenue, San Anselmo, and malicious mischief onhis car.

San Anselmo police said Miss Davis drove her auto at Barnard outside his apartment house. When he escaped by scampering up a flight of stairs, she rammed his car with her vehicle, they said.

Firecrackers, Parade Tonight In Chinatown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pretty, 18-year-old Betty Wong as "Miss Chinatown U.S.A." will lead the annual Chinese New Year's parade tonight as Chinatown welcomes in the "Year of the Monkey."

The parade will begin at 7 p.m. at Bush and Montgomery streets.

The colorful, hour - long parade, made up of some 83 floats, bands and marching units, will wind its way through Chinatown's narrow streets and alleys.

For the first time this year, the festive parade is limited to all-Chinese entries to trim its length to smaller proportions than the hours - long marathon of previous years.

ONLY AN HOUR

Parade director Charles P. Teevin said the parade is expected to take only an hour to pass along the 12-block route, and Chinese Chamber of Commerce officials said it could set patterns for future years.

The lovely Miss Wong, from Sacramento, won her crown over contest entrants from around the world and will be accompanied in the parade by Miss San Francisco Chinatown and a court of princesses.

GREAT DRAGON

Ceremonial lion dancers will prance along the parade route, and the final feature will be a 125-foot golden dragon — "Gum Loog"—weaving its way along the streets on the shoulders of 160 men alternating in teams.

The dragon, made in Hong Kong several years ago for the San Francisco festivities, will find its path strewn with hundreds of exploding firecrackers.

Fire Main Bond Discussion Due

An adjourned meeting on the special assessment district to provide fire mains for Cliff, Crest and Eucalyptus roads will be held Tuesday by the Belvedere City Council.

The council will hear revised reports from engineer Kenneth A. Frost and attorney Edwin N. Ness. The changes were required when the council decided last week that the district should be based on the city's 1915 Act bonds, in which the city will back up security of the assessed property, at less cost to property owners and the city.

It was erroneously reported last Tuesday in a story in the Independent-Journal that the meeting next Tuesday will be a hearing. If the reports are approved at the meeting, the council will then set a hearing, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said.

Four out of five of the nation's 18 million elder citizens maintain their own homes or apartments.

OPERA REVIEW

Dominican Workshop Shows Good Training

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Evidence of some good training in the basics of opera was seen last night at the first public performance of Dominican College's new opera workshop at Angelico Hall.

The hour-long performance, under the stage direction of Arthur Conrad and musical direction of Gertrude Gruenberg, consisted of excerpts from five operas sung by professional and semi-professional singers — four sopranos and two tenors — with a minimum of staging.

With the help of a brief synopsis of each opera read by Suanne O'Hare, the young people were able to suggest character and situation by movement and voice with varying degrees of success.

SIMPLE COSTUME

Costuming, too, was enough to suggest roles, with the exception of those of Madame Butterfly and Columbine and Harlequin, which were more elaborate.

Because of acoustics in Angelico Hall, which has an echo unless filled with an audience, full appreciation of vocal qualities was difficult. This echo gives a harsh edge to voices, especially at full volume, and can make them seem more powerful than they may be.

Nevertheless there were some very enjoyable moments.

In the aria "Voi Lo Sapete, Mama" from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and in the role of Micaela in the duet with Don Jose from Bizet's "Carmen," Lori Kutsko had a voice with a mature, expressive character, enchanced by quite natural action.

It was a big voice of much operatic potentiality, as was that of tenor Melvyn Poll, who sang with her as Don Jose and later as Rodolfo in the excerpt from Puccini's "La Boheme." His voice not only had good tonal quality, but he used it with control of diction that almost overcame the echo disadvantage.

ACTING GRACE

Darlene Brock's voice was clear and expressively modulated in the scene from "La Boheme," but smoother control of dynamics was needed. She showed exceptional grace in the stylized acting as Columbine in the scene from Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci." As Harlequin in the same scene, Fred Lewis' tenor was light but pleasing.

Attractive Joan Smith had a pure and lyric soprano as Nedda in the recitative and aria "The Ballatella" from "I Pagliacci," but her movements seemed memorized rather than as the result of emotional motivation.

In her aria "Un Bel Di" from act II of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," Marjorie Crews sang well but also with rather "practiced" gesture.

Dorothy Nordstrand was the able piano accompanist.

Jets Flying Again

HONG KONG (UPI) — Air Vietnam today resumed commercial jet flights between Saigon and Hong Kong. All commercial flights out of Saigon had been suspended after the Viet Cong attack on the city and Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Easter Seals Parley Slated

Dr. Irma West, consultant in occupational health for the state Department of Public Health, will speak at a Bay Area Easter Seal conference at Tiburon Lodge, Tiburon, at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The theme will be "Safe Living Helps Prevent Crippling," and the focus will be on the role of local Easter Seal societies in fostering a safety community.

More than 50 representatives from nine Bay Area Easter Seal Societies are expected to attend and the Easter Seal Society of Marin will be host.

Caribbean islanders use every part of the coconut palm. Fronds thatch roofs; the waxy blossoms decorate homes; the nutshell converts to charcoal. The meat becomes oil and soap; the soft palm heart makes fine paneling.

Planners Slate Rezone Hearing

Proposed rezoning of three lots at 820-850 Las Gallinas Avenue will be discussed by San Rafael Planning Commission Monday at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Also on the agenda is a request by Edward W. Burgar Inc. to build a six-unit apartment building at 611 B Street, replacing a single family home.

Commissioners will consider a request for a use permit for a drive-in restaurant at 402 Third Street, on property now occupied by the Marin County Humane Society.

New Spring Fashions Say Plan On Looking Feminine

By EUNICE FARMER

Women are in for a rare treat this spring. It's going to be chic again to be pretty. It's going to be stylish to be feminine. This is the message that was given the women of the press when they were presented the spring collections of the top American designers in New York.

There is great freedom in fashion. Gone are the days when women wore a style just because someone announced "it's in." Clothes are gently but surely moving back to the body. It is time for each woman not to push the panic button, but to intelligently reappraise her figure and decide which of the many new changes in outline will flatter her particular contours the most!

Skirt lengths are short as you dare, long as you care! After seeing hundreds of garments for spring, the skirts are unanimously short. The "less than a dozen" midi-length skirts were to be worn after 5 p.m. only.

My advice to all of you who are holding back thinking the skirts will be longer, please don't! Eventually, they will undoubtedly change, but make new things when that time does come and learn to live for today and enjoy it.

Always remember that when lengths change, so do style lines. There must be balance, therefore, no matter how much extra hem you leave in your skirts, it's a sure sign it won't do you any good because the lines of the skirt will be outdated. If you're still timid about this advice, buy extra fabric this spring so you may add another skirt if you need to later on.

DEAR EUNICE:

I am planning a very expensive dress for my daughter's wedding. I want to look up-to-date and yet, the patterns I see are so completely different than the clothes I have been wearing that I haven't the courage to buy them. Would I be better off buying this dress?

MRS. B. P

DEAR MRS. B. P.:

Most of us are very hesitant about accepting changes, whether it's in furniture, houses, or clothes. I would suggest you purchase a piece of fabric suitable for causal wear and make the pattern you are planning to use for your expensive fabric.

It surely won't be a failure. You'll get lots of good from it, and yet you'll know whether you would like it for the wedding.

Many times, if we would wear something new a few times, we would feel that it belonged to us. This is exactly the way you will gain confidence to wear something new and different.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. J. Griminger, Kirkwood, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

My Tailor Trix may save someone a ripping job. When tapering permanent pressed slacks, be sure to take equal amounts off both seams to be sure to have the permanent crease in the center of the legs.

DEAR EUNICE:

It seems that I am always behind schedule with my sewing. I'd love to be planning spring clothes, but here I am still not finished with my winter ones that I've somehow lost my enthusiasm for. Is this a problem I am alone on, or do other women share this same dilemma, too?

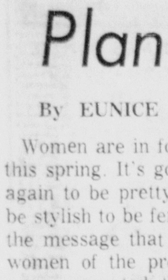
—MRS. A. W.

DEAR MRS. A. W.:

I think lots of gals will get a chuckle out of your question. Most of us plan to do too many things and plain run out of time. My advice to you is to put your winter things away for now and plan something new for spring. If you've gotten along so far without them, you probably won't need them this year.

Always try to keep ahead of the season. It's more fun to be the first to wear your new spring outfit, not the last.

Easter has always meant spring to me, and I could never understand why women wouldn't wear their spring clothes until Easter. Many times it would be too late in the season to actually get any wear from them.



HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Daughter Gets Belt Now, But Father Will Soon Get The Air

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with a real nice girl for six months. The problem is her father. He won't let her go out more than once a week, and she's got to get home before 10:30. We can't even see a double feature movie. Dances are out. He doesn't approve of them. She can't have friends in to visit; or talk on the telephone.

He thinks the places where teens meet to eat and talk are sex-and-sin joints, though most of them around here are so strict they even check the age of kids smoking cigarettes.

For even raising her voice, she's grounded. I never know when she'll call and say, "I can't make it tonight." We never plan ahead because he uses these plans to blackmail her. Sometimes she's working on the extra jobs he makes for her right up until the minute I ring the doorbell, and if she isn't finished, I can't even stay to help her. He's so mean and condescending I'd like to take a poke at him.

She's almost 18. She's shy and unsure of herself, and I want to help her, but how? Don't say, "Talk to her father." He expects obedience without question, or she gets the belt. — GARY

DEAR GARY:

Any help you might offer, in your present mood, would only get your girl in deeper trouble, and she has enough problems already.

But her father has more! She can soon leave, and build a good life of her own. He must live with himself the rest of his days, and I fear they'll be lonely ones.

Your best help: Build up her self-assurance and courage so that she won't be afraid to move out, when the time comes. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 12 years old. Near our house is a church that holds dances for kids from ages 11 to 17. But hardly any older kids go, and if they do they stay in their own groups, as they don't want to associate with what they call the punks. It's well chaperoned. All my junior high friends are allowed to go there.

Well, last year I asked my mother if I could, and she said, "Wait till you're 12." Here I am, and now it's, "Wait another year."

Don't get me wrong. My mother is a wonderful and pretty woman, but stubborn. How can I make her see the dances are safe and fun? — LOST CAUSE

DEAR L.C.:

Why not get your mother to serve as chaperone for a few dances? If this doesn't budge her, well, 13 is a good year for safe fun, and plenty soon. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 16 year old girl with no father. He died when I was nine. All girls should a have a father. I miss mine terribly.

I met a boy who is just wonderful. He was like a father, except younger. At school we hit it off real well, and then he asked me out on a date.

He was so sweet and understanding that I guess I talked too much. But I couldn't help it. He even looks like pictures of my father. So I told him my problems like I might have to my Dad. He hasn't called me since and when I see him at school, he's with a real flirty girl. What did I do wrong? — LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME:

I'd guess you scared this boy away with your father hang-up. All girls need one, true, but if they confuse boyfriend with dad, they end up lonely for both. — H.

Gown Worn To Inaugural Ball Judged Most Authentic

By MOLLY MARIN

"One of the best ever" was the judgment of Mill Valley's Outdoor Art Club members on Thursday's annual jinks that followed an "Our Woman's Club Then and Now."

Many outstanding costumes — required unless those attending were prepared to pay a fine — competed for one prize each in the categories of "most authentic or original," "prettiest" and "funniest."

Costumes ranged from turn of the century to the present. Mrs. Wayne Speckmann won the award for the most authentic with the hand embroidered raw silk gown worn by her aunt and the fan she carried when she attended President Taft's inaugural ball.

Winner of the "prettiest" prize was Mrs. C. I. Dennis, who wore a 1910 handmade outfit with red hat and jacket and white skirt; and tieing for "funniest" prize were Mrs. Lionell Farber in a 1911 gym suit and Mrs. J. M. Hahn dressed in a Mod outfit. A toss of a coin gave the prize to Mrs. Farber.

Honorable mentions in the authentic class went to Mrs. Earl Reinke, who wore her mother's black lace evening gown, Mrs. Roger Verran in her own "new look" 1947 suit and Mrs. Julian Rice, regal in a black lace Paris original she bought there in 1928.

Honorable mention in the "prettiest" class went to Mrs. Sam De Pillo wearing a 1910 white lace and satin gown. Mrs. William Pemberton wearing her mother's wedding gown and Mrs. Alan Ewen, attired in the suit she wore the day she joined the club 10 years ago.

Runnersup in the "funniest" class were the old-fashioned sleep outfit worn by Mrs. Russell C. Mills and Mrs. Joseph Brewster's hodge podge of mixed periods.

WATCHING THE Congressional Cup Yacht Races in Long Beach last week were Dr. and Mrs. Francis Sooy, the Patrick Kirranes and Jack Davises from San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere. The skipper of SFYC's entry, Frank Wosser of Tiburon, and Mrs. Wosser, and crew, Allen Mitchell, and Mrs. Mitchell, Dr. Maurice Smith and Mrs. Smith, Roy Ashley, Gary Mull, Jim Davies and Jerry Rumsey, were all in Long Beach for the important yachting event. Pat and Mary Kirrane went on to San Diego to see the start of the Acapulco Yacht Race and spent a few days in Palm Springs on their return.

SAILING ABOARD the S. S. Monterey tomorrow from San Francisco will be the Fred E. Palmers of Belvedere. The liner will call at various ports in the South Seas, including Bora Bora, Papeete, Auckland, Sydney, Pago Pago and Honolulu.

We can try. But you'll probably sell yourself on Bel Marin Keys.

After all, we can only point out facts about the Bel Marin Keys' way of life. (We like to think they're important.) Things like miles of sheltered waterways maintained at constant sea level and minimum width of 600'. Deep-channel access to oceans and oceans of water. Floating dock and permanently protected dockage rights. Twenty minutes north of the Golden Gate Bridge.

But would you listen? Probably not. You'd be too excited by the expanse of curved lagoons. You'd be too interested in the water activities. Or you'd imagine bringing in your own 40' "Queen Mary" and making fast.

We could tell you about deeded lots with a minimum size of 10,000 square feet. But you'd probably be eyeing the handsome landscaping. Designed for easy maintenance to give you extra recreational time. Or you'd go striding across the full width, clear cedar deck that extends out to the water. Yes, you can land a striper from that deck chair in the corner.

You might perk up a bit when told that Bel Marin Realty has a select group of brand new homes available for occupancy. Now. But then you'd be off inspecting the full carpeting and drapes. The built-in electric range, oven and dishwasher. Or deciding whether you like a three or four bedroom home. Or choosing between California Ranch, French Provincial, Oriental and contemporary styling.

If we could interrupt your tour someplace between the sunken living room and dining room, we'd remark that Bel Marin Keys is regarded as California's finest deep-water resort north of Balboa. But you probably wouldn't hear. Acoustical ceilings.

So we may not make the sale. But after driving to Bel Marin Keys and getting the feel of it, you probably will!

Special Class Withdrawal On Agenda

The San Rafael Board of Education will consider withdrawing from the Marin County Schools Office program for educable mentally retarded pupils at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Administration Building, Third and E Streets.

With board approval, San Rafael City Schools would conduct its own program.

Board members also will hear a report from a citizens-staff committee on the structure of the teachers' salary schedule.

The board also will receive the resignation of William Sewell, principal at Laurel Dell Primary and Short Schools, effective June 30.

There also will be an evaluation of "High Times," a countywide high school newspaper.

Mill Valley Citizen Given BART Raise

John M. Peirce of Mill Valley, director of finance for Bay Area Rapid Transit, is one of 21 top BART officials who have received 5 per cent salary raises, which will cost the district about $25,000 this year.

Peirce, who was formerly general manager for the district, was raised from $30,408 to $31,932.

College Meeting

The Marin Junior College District board will have a study session on budget recommendations at 8 p.m. Thursday at Room B of the College Center at the Kentfield campus.

Jobless Cases Low For January

Although the number of unemployment insurance benefit payments, paid through the San Rafael office, rose in January as compared to December, they were the fewest for any January since 1964, Department of Employment officials said.

Payments were made at the rate of 1,150 a week during January as compared with 970 a week in December, Edwin W. Ayer, office manager said. He added that during January, 1967, they rose to 1,555 a week.

Job placements during January declined to 255 from 272 in December, Ayer added. He said that heavy rains during the month were a factor in contributing to the increase in unemployment and decrease in job placements.

Mill Valley Citizen Given BART Raise

John M. Peirce of Mill Valley, director of finance for Bay Area Rapid Transit, is one of 21 top BART officials who have received 5 per cent salary raises, which will cost the district about $25,000 this year.

Peirce, who was formerly general manager for the district, was raised from $30,408 to $31,932.

College Meeting

The Marin Junior College District board will have a study session on budget recommendations at 8 p.m. Thursday at Room B of the College Center at the Kentfield campus.

Jobless Cases Low For January

Although the number of unemployment insurance benefit payments, paid through the San Rafael office, rose in January as compared to December, they were the fewest for any January since 1964, Department of Employment officials said.

Payments were made at the rate of 1,150 a week during January as compared with 970 a week in December, Edwin W. Ayer, office manager said. He added that during January, 1967, they rose to 1,555 a week.

Job placements during January declined to 255 from 272 in December, Ayer added. He said that heavy rains during the month were a factor in contributing to the increase in unemployment and decrease in job placements.

4 BEDRM. FAM. HOME

with full dining room, a family room & project room off the garage, this is a fine floor plan for a family with children. But it is also on a cul-de-sac with a level entry trimmed by a rolling lawn with a birch tree in the middle, and teen-agers can dance or give BBQ's on the generous patio which is served directly from the family room. Oak trees give charm, shade, and screen the house from the neighbors. The home is virtually on one level with just a few steps up to the master bedroom suite, giving it a little special feeling. Sellers bought this property because it was a pretty house but practical — and located close to Greenbrae School and Redwood High. They are selling because their family has expanded and their 5 bedroom home will be complete in a matter of weeks. This is a happy house offered by pleasant sellers at a reasonable price and they hope you will enjoy the home as much as they have.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Foot And Mouth Disease Leads To Serious Problem In England

VAN DELLEN

Foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) is one of the most contagious and deadly of all animal infections. The recent English epidemic has raged through 18,000 square miles. More than 280,000 cows, bulls, sheep, and pigs, including many prize animals, have been slaughtered.

Thousands of gallons of disinfectant have been sprayed on farms and on the tires of all vehicles passing through infected areas.

In 1920, the United States wiped out the disease via a massive extermination porgram.

Only 14 other countries are free of the malady. France and Germany keep it under control via vaccination. The British have refused to vaccinate their livestock because the vaccine is not 100 per cent effective.

IN ADDITION, the British point out that the disease may stem from one of seven types and 50 subtypes of FMD viruses. Therefore, to be effective, the vaccine must contain specific protective bodies against the viruses responsible for the current outbreak.

Use of the vaccine before an epidemic strikes could mask a mild attack thus leading to a potential source of infection. In my opinion, a mild infection is preferred to having the present situation, in which the disease is so severe, that the animals must be slaughtered

TRUE FOOT-AND-MOUTH disease in humans is rare. Persons who have come into contact with infected cattle develop fever followed by a blister-like eruption on the palms, soles, and in the mouth. The throat is inflamed and the tongue is sore. There is no treatment even though the tetracycline antibiotics are of limited value in animals.

Man's high degree of resistance to FMD is one reason why preventive measures never have been developed. The condition is caused by different types and subtypes of viruses and, in this respect, resembles the many agents responsible for influenza. The English believe that the causative virus came into Britain in meat imported from Argentina that was eaten by pigs.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

LUNG CANCER

O. S. writes: Is the cause of lung cancer known?

REPLY

No, although many physicians are convinced that irritation resulting from inhalation of tobacco smoke is responsible. Air pollution plays a lesser role.

TO REDUCE BOSOM

S. J. writes: This may sound silly to you and many women who read your column, but is there any exercise to reduce the size of the bust?

REPLY

None, except an over-all loss of weight.

LOW-GRADE TUMOR

W. N. F. writes: What does a doctor mean when he says that a tumor is low grade.

REPLY

Many cancers are graded from one to four. Low-grade tumors usually are classed as one because their growth and spread are so slow.

RISE IN WHITE CELLS

E. A. writes: What would cause a high lymph cell count in the blood?

REPLY

The white cell count is elevated in the majority of infections. In leukemia, the number of white cells is excessive.

HOT BATHS RELAX

K. E. R. writes: Do hot baths elevate the blood pressure?

REPLY

ARTHRITIS AT 40

Y. P. writes: I've heard that nearly all older people have arthritis but that it causes pain in only a few. Is this true?

REPLY

Yes. It is estimated that 90 per cent of all persons over 40 would show degenerative changes in weight bearing joints if X-rays were taken of the entire population. Arthritic changes become more pronounced with each decade. But only 5 to 10 per cent of this group has arthritic symptoms.

Today's Health Hint — The home workshop should be out-of-bounds for young children.

BATTLE WITNESS

Marinite Sees Saigon Violence

A Belvedere man was in Saigon during the recent Viet Cong attacks and watched South Vietnamese and American troops defend the Imperial Palace in the downtown sector.

John H. Hoefer, a rear admiral in the Naval Reserve, said he watched from a window in the Embassy Hotel, across the street from the palace, as an allied force sought to rout mortar-firing Viet Cong from a hotel under construction up the street.

"The Viet Cong had apparently holed up in the hotel after bringing in guns and explosives the night before," Hoefer said. A mortar attack on the sprawling palace was unsuccessful, he said.

Hoefer, who traveled to the Far East in mid-January on special assignment for the Naval Reserve, left South Vietnam for Thailand on the eve of the Tet (Lunar New Year) celebration, then returned at the climax of the major battles Feb. 1.

He said he rode into the city from Tan Son Nhut Airport in a guarded car. Frightened residents had fled the streets, Hoefer reported, although there was plenty of military activity.

Bodies were lying in the streets near the Embassy Hotel when he arrived, Hoefer said.

Hoefer, an advertising executive in San Francisco, reported the Viet Cong were well armed, in some cases smuggling weapons into the city in coffins. This could be done, he said, because of the great number of funerals.

The purpose of Hoefer's 20-day trip was to gather current information on Naval activities in the Vietnam area. Hoefer commands a public affairs company.

JOHN H. HOEFER
Back from Saigon

As to the Tet celebration, Hoefer said: "I never heard such a racket in my life, as millions of fireworks went off and then the sound of gunfire was added to it.

"It is like the sound of New Year in Chinatown multiplied 50 times. It's like an explosion in a dynamite factory and it went on for three days and three night."

Finding the morale of American troops "remarkably good," Hoefer said, however, that "how much we can and will take has got to be a paramount question of the age."

Hoefer lives at 32 Peninsula Road. He has a wife and five children, including two married daughters.

Mobile Home Park Moratorium Urged

Novato Planning Commission may consider a six-months freeze on mobile home parks development at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the Community House.

Commissioner Mrs. Patricia Beyer has written her fellow commissioners urging the moratorium both within the city and in Marin County, to allow study and alterations of city and county master plans to designate proper areas for the recently adopted mobile home zoning.

She explained her proposal last night to the Black Point Improvement Club, which also heard of plans for an 1,800-unit mobile homes and planned community development on the old Satori Ranch. (See story page 1.)

LIBRARY SITE

The city planning commission also will study the proposed site for the Novato branch of the Marin County Library Monday.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors has selected a site at the northwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Seventh Street for a library site. It and the Marin County Planning Commission have asked for the opinion of the Novato Planning Commission on this site.

The site is adjacent to an existing commercial development and within the area suggested by the Novato downtown study committee.

SIGN REQUEST

Newspaper Default Suit Filed On Sale

Stephen McNamara, owner and publisher of the Pacific Sun weekly newspaper, is in default on his agreement to purchase the paper, according to a suit filed by the publication's previous owners in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

The action was brought by Merril D. Grohman and his wife, Joann H. Grohman, who sold the newspaper to McNamara in December, 1966.

McNamara claims the assets and liabilities of the Pacific Sun were misreported at the time of the sale, the suit says. The Grohmans denied this.

The claim he has breached the sale contract by refusing to execute and deliver a financing statement and his consent to transfer shares in the paper to the Grohmans in the event of his default.

The Grohmans asked that a judge declare the rights of themselves and McNamara under the agreement.

The asked that he be permanently restrained from selling, transfering or encumbering the shares of the paper which are being held as security for the sale.

He should be ordered to deliver the financing statement to the Grohmans, the suit says because, without the statement, the stock shares are vulnerable to sale.

The Grohmans ask that they get the shares back if McNamara does not cure this alleged default within 30 days of notice.

Novato Council To Discuss 101 Traffic Patrol Need

Novato City Council again will discuss the patroling of Highway 101 through the City of Novato when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Community House.

The California Highway Patrol has notified the city that it will not patrol the highway through the city after June 1.

The council has responded by stating that the highway patrol should not stop patroling Highway 101 until the freeway by-pass has been constructed around the city.

Other items to come before the council include: the annexation of the Pacific Gas and Electric substation in Ignacio; a traffic safety committee report; payment of the city's share on the Marin County Airport at Novato and a closed session to select members for the new beautification committee and replace vacancies on the downtown study committee.

Six Bids Reported For Post Office

Six bids ranging from $16,556 to $23,908 have been received for a maintenance garage for San Rafael post office vehicles, according to the real estate division of the post office department in San Francisco.

The building will be constructed on Simms Street next to the new post office.

Old Mill Repairs On Commission List

A report on repair of Old Mill, the Mill Valley landmark damaged by a falling tree Jan. 30, will be presented when the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the city library.

The meeting was delayed from Monday because of Lincoln's birthday. The commission will also discuss a new route proposal for extension of Sycamore Avenue.

United States Blanked In Three Olympic Events

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — A record-breaking blonde from Helsinki dashed American hopes for another speed skating medal coup in the Winter Olympics today and the injury-plagued U.S. ski team lost teenager Karen Budge before the start of the women's downhill race, won by Austria's Olga Pall.

The United States finished out of the medal running in all three of the day's early events—the women's 1,500-meter speed skating test, the girls' downhill and the men's 15-kilometer cross-country ski race.

NEW RECORD

Finland's Kaija Mustonen set an Olympic record of two minutes, 22.4 seconds and Dutch girls finished 2-3 in the speed skating event. Miss Pall, a shapely 20-year-old brunette, beat Isabelle Mir of France and Austrian teammate Christl Haas with a brilliant 1:40.87, clocking in the downhill. Norwegian lumberjack Harald Groenningen took the 9.3-miles cross-country grind in 47 minutes, 54.2 seconds, outdistancing defending gold medalist Eero Maentyranta of Finland.

It was highly improbable she would be recovered in time to go in the giant slalom next Thursday, final women's Alpine event of the Games.

Jere Elliott and Jim Barrows, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., were injured in spills during the men's downhill yesterday.

"It's like a nightmare—all these injuries," said Bob Beattie, coach of the U.S. Alpine team. He said there was a slight chance Karen would be able to ski in the giant slalom.

Miss Budge, who had been the top U.S. medal hope in the downhill, was testing her ski wax on the practice slopes when a male skier from another team cut across her path. She came to an abrupt stop and avoided the man but then tumbled.

She was taken to the Olympic village in Chamrousse for treatment.

BEST FOR U.S.

Newcomer Kiki Cutter, 18-year-old college coed from Bend, Ore., made the best showing of the three U.S. girls who started the race. She finished 17th with a time of 1:44.94.

Sandra Shellworth of Boise, Idaho, added to the downhill contingent after Robin Morning broke a leg in practice last Monday, was 21st in 1:46.53 and Suzy Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., 28th in 1:48.50.

Miss Pall made her winning run minutes after Miss Mir, of France's highly-rated girls' team, had taken the lead with a 1:41.33 clocking. Miss Haas, the 1964 gold medalist in the downhill, finished in 1:41.41 to capture the bronze award.

"I had a perfect run," said Olga. "Naturally I had hoped to win, but I didn't dare think of my chances. I am the happiest girl in the world."

DISAPPOINTED

Marielle Goitschel of France and Canada's Nancy Greene, two of the pre-race favorites, finished eighth and 10th respectively. "I'm very disappointed and I'm not sure how to explain it," said Miss Greene, the 1967 World Cup titlist. "It was a really bad day."

Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., one of the three U.S. speed skaters who finished in an unprecedented triple tie for the silver medal in yesterday's 500-meter test, was paired with Miss Mustonen today in the 1,500 meter race against the clock.

But Dianne had to settle for a 13th place finish, in 2:28.5, while veterans Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, N.Y., and Jeanne Omelenchuk of Warren, Mich., came in 16th and 25th.

RECORD FALLS

Miss Mustonen, a 26-year-old Helsinki typist, broke the Olympic 1,500 mark of 2:25.2 set four years ago by Lydia Skoblikova, Russia's quadruple gold medal winner at Innsbruck. Carry Geijssen and Stien Kaiser, both of the Netherlands, also broke the old record while finishing second and third, respectively.

"This Mustonen depressed me," said Miss Holum, 16, of her head-to-head duel with the winner. "She got so far ahead, I almost gave up."

Mrs. Omelenchuk, at 36 oldest member of the U.S. Olympic squad, said she will continue to race in international competition despite her low finish. "I think I will even try to go to Japan in 1972," she said.

FINISHES 11TH

Miss Skoblikova failed in her bid to become the first Olympic athlete ever to capture seven gold medals, finishing 11th. Her Russian teammate, Ludmila Titova, won the 500 yesterday, was seventh.

Americans fared poorly, as expected in the cross-country race—second men's Nordic event in the Games. Mike Gallagher of Killington, Vt., led the four-man U.S. continegent with a 34th place wind-up. He was 27th in the 30-kilometer grind Wednesday.

Mike Elliott, Durango, Colo., was 41st; Bob Gray, Putney, Vt., 48th and Larry Damon, a native of Vermont who now lives in Norway, 55th in the field of 76 starters.

Gallagher, however, finished ahead of Italy's Franco Nones, the gold medal winner in the 30-kilometer race. Nones was 36th today.

Giants' Second Base Problem Is Distorted

So much was written this winter about the second base problem of the Giants that it became a bit distorted. It is a problem but not a desperate one.

Tito Fuentes didn't look like Bill Mazeroski on the double play pivot. What second baseman in either major league does look like the Pittsburgh perfectionist?

But Fuentes didn't butcher DPs like some of his critics said he did. In fact, he made a most respectable number of double plays.

In 1966 Fuentes and his D.P. partner, Hal Lanier, did have trouble in turning over critical double plays. However, last season they handled the double play with reasonable efficiency.

Mazeroski and Gene Alley, Pittsburgh's D.P. combo, led the National League in double plays last season with 186. That was to b expected. Mazeroski is a second base magician who probably could make the double play with a dummy at shortstop for his partner.

Phils Second On D.P. List

Bobby Wine, classiest fielding shortstop in the N.L., put Philadelphia in the No. 2 slot on double plays last season. Wine worked with Cookie Rojas and Tony Taylor who alternated at second base. The Philadelphia double play total for 1967 was 174.

Guess who was third? None other than the Giants with a total of 149 double plays, most of which were made by Lanier and Fuentes. Admittedly, 149 is a sharp drop from Pittsburgh's league leading total of 186 and Philadelphia's runner-up mark of 174. But the 149 also represents a decided improvement on the 1966 total of 131 made by Giant infielders. In 1966, incidentally, the Giants finished No. 8 in the league on double plays.

Hitting Was Tito's Problem

Fuentes' failure to hit was his big problem last year, not his glove. He also encountered some difficulty in covering ground after spraining an ankle in spring training. But his .209 bat was what prompted the Giants to go shopping in the winter marts for a second baseman. They made no deal because of still trading values put on proven second basemen.

There are three young men on the Giant roster who will give Fuentes a run for the second base job this spring. They are Cesar Gutierrez, Bob Schroder and Don Mason.

Gutierrez is a shortstop, all-star shortstop last season in the Coast League which he led with a .322 batting average. But he could indirectly move Fuentes off second. Herman Franks might decide to shift the shortstop-second base setup again by moving Lanier back to second and putting Gutierrez at short.

Like Game Of Musical Chairs

However, Franks would like to solve the second base problem without moving Lanier again. He would make such a move most reluctantly. But he would do it if a direct solution is not found at second base by Fuentes himself, Schroder, Mason or a belated trade.

Could the Giants win the 1968 National League pennant with the club the way it is?

"I don't think there is any question about that," said Chub Fenney.

Nevertheless, the vice president of the ball club promised Franks he would keep the door open for any reasonable offers on second basemen with a competent bat and glove. There still is plenty of time to make a deal. The trading deadline in the National League is June 15.

Tam Quint Regains Prep Lead

Terra Linda, Drake Triumph

By GARY TISCHLER

They packed more than 2,200 fairly partisan fans into the biggest high school gymnasium in Marin County last night to watch the big Marin County Athletic League basketball headliner — Tamalpais at Redwood.

What the fans saw must have disappointed most of them. They watched Tamalpais regain the league lead and Redwood lose it in a hectic see-saw match that ended a five-game Giant win streak, 50-45.

BACK TO FORM

They watched a fiercely proud Pat Schafer regain a large measure of the stature he had lost in a so-so performance against Marin Catholic last week despite being hampered by an ear infection.

They watched Schafer and lithe Floyd Jackson combine for a two-man show that overshadowed a tightly controlled first-half Redwood effort and the late second-half heroics of Tom Seidenberg.

Schafer, operating at what coach Bernie Schneider called 90 per cent efficiency prior to the game, looked 100 proof as he scored 17 points, commanded the boards with 15 rebounds and blocked six shots.

FINDS TOUCH

Jackson, after a slow, wild first-period start, found the electric touch in the second period and went on to score 24 points, including 10 in the second period that saw the Indians take the lead for keeps.

Seidenberg scored 17 points. He was helped by spunky Darel Ravani, who scored 14.

In other games, Terra Linda, after seven losses, finally broke into the win column, overtaking Novato, 68-65 in three overtimes, and Drake blasted San Rafael, 64-47.

NOT EASY

The Indians, who had taken the Giants easily in their first meeting, never had it easy this time.

Redwood played a superbly controlled, tight game in the first half, taking good shots and making them at a 62 per cent clip from the field.

The Giants led, 13-9, after one quarter and traded buckets early in the second quarter. With Ken Johnson hitting three for three, they reeled off six straight fielders in the second period without a miss, but it wasn't enough to hold the lead.

Jackson, who was one-for-six in the first period, took the Indians into the lead on a pair of free throws, a lofting corner swisher and another jumper from the corner for a 27-26 halftime edge after Redwood had opened up a 24-21 advantage.

Baylor, West Too Much For Warriors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elgin Baylor and Jerry West shot the Los Angeles Lakers to a 122-104 victory over the San Francisco Warriors last night in National Basketball Association play.

Baylor with 30 points and West with 27 led the Lakers to their second victory in five games this year with the Warriors.

Pros Tearing Up Course

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tom Weiskopf led a beating on par entering the third round of the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament today as Jack Nicklaus "shut off like a faucet" and Arnold Palmer "ran out of gas."

Weiskopf turned in a 68 yesterday to go with an opening day 66 for a 134, 10 strokes under par on the par 36-36—72 test.

Rain fell last night and more was expected today with resultant higher scores. But already par had taken a beating. Sixty-two of the 73 players left were still under par after two rounds as compared with 66 in the first round.

Weiskopf, 25, from Bedford, Ohio, held a one-stroke-lead over Dave Hill of Evergreen, Colo., who had 67-68. Third at 136 was Nicklaus, the closest of the big three in the action. Billy Casper had a 140 and Palmer a 144.

Weiskopf shot a well-balanced 34-34—68 and yesterday's cold, cloudy weather didn't bother him.

Not so for Nicklaus or Palmer. Nicklaus started with a 32 and ended with a 37 when the cold physically got to his touch.

Palmer, whose 72-72—144 just made the cut, was very honest. He said he is tired after five straight weeks of tournament play and he couldn't have cared less if he didn't survive for the final two rounds.

Casper, with 68-70, is still in the running.

"With all the fairways I missed, I should have been 10 over par. I'm lucky I finished without getting injured," he said as he retired to the practice tee after the round.

"All of a sudden I just shut off like a faucet," Nicklaus said, referring to his hot first nine of 32 and wobbly last in which he bogeyed three holes for a 37.

"I just ran out of gas. Too many week in a row," said Palmer.

The first round leader with 64, Jimmy Powell of Riverside, became an also-ran yesterday. He shot a 76. His putter was colder than the elements. Powell needed only 27 putts Thursday. He took 37 yesterday. He had eight birdies Thursday, just one yesterday.

Cerrudo Says He'll Try Again In Phoenix

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — In weather that matched his mood — dreary and depressing — Ron Cerrudo yesterday involuntarily ended his stay at Torrey Pines Gold Course.

Cerrudo shot a three-over par 36-38—74 in the second round of the $165,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open, giving him a 36-hole score of 71-74—145. Ron thus missed the cut for the final two rounds — by one stroke.

Cerrudo birdied the first hole at seaside Torrey Pines Golf Course, and appeared to be on his way. And 16 holes later, after he adquired his fifth bogey of the day, Cerrudo was on his way to Phoenix.

"I don't know," said Cerrudo, as he trudged off the 18th green, "Every time I needed to make a big shot, I couldn't do it."

"I missed greens a lot of times," said the San Rafael pro, "and then when I had chances for birdie putts I didn't hit the ball hard enough."

Previously, Cerrudo had said if he played poorly at San Diego he would return home for lessons. But he changed his mind.

"I'm going to Phoenix and try to qualify for the Phoenix Open," mumbled Cerrudo. "I've got to keep trying."

Cerrudo, who was even par 36 on the front nine — three birdies and three bogeys — went two over for the back nine when he bogeyed the 425-yard 17th with a five.

Figuring he would need a birdie four on the par-five 18th, a hole he eagled Thursday, to stay in the tourney, Cerrudo went for the green in two.

But his three wood drifted into trap on the left side of the green. He pitched out some 30 feet below the flag, still with one last chance. But the putt was off the right, two feet from the cup.

"No chance," he muttered at someone in the gallery. "There's no chance I'll make the cut."

Unfortunately, he was right.

Santa Clara Retains Slim Lead In WCAC Cage Race

Santa Clara stayed a half game ahead of Loyola and San Francisco last night in the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball race, beating Pacific 98-83 at Stockton after a quick first quarter attack.

Santa Clara hit 10 of its first 14 shots from the floor and shot at a 50 per cent clip for the game.

The Broncos, who take a 6-1 conference mark into tonight's game against St. Mary's, 1-5, at Richmond, were led by Dennis Awtrey's 34 points. Fred Carpenter led Pacific with 17.

San Francisco downed St. Mary's 80-68 at Richmond while Loyola defeated San Jose State 83-72 in Los Angeles. Tom Brown's 28 points paced San Francisco and Jerry West's 19 led St. Mary's.

Rick Adelman scored 33 points and Paul Deyden grabbed 14 rebounds in leading Loyola. Reserve forward Dick Groves paced San Jose with 18.

Another reserve, Breck Maclaren, scored 27 points in leading the University of California at Santa Barbara over Pepperdine, 100-92. Steve Ebey led the losers with 26.

San Francisco, 5-1, will play Pacific, 3-3, today in a televised game at Stockton. San Jose State, 3-3, is at Pepperdine, 0-6, in the afternoon, and Santa Barbara, 2-5, is at Loyola, 5-1, tonight.

Newspaper Default Suit Filed On Sale

Stephen McNamara, owner and publisher of the Pacific Sun weekly newspaper, is in default on his agreement to purchase the paper, according to a suit filed by the publication's previous owners in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

The action was brought by Merril D. Grohman and his wife, Joann H. Grohman, who sold the newspaper to McNamara in December, 1966.

McNamara claims the assets and liabilities of the Pacific Sun were misreported at the time of the sale, the suit says. The Grohmans denied this.

The claim he has breached the sale contract by refusing to execute and deliver a financing statement and his consent to transfer shares in the paper to the Grohmans in the event of his default.

The Grohmans asked that a judge declare the rights of themselves and McNamara under the agreement.

The asked that he be permanently restrained from selling, transfering or encumbering the shares of the paper which are being held as security for the sale.

He should be ordered to deliver the financing statement to the Grohmans, the suit says because, without the statement, the stock shares are vulnerable to sale.

The Grohmans ask that they get the shares back if McNamara does not cure this alleged default within 30 days of notice.

Novato Council To Discuss 101 Traffic Patrol Need

Novato City Council again will discuss the patroling of Highway 101 through the City of Novato when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Community House.

The California Highway Patrol has notified the city that it will not patrol the highway through the city after June 1.

The council has responded by stating that the highway patrol should not stop patroling Highway 101 until the freeway by-pass has been constructed around the city.

Other items to come before the council include: the annexation of the Pacific Gas and Electric substation in Ignacio; a traffic safety committee report; payment of the city's share on the Marin County Airport at Novato and a closed session to select members for the new beautification committee and replace vacancies on the downtown study committee.

Six Bids Reported For Post Office

Old Mill Repairs On Commission List

A report on repair of Old Mill, the Mill Valley landmark damaged by a falling tree Jan. 30, will be presented when the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the city library.

The meeting was delayed from Monday because of Lincoln's birthday. The commission will also discuss a new route proposal for extension of Sycamore Avenue.

United States Blanked In Three Olympic Events

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — A record-breaking blonde from Helsinki dashed American hopes for another speed skating medal coup in the Winter Olympics today and the injury-plagued U.S. ski team lost teenager Karen Budge before the start of the women's downhill race, won by Austria's Olga Pall.

The United States finished out of the medal running in all three of the day's early events—the women's 1,500-meter speed skating test, the girls' downhill and the men's 15-kilometer cross-country ski race.

NEW RECORD

Finland's Kaija Mustonen set an Olympic record of two minutes, 22.4 seconds and Dutch girls finished 2-3 in the speed skating event. Miss Pall, a shapely 20-year-old brunette, beat Isabelle Mir of France and Austrian teammate Christl Haas with a brilliant 1:40.87, clocking in the downhill. Norwegian lumberjack Harald Groenningen took the 9.3-miles cross-country grind in 47 minutes, 54.2 seconds, outdistancing defending gold medalist Eero Maentyranta of Finland.

It was highly improbable she would be recovered in time to go in the giant slalom next Thursday, final women's Alpine event of the Games.

Jere Elliott and Jim Barrows, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., were injured in spills during the men's downhill yesterday.

"It's like a nightmare—all these injuries," said Bob Beattie, coach of the U.S. Alpine team. He said there was a slight chance Karen would be able to ski in the giant slalom.

Miss Budge, who had been the top U.S. medal hope in the downhill, was testing her ski wax on the practice slopes when a male skier from another team cut across her path. She came to an abrupt stop and avoided the man but then tumbled.

She was taken to the Olympic village in Chamrousse for treatment.

BEST FOR U.S.

Newcomer Kiki Cutter, 18-year-old college coed from Bend, Ore., made the best showing of the three U.S. girls who started the race. She finished 17th with a time of 1:44.94.

Sandra Shellworth of Boise, Idaho, added to the downhill contingent after Robin Morning broke a leg in practice last Monday, was 21st in 1:46.53 and Suzy Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., 28th in 1:48.50.

Miss Pall made her winning run minutes after Miss Mir, of France's highly-rated girls' team, had taken the lead with a 1:41.33 clocking. Miss Haas, the 1964 gold medalist in the downhill, finished in 1:41.41 to capture the bronze award.

"I had a perfect run," said Olga. "Naturally I had hoped to win, but I didn't dare think of my chances. I am the happiest girl in the world."

DISAPPOINTED

Marielle Goitschel of France and Canada's Nancy Greene, two of the pre-race favorites, finished eighth and 10th respectively. "I'm very disappointed and I'm not sure how to explain it," said Miss Greene, the 1967 World Cup titlist. "It was a really bad day."

Dianne Holum of Northbrook, Ill., one of the three U.S. speed skaters who finished in an unprecedented triple tie for the silver medal in yesterday's 500-meter test, was paired with Miss Mustonen today in the 1,500 meter race against the clock.

But Dianne had to settle for a 13th place finish, in 2:28.5, while veterans Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, N.Y., and Jeanne Omelenchuk of Warren, Mich., came in 16th and 25th.

RECORD FALLS

Miss Mustonen, a 26-year-old Helsinki typist, broke the Olympic 1,500 mark of 2:25.2 set four years ago by Lydia Skoblikova, Russia's quadruple gold medal winner at Innsbruck. Carry Geijssen and Stien Kaiser, both of the Netherlands, also broke the old record while finishing second and third, respectively.

"This Mustonen depressed me," said Miss Holum, 16, of her head-to-head duel with the winner. "She got so far ahead, I almost gave up."

Mrs. Omelenchuk, at 36 oldest member of the U.S. Olympic squad, said she will continue to race in international competition despite her low finish. "I think I will even try to go to Japan in 1972," she said.

FINISHES 11TH

Miss Skoblikova failed in her bid to become the first Olympic athlete ever to capture seven gold medals, finishing 11th. Her Russian teammate, Ludmila Titova, won the 500 yesterday, was seventh.

Americans fared poorly, as expected in the cross-country race—second men's Nordic event in the Games. Mike Gallagher of Killington, Vt., led the four-man U.S. continegent with a 34th place wind-up. He was 27th in the 30-kilometer grind Wednesday.

Mike Elliott, Durango, Colo., was 41st; Bob Gray, Putney, Vt., 48th and Larry Damon, a native of Vermont who now lives in Norway, 55th in the field of 76 starters.

Gallagher, however, finished ahead of Italy's Franco Nones, the gold medal winner in the 30-kilometer race. Nones was 36th today.

Giants' Second Base Problem Is Distorted

So much was written this winter about the second base problem of the Giants that it became a bit distorted. It is a problem but not a desperate one.

Tito Fuentes didn't look like Bill Mazeroski on the double play pivot. What second baseman in either major league does look like the Pittsburgh perfectionist?

But Fuentes didn't butcher DPs like some of his critics said he did. In fact, he made a most respectable number of double plays.

In 1966 Fuentes and his D.P. partner, Hal Lanier, did have trouble in turning over critical double plays. However, last season they handled the double play with reasonable efficiency.

Mazeroski and Gene Alley, Pittsburgh's D.P. combo, led the National League in double plays last season with 186. That was to b expected. Mazeroski is a second base magician who probably could make the double play with a dummy at shortstop for his partner.

Phils Second On D.P. List

Bobby Wine, classiest fielding shortstop in the N.L., put Philadelphia in the No. 2 slot on double plays last season. Wine worked with Cookie Rojas and Tony Taylor who alternated at second base. The Philadelphia double play total for 1967 was 174.

Guess who was third? None other than the Giants with a total of 149 double plays, most of which were made by Lanier and Fuentes. Admittedly, 149 is a sharp drop from Pittsburgh's league leading total of 186 and Philadelphia's runner-up mark of 174. But the 149 also represents a decided improvement on the 1966 total of 131 made by Giant infielders. In 1966, incidentally, the Giants finished No. 8 in the league on double plays.

Hitting Was Tito's Problem

Fuentes' failure to hit was his big problem last year, not his glove. He also encountered some difficulty in covering ground after spraining an ankle in spring training. But his .209 bat was what prompted the Giants to go shopping in the winter marts for a second baseman. They made no deal because of still trading values put on proven second basemen.

There are three young men on the Giant roster who will give Fuentes a run for the second base job this spring. They are Cesar Gutierrez, Bob Schroder and Don Mason.

Gutierrez is a shortstop, all-star shortstop last season in the Coast League which he led with a .322 batting average. But he could indirectly move Fuentes off second. Herman Franks might decide to shift the shortstop-second base setup again by moving Lanier back to second and putting Gutierrez at short.

Like Game Of Musical Chairs

However, Franks would like to solve the second base problem without moving Lanier again. He would make such a move most reluctantly. But he would do it if a direct solution is not found at second base by Fuentes himself, Schroder, Mason or a belated trade.

Could the Giants win the 1968 National League pennant with the club the way it is?

"I don't think there is any question about that," said Chub Fenney.

Nevertheless, the vice president of the ball club promised Franks he would keep the door open for any reasonable offers on second basemen with a competent bat and glove. There still is plenty of time to make a deal. The trading deadline in the National League is June 15.

Santa Clara Retains Slim Lead In WCAC Cage Race

Santa Clara stayed a half game ahead of Loyola and San Francisco last night in the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball race, beating Pacific 98-83 at Stockton after a quick first quarter attack.

Santa Clara hit 10 of its first 14 shots from the floor and shot at a 50 per cent clip for the game.

The Broncos, who take a 6-1 conference mark into tonight's game against St. Mary's, 1-5, at Richmond, were led by Dennis Awtrey's 34 points. Fred Carpenter led Pacific with 17.

San Francisco downed St. Mary's 80-68 at Richmond while Loyola defeated San Jose State 83-72 in Los Angeles. Tom Brown's 28 points paced San Francisco and Jerry West's 19 led St. Mary's.

Rick Adelman scored 33 points and Paul Deyden grabbed 14 rebounds in leading Loyola. Reserve forward Dick Groves paced San Jose with 18.

Another reserve, Breck Maclaren, scored 27 points in leading the University of California at Santa Barbara over Pepperdine, 100-92. Steve Ebey led the losers with 26.

San Francisco, 5-1, will play Pacific, 3-3, today in a televised game at Stockton. San Jose State, 3-3, is at Pepperdine, 0-6, in the afternoon, and Santa Barbara, 2-5, is at Loyola, 5-1, tonight.

Terra Linda, Drake Triumph

By GARY TISCHLER

They packed more than 2,200 fairly partisan fans into the biggest high school gymnasium in Marin County last night to watch the big Marin County Athletic League basketball headliner — Tamalpais at Redwood.

What the fans saw must have disappointed most of them. They watched Tamalpais regain the league lead and Redwood lose it in a hectic see-saw match that ended a five-game Giant win streak, 50-45.

BACK TO FORM

They watched a fiercely proud Pat Schafer regain a large measure of the stature he had lost in a so-so performance against Marin Catholic last week despite being hampered by an ear infection.

They watched Schafer and lithe Floyd Jackson combine for a two-man show that overshadowed a tightly controlled first-half Redwood effort and the late second-half heroics of Tom Seidenberg.

Schafer, operating at what coach Bernie Schneider called 90 per cent efficiency prior to the game, looked 100 proof as he scored 17 points, commanded the boards with 15 rebounds and blocked six shots.

FINDS TOUCH

Jackson, after a slow, wild first-period start, found the electric touch in the second period and went on to score 24 points, including 10 in the second period that saw the Indians take the lead for keeps.

Seidenberg scored 17 points. He was helped by spunky Darel Ravani, who scored 14.

In other games, Terra Linda, after seven losses, finally broke into the win column, overtaking Novato, 68-65 in three overtimes, and Drake blasted San Rafael, 64-47.

NOT EASY

The Indians, who had taken the Giants easily in their first meeting, never had it easy this time.

Redwood played a superbly controlled, tight game in the first half, taking good shots and making them at a 62 per cent clip from the field.

The Giants led, 13-9, after one quarter and traded buckets early in the second quarter. With Ken Johnson hitting three for three, they reeled off six straight fielders in the second period without a miss, but it wasn't enough to hold the lead.

Jackson, who was one-for-six in the first period, took the Indians into the lead on a pair of free throws, a lofting corner swisher and another jumper from the corner for a 27-26 halftime edge after Redwood had opened up a 24-21 advantage.

Pros Tearing Up Course

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tom Weiskopf led a beating on par entering the third round of the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open golf tournament today as Jack Nicklaus "shut off like a faucet" and Arnold Palmer "ran out of gas."

Weiskopf turned in a 68 yesterday to go with an opening day 66 for a 134, 10 strokes under par on the par 36-36—72 test.

Rain fell last night and more was expected today with resultant higher scores. But already par had taken a beating. Sixty-two of the 73 players left were still under par after two rounds as compared with 66 in the first round.

Weiskopf, 25, from Bedford, Ohio, held a one-stroke-lead over Dave Hill of Evergreen, Colo., who had 67-68. Third at 136 was Nicklaus, the closest of the big three in the action. Billy Casper had a 140 and Palmer a 144.

Weiskopf shot a well-balanced 34-34—68 and yesterday's cold, cloudy weather didn't bother him.

Not so for Nicklaus or Palmer. Nicklaus started with a 32 and ended with a 37 when the cold physically got to his touch.

Palmer, whose 72-72—144 just made the cut, was very honest. He said he is tired after five straight weeks of tournament play and he couldn't have cared less if he didn't survive for the final two rounds.

Casper, with 68-70, is still in the running.

"With all the fairways I missed, I should have been 10 over par. I'm lucky I finished without getting injured," he said as he retired to the practice tee after the round.

"All of a sudden I just shut off like a faucet," Nicklaus said, referring to his hot first nine of 32 and wobbly last in which he bogeyed three holes for a 37.

"I just ran out of gas. Too many week in a row," said Palmer.

The first round leader with 64, Jimmy Powell of Riverside, became an also-ran yesterday. He shot a 76. His putter was colder than the elements. Powell needed only 27 putts Thursday. He took 37 yesterday. He had eight birdies Thursday, just one yesterday.

Cerrudo Says He'll Try Again In Phoenix

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — In weather that matched his mood — dreary and depressing — Ron Cerrudo yesterday involuntarily ended his stay at Torrey Pines Gold Course.

Cerrudo shot a three-over par 36-38—74 in the second round of the $165,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open, giving him a 36-hole score of 71-74—145. Ron thus missed the cut for the final two rounds — by one stroke.

Cerrudo birdied the first hole at seaside Torrey Pines Golf Course, and appeared to be on his way. And 16 holes later, after he adquired his fifth bogey of the day, Cerrudo was on his way to Phoenix.

"I don't know," said Cerrudo, as he trudged off the 18th green. "Every time I needed to make a big shot, I couldn't do it."

"I missed greens a lot of times," said the San Rafael pro, "and then when I had chances for birdie putts I didn't hit the ball hard enough."

Previously, Cerrudo had said if he played poorly at San Diego he would return home for lessons. But he changed his mind.

"I'm going to Phoenix and try to qualify for the Phoenix Open," mumbled Cerrudo. "I've got to keep trying."

Cerrudo, who was even par 36 on the front nine — three birdies and three bogeys — went two over for the back nine when he bogeyed the 425-yard 17th with a five.

Figuring he would need a birdie four on the par-five 18th, a hole he eagled Thursday, to stay in the tourney, Cerrudo went for the green in two.

But his three wood drifted into trap on the left side of the green. He pitched out some 30 feet below the flag, still with one last chance. But the putt was off the right, two feet from the cup.

"No chance," he muttered at someone in the gallery. "There's no chance I'll make the cut."

Unfortunately, he was right.

Tam Quint Retains Cage Lead

The Indians, with the Giants unable to hit from the field took a 34-30 lead and made it 38-34 at the end of three quarters as Redwood scored only one field goal and its tight ballgame came apart at the seams.

Seidenberg personally rallied the Giants for a last gasp effort on two stright fielders, tying it at 39-39. It was the end of the road for Redwood.

Tam came right back with a jumper by Ron Blasingame and then Jackson reeled off five straight points for a 46-39 lead and the Indians were home free, stretching their lead to 50-41 before the final finish.

PRESS

Redwood tailed off to a 20 per cent shooting effort in the second half and never could solve the Indians' rattling full-court press that forced them into a dozen ball control errors.

Substitute Guy Franklin and ace guard Pat Purcell hit both ends of one-and-one free throw chances to finally pull the luckless Trojans on the plus market, in the third overtime against off again-on again Novato Hornets.

Terra Linda finally got some chances at the charity line and made the most of them, converting 20 of 25 free throw attempts for the winning margin, despite being outshot from the field, 26-25.

HURT

The Hornets were hurt when ace shooter Steve McNally fouled out in regulation time after scoring 14 points. Ed Herrnbergar topped Novato with 20 points and lanky center Bob Tait added 19.

Purcell, third-best scorer in the league, topped Terra Linda with 17 points and Tom McCart with 11, Bob Nadell with 13 and Lowell Harris with 10 aided the Trojan cause.

Novato had a nine-point lead over Terra Linda in the third quarter before the Trojans caught up.

A huge edge on the boards helped Drake hand the stumbling Bulldogs their eighth loop loss against a single win.

The Pirates had a 62-34 edge on the boards with Don Alvarado grabbing 20. Art Pla, Don Stone and Fred Westcott had 11 rebounds each.

Steve Durham and Roger Taylor had 11 each for San Rafael.

Drake led by 51-30 going into the final period.

Redwood 'B' Quint Remains In Front

As the Marin County Athletic League class B basketball race heads into the home stretch, the top three teams are a study in contrasts. Novato High has a well-balanced team, San Rafael a brilliant individual performer, but Redwood has both stars and balance, which is why the Giants lead the league.

Redwood put five men in double figures in last night's 65-42 stomping of Tamalpais, with stars Kent Skov and Art Carewe leading the way with 17 and 12 points, while four men split 42 points for Novato in a 45-33 win over Terra Linda. Bruce Nave hit for 22 points, including six of seven at the free throw line, in leading San Rafael to a 47-43 upset over Drake.

Nave marksmanship, which accounted for nearly half the Bulldogs' total, lifted San Rafael past Drake and into a tie with Novato for the chaser role behind Redwood. Both teams have played Redwood already and must hope that someone can upset the Giants and give their pursuers another shot.

Novato's balanced attack showed two in double figures and two more with nine appiece, with Gary Howard's 13 the top mark.

The Redwood Giants spotted Tam a 15-11 first quarter deficit and then roared back to win the second half 38-15 behind Skov, Carewe, and Stocky Spooner.

Hot-Shooting Pipers Whip Oaks Quint

The Pipers, taking over first place in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division with the victory, jumped off to a 24-6 first quarter lead.

Oakland threatened toward the end, but the Pipers closed with 10 straight points, eight of them by Chico Vaughn, who scored 40 points. Vaughn got 21 of those on seven 3-point baskets.

Simoon Retains Yacht Lead

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Yawl Simoon maintained the handicap lead yesterday in the San Diego-to-Acapulco yacht race after five days of sailing.

Kialoa II, a 72-foot yawl, was still leading in distance covered when the 29 boats reported in yesterday morning. Kialoa II was 573 miles south of San Diego and about 40 miles ahead of the yawl Rascal, the second-place boat.

The yawl Spirit moved into third place in fleet position with a 24-hour run of 169 miles—the best reported.

many took the lead in the Nordic combined ski competition after the jumping half of the event, compiling 240.1 points to 237.4 for Hiroshi Itagaki of Japan and 234.5 for Erwin Fiedor of Poland.

Officials originally said Itagaki was leading and that Keller had 220.0 points but later increased the German's total with extra points awarded for the longest jump of the day—254 feet.

Georg Krog, 20, of Denver, Colo., had the best total among the U.S. jumpers, getting a score of 194.7 for 11th place.

ANKLE INJURIES RUN IN FAMILY

GRENOBLE, France (AP) —Billy Kidd of the U.S. Olympic ski team twisted his ankle Wednesday in a training run at nearby Chamrousse, but his father went one step further.

Peter Kidd, here from Stowe, Vt., to see his son race, slipped on a wet street and broke his ankle, hereby missing yesterday's downhill, in which Billy Kidd placed 18th.

Jim Ryun Runs Speedy Indoor Mile: 3:57.5

NEW YORK (AP) — "It looked like he could go on forever," said Sam Bair.

Bair, the little Kent State runner, turned in a fast mile last night, but he was still negotiating the final turn when Jim Ryun was crossing the finish line.

Ryun's 3:57.5 at the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet was the first sub-four-minute mile of the indoor season and the third fastest ever run indoors. What was supposed to be a tight competive battle between Ryun, Bair and Villanova's Dave Patrick turned into a rout.

"I was very pleased and surprised with my times," the world-record holder (3:51.1) from Kansas said. "I felt strong all the way."

OVER SHOULDER

Ryun led for a time in the early going and looked over his shoulder once as if to ask if he were going to have to set his own pace.

Bair obliged by taking the lead for a time, but just past the quarter mark, Ryun took over for good. Slowly, he built a lead over Bair while Patrick, the only man to beat Ryun in the last 2½ years, stayed in fourth and fifth place.

With three laps left, Ryun led by perhaps 15 yards and competively the race was a shambles. All that was left to determine was the time. Running alone, Ryun widened to his eventual victory of nearly 40 yards.

There was nothing wrong with the running that Patrick and Bair did. Until yesterday, Patrick's 4:01 clocking would have been the best of the season; and Bair's 4:02 wasn't bad either.

There were some other good performances in the meet, including Earl McCullouch's meet record of 7.0 in the 60-yard high hurdles. McCullouch's football teammate at Southern California, O. J. Simpson, was second to Charlie Greene in the 60-yard dash. Greene's time was 6.2.

MEET MARK

Larry James, the speedy Villanova sophomore, won the 500 in 56.0, another meet mark, and turned a 440 relay leg of 47.0—tying the fastest in the Garden—in the Wildcats' :17.8 mile relay triumph.

Lee Evans of San Jose State handily won the 600 in 1:11.0, Byron Dyce of New York University took the 1,000 in 2:09.4 and Wade Bell of Oregon captured the 880 in 1:53.5.

Gerry Lindgren, the hardy little distance runner from Washington State, survived a stern challenge from Ethiopian Sebsibe Mamo of Colby College in the two-mile. Lindgren won in 8:43.0. Mamo was six-tenths of a second slower.

Bob Seagren of Southern California won the pole vault at 16-4—more than a foot below his world indoor record Ed Caruthers of Arizona took the high jump at 6-10 and Harvard won the feature two-mile relay in 3:17.8.

Bruins Get Scare From Oregon St.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oregon State, playing without star guard Vince Fritz, used a ball-control offense and a tight zone defense as expected last night.

But the Beavers did surprisingly well in losing only 55-52 to UCLA, the nation's second-ranked team, at Corvalis.

The Beavers had cut a Bruin four-point halftime lead to just one—46-45—with 6½ minutes to play. The sharp shooting of center Vic Bartolome and Mike Markham kept the Beavers in the game.

But then Lew Alcindor, UCLA's 7-foot-1½ center, broke out of the tight zone for a layup and put UCLA head by three.

CUT MARGIN

Later, when OSU cut the mar- and put UCLA ahead by three.

Later, when OSU cut the margin to 52-50, UCLA used a stall of its own. Lucius Allen's free throw and Mike Lynn's tip-in gave UCLA a five-point lead and its sixth Pac-8 victory without a loss.

Lew had 20 points to lead all scorers. Sophomore Bartolome had 17 for the Beavers.

Southern California penetrated Oregon's slow tactics for a 79-69 victory behind Ron Taylor's 20 points.

Taylor hit on 9 of 18 shots from the floor to lead the Trojans to their fifth victory in conference play against only one loss.

BIG NIGHT

California's 6-foot - 10½ Bob Presley didn't start for the Golden Bears last night in Berkeley but when the game was over, Cal had beaten Washington 79-66 and Presley had collected 17 points and 20 rebounds.

Trent Gaines scored 21 for the Bears and Russ Critchfield 17 to offset 25 by Huskie Dave Carr.

Presley came into the game with nine minutes gone in the first half, missed his first four shots from the floor, and then went on to dominate the backboards. He also hit on 9-of-9 free throws and California hit on 27 of 32 as a team.

Washington State found the Stanford gymnasium a tough place to play basketball last night. It took the Cougars almost five minutes to score a single point after the opening tipoff.

But Jim McKean and Ray Stein found their shooting eyes in the second half to propell the Cougars to their fourth straight conference victory, a 74-71 squeaker over the Indians.

McKean had 18 points, Stein 14 and Gary Elliot 13 for WSU. Art Harris potted 24 in a losing cause.

Stanford, now 1-5, actually had more field goals — 29 to Washington State's 25—but 24-of-33 free throws for the Cougars were the difference.

UCLA and USC switch opponents tonight in Oregon. The Bruins take on the Ducks, with a Pac-8 mark of 0-5, and USC plays OSU.

Cal and Stanford switch foes in the bay area. Cal, with a mark of 2-3, hosts Washington State and Stanford hosts Washington, now 2-4.

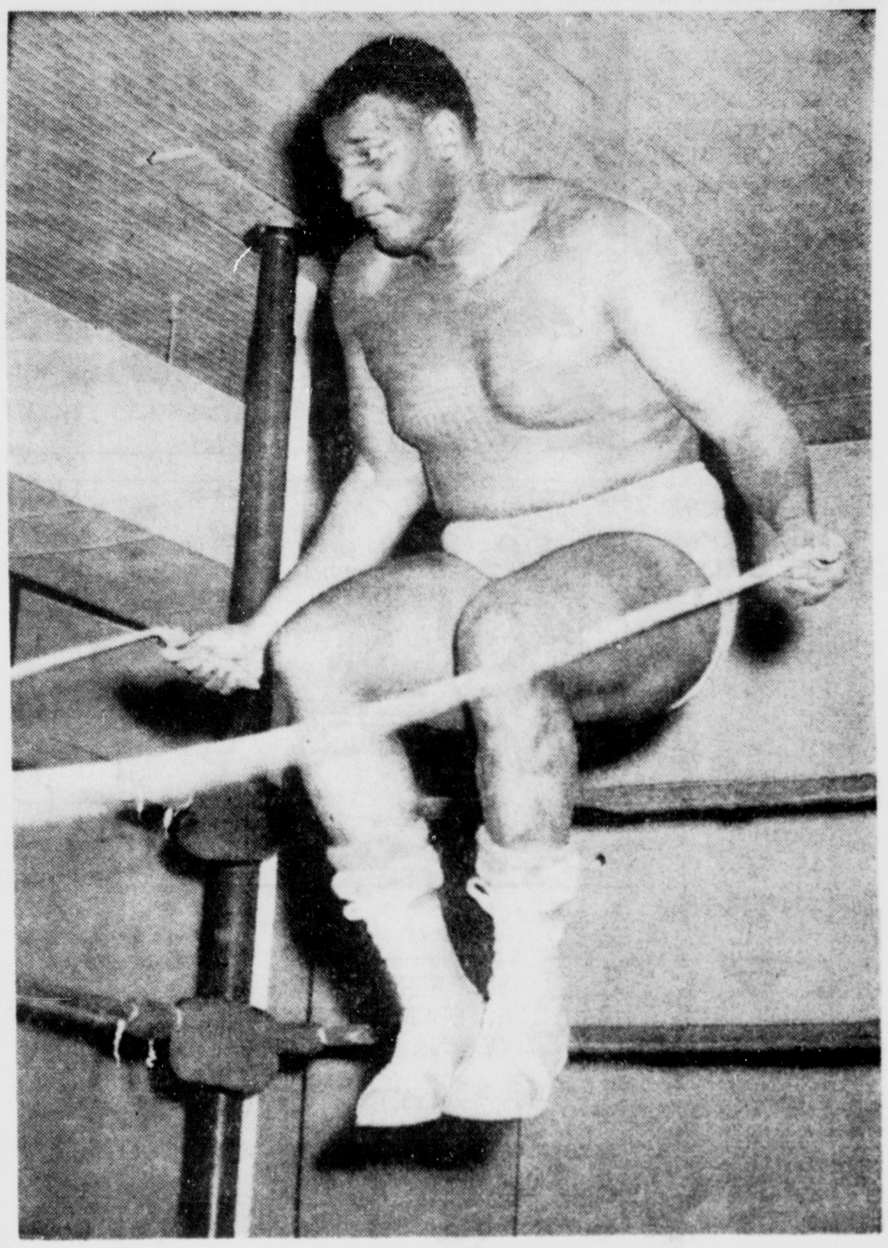
Tars Trek To Sierra Tonight

College of Marin's basketball team will be trying to clinch a Golden Valley Conference playoff berth tonight when it takes on Sierra College in Rocklin.

Marin's Tars can clinch a playoff spot with a triumph in tonight's 8 o'clock game and a victory over Sierra would be a big plus in their race with Santa Rosa for the Western Division title, since Santa Rosa has a tough road game at Lassen this weekend.

The GVC playoffs are scheduled for Feb. 23-24.

Sierra is powered by a superb pair of forwards — Gary Donnell, who is second in GVC scoring, 22.0 average, and Bill Penaluna, a lad with a 14.8 average. But Penaluna has scored 30 and 36 points in the last two games against the Tars.



BIG, BIG BUSTER

Buster Mathis, who fractures the scales at about 240 pounds, skips rope during training for his bout with Joe Frazier at the new Madison Square Garden March 4. The Mathis-Frazier bout will be for the heavyweight title—New York and Massachusetts version. (UPI Telephoto)

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Often a bowler will not be aware she is dropping the ball behind the foul line Have a teammate check you on this point. Sometimes poor timing makes dropping inevitable, but frequently a bowler can correct it just by concentrating. Think about it all the way through your delivery, not just at the start. Although you should be watching either your spot on the lane or the pins, imagine that you are watching your fingers as they loft the ball a few inches beyond the foul line.

Pacific-8 Stands Firm Of Its Freshman Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The ruling body of the Pacific standing firm on its opposition to freshmen participating in varsity sports.

The Pacific-8 Conference Council, comprised of a faculty representative and athletic director from each member school, discussed the freshman issue four hours Thursday and reaffirmed its stand.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association recently approved by a 163-160 vote for freshmen to participate in all varsity sports except football and basketball.

The Pacific-8 cast its eight votes against that relaxing of NCAA rules.

Council members prohibited freshmen from participating in NCAA championship contests this year and said they will continue their fight at the next NCAA convention, to be held in January in Los Angeles.

The council agreed that if the NCAA convention again votes to permit freshmen participation, it will go along with that decision.

In other action, Council President Bill Himstreet, from Southern California, named a committee to discuss a proposal to permit athletes returning from the Olympics in October to immediately resume athletic competition for their schools.

Under conference rules, they would not be eligible to register for classes and to participate in sports until the following term or semester.

The Olympics will prevent participants from registering until six or seven weeks into the 1968-69 school year.

Coast Guard Training On S.F. Bay

A patrol-training cruise for members of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 54 will be held tomorrow aboard Flotilla Commander Vern Dallman's boat, the McCoy, on San Francisco Bay.

Scheduled activities for the cruise include actual patrol operations, communication operations, searching for distressed or disabled boats, piloting, plotting and courtesty examinations of boats.

Participating as disabled or distressed boats will be the Episode, owned by flotilla vice-commander Jackson Dorn, the Sea Foam, owned by flottila member Walter MacComas, and the Orel, owned by past commander Eugene Orloff.

Injured U.S. Skiers Resting

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Alpine skiers Jim Barrows and Jere Elliott, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., were reported comfortable after suffering spectacular spills in the Olympic men's downhill race yesterday.

Dr. Daniel Hanley, head of the U.S. medical team, said Barrows had a fractured dislocation of the right hip and was in traction at the military hospital in Latronche.

"We will take more X-rays today (Saturday)," Dr. Hanley said. "Jim will be in the hospital about a week and then we'll try to get him home as soon as possible."

Elliott, who spun through a fence, was less injured, suffering a contusion of the right shoulder and a sprain of the acrimo clavicular joint. He also has two sprained ankles and multiple bruises.

"He is up and around at the village and should be back on skis in about two weeks," the doctor said.

Robin Morning of Santa Monica who suffered two breaks in her right leg in a training spill, is coming along nicely, the doctor said, and should be able to fly home in the next few days.

Today is Saturday, Feb. 10, the 41st day of 1968 with 326 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1942 the last civilian cars for the duration rolled off the assembly lines in Detroit as the industry was converted to war production.

In 1962 U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers was returned to America in exchange for Russian spy Rudolf Abel.

In 1964 an Australian aircraft carrier and destroyer collided in the Tasman Sea with the loss of some 100 lives.

In 1967 the 25th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, assuring presidenial succession, became law.

A thought for the day — Aristotle said, "Misfortune unites men, when the same thing is harmful to both."

Never Count On Help; Patience Good Enough For Beating A Slam

"I was counting on you for the ace of clubs or the king of diamonds," West explained after today's hand had been played to an inglorious finish. "You needed nothing from me," his partner told him sadly. "Just a little patience would have been enough."

SOUTH RUFFS

West opened a heart, and South ruffed. South banged the king of spades on the table, and West pounced on it with the ace. It was all very noisy and cheerful, but West's hasty play gave the slam to South.

West returned a club, and South won in his own hand, drew three more rounds of trumps and showed his hand to claim the rest of the trick.

As you can see, West didn't have to count on his partner for anything at all. West could defeat the slam all by himself.

REFUSES TRICK

West should refuse to take the first round of trumps with the ace. If declarer continues with a second round of trumps West should once more play low.

Now South cannot afford to lead a third trump. West would take the ace of spades and return a heart to punch out declarer's last trump. Then West would be in position to take his own last trump and four hearts.

MUST ABANDON

When West refuses both the first and second round of trumps South must abandon the trumps.

Declarer must lead clubs and diamonds, allowing West to get a trick with his small trump as well as with the ace of trumps. Down one is no bargain, but it's better than down four.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠—A 4 3 2
♥—10 8 7 6 5 3
♦—8

What do you say?

Answer: Bid four hearts. This jump shows strong trump support (usually five or more cards), a side void or singleton, and not more than 9 points in high cards.

Huge Volcanic Flow Deduced

SEATTLE (SS) — An enormous prehistoric eruption of a volcano in the northwestern United States has been identified by two geology professors at the University of Washington.

Lava from one single outpouring flowed over at least 100,000 square miles, spreading from the area around Portland, Oregon into parts of northern California, Idaho and Nevado. This is an area five times larger than the most extensive previously identified single basalt lava flow.

The eruption may have occured about 3 million years ago, when the Ice Age was beginning, they report after a four-year study of the lava flow. As yet they have not located the vent of the volcano.

VISITOR TO MARIN

By JOHN KEARNEY

Dr. Akhtar Khavari slowly stirred his tea and spoke quietly of universal love, the brotherhood of man and justice for all.

You had to lean forward and concentrate hard to catch the words.

"Only God can remove the hatred, prejudice and conflict in the world today," he said. "It is possible to build religious unity on the real foundation of spiritual bounty achieved through belief in the glory of God."

This was the Baha'i Faith which had brought the 68-year-old Iranian lecturer and world traveler to a desk in the study of a Lucas Valley home.

By his side was the unsmiling portrait of Abdul Baha, who inherited leadership in the Baha'i cause from his father, Baha-O-Llah, revered by believers of the faith as a messenger from God.

Dr. Khavari said he has devoted his lifetime lecturing and teaching the Baha'i Faith and is on a tour of the United States under the sponsorship of the United States Baha'i National Teaching Committee.

A Baha'i, he said, believes himself a member of a world religion devine in origin, holding promise of uniting mankind into a peaceful advancing society.

"Just as the teachings of Christ brought enlightment to His time, so we believe the teachings of Baha-O-Llah are the source of true guidance for this age," he said.

He likened it to progression at a university. "When one teacher's time is up and he is replaced by another, the student does not look at the physical man but at his knowledge and how best he can adapt that wisdom and knowledge," he said.

The society to which Dr. Khavari strives has no conflict between nations, no bickering between religious leaders and no extremes of rich and poor.

But can such a Utopia be achieved in a world wrought constantly by dissention and warfare? He said it could.

"A hundred years ago, Baha-O-Llah forwarded his message of peace and brotherhood to the kings and leaders of nations," he said. "There was misunderstanding and they did not obey the words that came from the mouth of God.

"Even today, the Baha'i send books to the leaders of the world. We sent the message to President Johnson and he acknowledged it with appreciation.

"But what is happening in Vietnam today is not good and should never be. What is happening in world religions that are split into factions is wrong."

The Shah of Iran — birthplace of Baha'i in 1844 — approves of the cause which is now spreading world wide. It has come a long way since early-day persecution of disciples.

Dr. Khavari said he had no statistics available of membership but a figure of 20,000 followers in the United States has been mentioned. He said there was a group of Baha'i "in every city and every village of your country."

During his stay in Marin he is living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Whitney of Novato and lectured at several homes around the county, including that of Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Gibson in Lucas Valley.

It was here at 25 Lassen Drive that Dr. Khavari leaned back in his chair and told of his early days.

He lived with Abdul Baha for 53 days in 1920, shortly before the death of the prophet and was the first to receive the title of Knight of Bala-O-Llah for opening Saudi Arabia to the Baha'i Faith.

He got his doctorate in languages at the University of Teheran and was later a professor of languages and management. He also held a position as accountant at the National Bank of Iran and operated his own distributing business.

The faith, which is individual and has no basis on any other denomination, is centered in Israel, birthplace of Christianity and Judaism. It has no ritual and no priests.

"The problems of the world today are created by the egoism of leadership," he said, gently folding his hands and smiling faintly. "We have no leaders and the world was not created to have leaders . . . God is impartial."

Contributions Up For Church

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—A record high in contributions and a drop in membership are reported in the 1967 Year Book of the International Convention of Christian Churches Disciples of Christ for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1967, among U.S. congregations.

Disciples congregations which are part of the convention contributed $109,631,006 in the period, an increase of $1 million over the preceding year. Disciples membership in the United States dropped 19,257 from 1966, bringing the total to 1,875,400.

An Epitaph To Hippie Movement

By LOUIS CASSELS
U.P. International

An epitaph of the hippie movement has been written by a noted psychiatrist who had ample opportunity to observe it first hand.

He is Dr. Graham B. Blaine Jr., chief of psychiatry, university health services, Harvard University. His report on "The Death of the Hippies" appears in the current issue of Academy Reporter, monthly journal of the Academy of Religion and Mental Health.

His remarks deserve a thoughtful hearing from religious folk who entertain the belief that hippiedom is a touching manifestation of Christian love.

To Dr. Blaine, it is pure nonsense to depict "flower children" as modern saints who have turned their backs on the crass materialism of American society to practice the precepts of Jesus.

It is equally absurd, he says, to believe that they have found happiness and serenity by "dropping out of the rat race."

The truth about hippies, says this doctor who has treated many victims of LSD, is that they are self-indulgent and unhappy people.

Their bizarre costumes and hairdos, and their flamboyant conduct, is a "facade" disguising "the misery and the desolation of the human beings behind it."

But even a physician who sees through the disguise sometimes finds it difficult to sympathize with their "desperate loneliness," he says, because hippies themselves are contemptuous of our concern and prefer to wallow in their own emotional and physical squalor.

"Before the memory of this startling group fades away entirely," he says, "we should try to learn something about why it came into existence and what message, if any, trails in its wake."

He suggests that the clue may lie in an old anecdote about a man who awoke after death to find himself in a beautiful garden, where the climate was always perfect. A servant was at hand to answer every command and fulfill every desire.

After several weeks, he was so bored that he went to the Head Man and announced that he'd much rather be in Hell. The Head Man replied: "And where do you think you are?

"Perhaps the young of this generation were driven to distraction by the affluence of today's world and did indeed fashion a private hell for themselves out of desperation," says Dr. Blaine.

Another lesson to be learned from the hippies, he says, is that injustices and social problems can't be solved by passing out flowers and talking about "love."

"Their attempts to 'live by love alone' led not to some glorious Nirvana, but instead to bitterness, rivalry, and finally violence.

"Like the young adolescents living an unfettered existence by themselves on an island in William Golding's classic novel, 'The Lord of the Flies,' the hippies found also that a world without discipline led only to chaos."

Dr. Graham suggests that in light of the hippie experiment, "situation ethics" should reexamine their assertion that "absolute standards deprive man of desirable freedom.

"The main differences between the short-lasting philosophy of the love-in generation and the long-lasting Christian religion," he says, "is the presence in the latter of absolutes which provide the structure that seems to be essential for the existence of a relatively harmonious society."

Vatican Plans To Construct A 'Small Hall'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — So vast is St. Peter's Church in Rome that a special audience hall is being built nearby to accommodate small groups — such as 11,000 pilgrims.

At present, the Vatican admits about 20,000 people to St. Peter's for Pope Paul's weekly audience with pilgrims. Most have to stand, and in the crush many hardly get a glimpse of the pontiff.

The ultramodern new hall will seat 11,000 and provide room for 2,000 standees, giving a comfortable air of intimacy that is lost to papal audiences in the vastness of the old basilica.

Youth Program Is To Be Revamped

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Three Lutheran church bodies in the United States recently took a first step toward a major consultation in February, 1968, on consolidation of their ministries to young adults.

Youth department representatives of the Lutheran Church in America, American Lutheran Church and Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod at a joint meeting put a top priority on achieving a united ministry to young adults.

INSTALLATION — Rev. Angus Dun Jr. will be installed at 4 p.m. tomorrow as vicar of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in San Rafael. Guest speaker will be Rev. Albert J. Colton, rector of St. Francis Episcopal Church in San Francisco. Rev. Dun recently resigned from the faculty of the San Rafael Military Academy.

After 600 Years Tower Reactivated

Teen-age Driver In $200,000 Suit By Pedestrian

Neil P. Bruce, 47, of San Anselmo, filed a $200,000 personal injury suit in Marin Superior Court yesterday for injuries he claims he suffered when hit by a car on a sidewalk alongside Butterfield Road in San Anselmo Jan. 9.

Thomas C. Nance, 17, of 145 Spring Grove Avenue, San Anselmo, was named defendant in the suit. Bruce says Nance's car struck him as he walked along the sidewalk.

He suffered a fractured skull and injuries to his brain, back and knee, the suit said. Some of the injuries will be permanent, he alleged.

Nance was cited by San Anselmo police for speeding, reckless driving and driving on the wrong side of the road after the accident.

Should Majority Kowtow To Noisy Handful?

YOUTH HAS ALWAYS found fault with the adult world.

Parents have never been very brilliant in the eyes of their adolescent children.

There has always been what today is being called the "generation gap."

At times, the gap seems wider today than ever before.

However, when you read history, you find the elders in earlier days said the same thing, i.e., the gap between youth and adults was never wider.

Perhaps it is that today's mass communications are faster and more complete than ever before. Perhaps it is that we are more aware of the gap today than preceding generations ever were.

SOME BELIEVE THAT we have dangerous new theories and viewpoints abroad in the land which threaten our time-honored and time-proven verities.

We have college professors who welcome incoming freshmen with the advice that they should put aside everything they have ever been taught at home, at church, at school, and start all over again with "an open mind."

"The establishment" is under attack. Some fear that anarchy or alien ideology threatens.

Marin Superior Court Judge Sam Gardiner, a student of and participant in public affairs over many decades, recently expressed his concern on one aspect of this situation in an exchange of correspondence with the Center for Democratic Studies at Santa Barbara.

Judge Gardiner's well-expressed views deserve the serious consideration of all.

Here are some excerpts:

"FOR SOME REASON which I do not understand, the academic world and the self-constituted intellectual centers seem to be captured by or at least unrealistically deferential to the ideals or theses of minority protest and dissent movements.

"It is quite a different thing to honor the right of dissent and the right to a forum on one hand, and on the other hand, to exalt, praise and enthrone the theses of the two per cent, or to justify violence to achieve its goal.

"The remainder of the community is comprised of 49 different segments of the same size who have differed, disagreed, expounded and finally accepted multiple theses which they have distilled through the ages and now elect to call 'the wisdom of the ages.' In the 98 per cent, there are thousands of philosophies and very little actual consensus. In the 98 per cent, there are a few who are satisfied with life, a few who are successful, a few who are complete failures in their own eyes, and a vast majority who elect to muddle through and to distill out of their diversity enough of a consensus to make the wheels go around.

"Almost all of the 98 per cent and almost all of the two per cent know that we have not produced the best of all possible worlds or societies and know that we are all aware of this.

"MOST OF US THINK that what is good from the past and what will be good in the future will be produced by long, hard hours of unspectacular work done by the constructive and thoughtful few with the somewhat considered help of the majority. Good land will seldom be built by avulsion, but more often by accretion, and everybody — almost everybody — knows this truth . . .

"If the current noisy two per cent are to reorganize or dominate the university or the 'multiversity,' when are they to learn the 'wisdom of the ages' and gain enough perspective to judge fairly the rightness or the wrongness of a million generations of their progenitors who have handed down a distilled consensus produced from the conflicts of multiple minorities who have somehow managed to survive and to govern?

(Some say) "the seeming trend of today's dissenters to seek fascist or communistic controls involves the joinder of antipathetic movements since fascism and communism have little in common.

"I challenge this view and insist that fascism and communism are much more alike than they are different. Each denies the right and the wisdom of majority control. Each believe that the badly conditioned minds of the majority are incapable of recognizing absolute truth, somehow charismatically entrusted to the dissenter, the king or the oligarchy.

"THE INSISTENCE that one accept the theses of the noisy two per cent and the claim that it is not enough that they shall have a mere forum while they lack power, is an expression of fascistic or communistic thinking . . .

"While it has nothing to do with the principles which I am trying to express, I cannot help noting that those who would glamorize the present claque of noisy and hairy dissenters and who would ask deference to their theses, are asking us to find wisdom or revelation in the pronouncements of the drop-out and the drug addict who is oriented principally to lazy self-indulgence.

"It is not impossible that out of the mouths of babes, drop-outs and addicts will come gems of wisdom, but it is a doubtful tactic to ask the world of learning to stay up all night waiting for the light of day to come from this source. This is said with apologies, of course, to the occasional intellectual who is found in this group."

To repeat, Judge Gardiner's well-expressed views deserve the serious consideration of all.

—Jack Craemer

The Delicious Thistle

Artichokes are members of the thistle family. We only eat the bud, but if it is not cut the plant will grow a stalk about 12 feet tall and bloom. The flower is like a giant thistle blossom.

Artichoke is an Anglicization of an Italian colloquialism meaning pine-cone. Anyone who has ever cast an eye upon this vegetable knows how descriptive this term is.

Artichokes are native to the Mediterrean region and were first brought to California by the Spanish settlers from Mexico.

They are the delicious thistles, the tasty pine-cones.

MAIN PROBLEMS MORE THAN TECHNOLOGICAL

A challenge to universities to produce more "morally sensitive" graduates instead of concentrating too much on technology was made by an international educator.

According to Constantine Zurayk, president of the International Association of Universities, the world's great problems are not basically technological. Rather he said, they involve "peace and disarmament, over-population, hunger and disease, and massive ignorance and glaring injustice and bondage.

"No matter how abundantly rich and powerful tomorrow's world may be," the Lebanese professor declared, "it's stability and worth will ultimately depend, as in the case of every other civilization, on the moral standards which it will discern and follow."

We need periodic reminders that man's fundamental concerns are moral. This presupposes that we are responsible — both to God and to other men.

All of us can do something — in a steady, unspectacular way — to meet some human need and problem.

"I can do all things in Him who strengthens me."

(Philippians 4:13)

Teach us, Holy Spirit, to see the deeper meaning in current trends.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

San Francisco Has Land For Recreation

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In a recent news item concerning the need for additional recreational areas and facilities in Marin County, Mr. William Seeger, general manager of our municipal water district, was quoted as saying that the recent success of the Town of Ross in forestalling such development at Phoenix Lake was at best temporary and that superior forces (unidentified) would eventually foist them on Ross.

If I quote the gist of his statement correctly, and if he meant to imply that it was useless or immoral to resist them or that the problem only involved Ross, then there is a compelling need for rebuttal.

If, on the other hand, I misstate his position, I apologize and ask that before we capitulate let us consider all the facts and consequences.

Make no mistake, the need exists and will get progressively worse and will only be alleviated at the expense of wilderness lands.

Repeatedly ignored, however, is the fact that this problem is not a Ross problem or a Marin County problem. It's a San Francisco problem generated by the recreational needs of its citizenry and the summer tourists who want inexpensive camping areas convenient to San Francisco.

More important, and also never discussed, is the fact that San Francisco has adequate wilderness area available to solve its problem for at least the foreseeable future.

The area to which I refer is located generally westerly of the Skyline Boulevard; commencing at about Fleishhacker Zoo and extending southerly far into San Mateo County is a vast wilderness owned or controlled by the City and County of San Francisco. This area is much larger than Marin Water District Lands; has practically identical climate; is equally scenic; and is obviously more accessible. To my knowledge, little or nothing has been done to develop its recreational potential, yet here lies a simple equitable and more adequate solution which I have never heard discussed publicly.

Two Reactions To 'Charlie' Story

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Today's (Feb. 6) I-J carries a lead article, "Young Mountaineer Gets a Charlie." The story explains how Dave "got his Viet Cong today with a single shot. Wayne, a city boy, used his M1 carbine twice before he turned and told me, 'I got him — right over the left eye.' "

It is no accident that this is the language of the hunting game. It is an accurate reflection of the mission of the American military forces in Vietnam. This, better than political arguments, tells what we are doing there. Our boys feel this and can explain it more honestly than the pious rationales of the administration. We are hunting small yellow peasants — a dangerous but exciting sport.

The game bagged by Dave and Wayne are human beings who have died trying to expel foreign invaders. Both these two, and Dave and Wayne, in a different way, are casualties of our national obscenity.

BERTRAM S. KOEL, M.D.
San Rafael

Editor, Independent-Journal:

What a perfect illustration of mindless American viciousness: your Feb. 6 headline, "Young Mountaineer Gets A Charlie."

Charlie, as you have probably not heard, is a human being, a man, perhaps with a wife and children, fighting off Americans on his land, devasting his country. But your brave young mountaineer "got" him — as no doubt back in Kentucky he'd be delighted to "get him a nigger."

An you, bravely sitting behind your desk, gleefully keep the box score, happily announcing on your front page that a 19-year-old killed a amn with one shot.

This is the killer mentality that has sickened the world — and it is sad that you choose to glorify it — and, as a further despicable note, even add a touch of humor to it.

I'm sure you are proud of your contribution to civilization.

VINCENT DOYLE
Sausalito

(Editor's note: Perhaps civilization and humanity would be better served by saying nothing about the war in Vietnam? Perhaps by not "keeping score" the Independent-Journal would magically restore peace to the world? This appears about as likely as the reader Doyle has some power of ESP that enables him to gauge the feelings of the editor as he reads and headlined the story mentioned.)

Carrier Boys' Behavior Praised

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In January we at Bumble Bee Toboggan Hill were priviledged to entertain the group of carriers who had qualified for this year's snow trip given by the Independent-Journal.

I wish to take this opportunity to express to you what a wonderful group of boys they were. They conducted themselves like gentlemen and at the same time appeared to thoroughly enjoy the toboggans and other snow facilities as good red-blooded American boys.

It was a pleasure to have them with us and we hope they will come again.

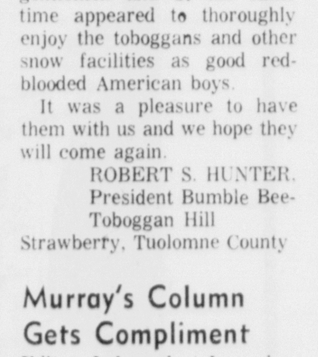
TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A WAITER from Reuben's Delicatessen took his son to the Bronx Zoo, where the boy was struck by the offhand way an attendant tossed a slab of raw meat into the cage of a pacing tiger. "Papa," asked the boy, "why didn't the man serve the meat nicely like you do?" The waiter whispered to his son, "Confidentially, Sammy, tigers are rotten tippers."



Red Skelton tells about the time his high-living agent came home very, very late for dinner and was confronted by a justifiably suspicious wife who demanded, "Where have you been so long?" The agent replied loftily, "I've been visiting my poor old mother." "Oh, yeah?" jeered the wife, "She happens to be sitting right inside that next room waiting for you." The agent rallied sufficiently to pipe defiantly, "Well, who are you going to believe: me or your eyes?"

A SENATOR'S NOTEBOOK

More Women Should Serve In Congress

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

We don't have to worry about the women who are serving in Congress because they are doing all right, as any red-blooded American male would have expected, had he given the matter any thought at all.

There are, however, not enough women serving in Congress. Fortunately, such a state of affairs can be remedied.

Men have dominated the field of public service ever since the Constitution was drafted. In that far-off day women in the 13 original states lived under the ignoble idea that they were to be seen, that they were to perform household duties, bear children, of course, and not to be heard. Then, when the Constitution was amended, women were given their rights, with virtual equality with men, with independence, and with the right to vote. Men, however, continued to dominate by using their vote to place men in public office instead of at least a few of the newly emancipated women.

Then gradually, here and there over the land, women were voted into local office as members of city councils, as members of state legislatures, and finally into the U.S. House of Representatives when the voters of Oklahoma elected the country's first woman congressman, Mrs. Alice M. Robertson. After 133 years, a woman took a seat in the all-male Congress.

HOW HAVE WOMEN fared as legislators? While it may seem that national political service is a man's world, women have brought to Congress their practical minds, their great capacity for the hard work that a good congressman must perform to keep up with events, their high sense of patriotism, and their wonderful ability to see through some of the dark camouflage that sometimes complacent men permit to be pulled into cover over important affairs.

Clare Booth Luce, for example, delighted the nation and performed a great service indeed when one day she got up in the House as the Republican representative from Connecticut and made a speech on our foreign policy. In that speech she thrust a single word into the national consciousness that was to place the critical situation into focus. The word was "globaloney." No man could have pointed more effectively to the problem in question.

Women have had to struggle in Congress to make the adjustment between their way of doing things and the way men do things. They have succeeded in the man's world of Congress because they have perhaps worked harder to overcome any handicaps that may have stood in the way of their acceptance by their male colleagues.

Women take firm positions. When Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine some time ago became impatient with some of the floundering that was going on in Congress, she made her famous "Declaration of Conscience." It had an immediate appeal all over the country to both men and women and it served to help put Congress on firmer ground.

BUT THERE ARE NOT enough of these women in Congress. Out of a total House - Senate membership of 535 in 1968, there are only 12 women in the House and one — Senator Smith — in the Senate. That is less than three per cent. We need more women in Congress.

The remedy, of course, is at the voting booth. If more women will seek national political office, and if more of the women voters — and the male voters, too — will support the ambitions of women candidates, the ratio of men and women in the Capitol is bound to change, upward and for the better, too.

Vietnam Raids Cost U.S. Far More Than Admitted

By PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The North Vietnamese-Viet Cong "war within a war" — the blitz attacks against South Vietnamese cities and American bases — has cost the U.S. a lot more than the Johnson Administration has so far revealed.

U.S. losses in military equipment and material are now estimated to total more than $300 million in last week's lightning raids.

Several U.S. authorities believe the total damage will run as high as 500 million, since details of the widespread destruction of U.S. installations are still filtering in to the Pentagon.

LATEST COUNT at this writing shows that more than 150 U.S. planes and helicopters were either completely destroyed or damaged beyond repair in the Communist attacks against 32 U.S. airfields.

That's more planes and helicopters than the U.S. lost to enemy gunfire over North and South Vietnam during the preceding three and one-half months. The value of the planes lost exceeds $200 million.

Damage to airfields, fuel and ammunition depots is estimated at more than $90 million. Other losses involve the destruction of South Vietnamese military camps, planes, radio, and police stations — all either built or supplied by the U.S.

MOST DISTURBING factor about the bitter attacks, according to a report of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is that they dramatically illustrate the capability of the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces to temporarily neutralize U. S. air power at a dozen American bases in South Vietnam at the same time.

With regimental or battalion attacks, two-thirds of all U. S. air bases in South Vietnam were assaulted and 50 per cent of these were put out of commission for from a few hours to several days.

U. S. intelligence authorities in Saigon have warned General Westmoreland, commander of U. S. forces in South Vietnam, to expect a series of these attacks during the next 60 days.

South Vietnamese sources, but not Americans, are predicting the beginning soon of a "general uprising," with political demonstrations, economic strikes, and violent anti-Americanism countrywide led by Thich Tri Quang, the militant Buddhist.

THE PRINCIPAL objective of Hanoi's massive terror campaign against Saigon and other major South Vietnamese cities is to topple President Nguyen Van Thieu's government.

The terror campaign is being closely linked with a worldwide propaganda drive to discredit President Thieu and his newly elected government. This diplomatic-military-propaganda offensive is similar to the one that led to the overthrow of the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.

Be Prepared For A Jolt On State Income Taxes

Many Bills Doubled Or Worse

By BILL STALL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lesson No. 1 in figuring your 1967 state income tax: Be prepared for a surprise when you tally your bill.

This has been the biggest problem for California taxpayers this year, says Martin Huff, executive officer for the State Franchise Tax Board — the state's version of the federal Internal Revenue Service.

Because of the $1 billion tax increase bill of 1967, most California wage-earners face a significant increase in their income tax, which is due by April 15 on income earned during 1967.

The average hike is 70 per cent. This ranges all the way from a slight reduction for some persons at the lower end of the income ladder to double and triple last year's bill for middle and higher bracket taxpayers.

This makes it all the more important for Californians to figure out their taxes early this year, Huff said in an interview. Traditionally, the state receives nearly all its returns, about 5.5 million last year, during the last 10 days before the April 15 deadline.

With the big increases this year, Huff said, "we're concerned people will wait until the last minute, won't have the cash to pay their taxes, and will panic."

Examples of the boost: A married couple with two children and gross income of $9,500 paid $32 last year and will owe $46 this year. A single person earning $7,500 paid $75 last year and $130 this year.

A couple with two children and earning $11,500 paid $50 last year; it will be $100 this year.

The tax is raised in two ways this year.

First, the bill proposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and passed by the Legislature narrows the tax brackets and increases the maximum rate from 7 per cent to 10 per cent.

Last year, a couple filing a joint return paid only one per cent tax on income up to $5,000, two per cent on adjusted income between $5,000 and $10,000, three per cent between $10,000 and $15,000.

This year, the rate is one per cent on the first $4,000 income, two per cent on income between $4,000 and $7,000, three per cent between $7,000 and $10,000, and so on.

Secondly, the Legislature dropped the old system of exemptions for the taxpayer, his wife and dependents. Instituted instead is the "tax credit."

The exemptions ran $1,500 for a single taxpayer, $3,000 for a couple filing a joint return and $600 each for children and other dependents. The tax then was figured on the lower, net income amount — after deductions also were taken off.

Beginning this year, the taxpayer takes his gross income, subtracts his deductions and the computes his tax on that figure. From this tax level, he subtracts fdat dollar amounts of "tax credits"—$25 for a single person, $50 for a couple and $8 for each dependent.

Let's go back to that "average" couple earning $9,500 a year with $2,100 in deductions —loan or mortgage interest, doctors' bills, other taxes they've paid, business expenses and so on—and see how the tax credit works.

This leaves them with a taxable income of $7,400. The husband goes to the tax table and finds that the tax is $112 — $100 plus three per cent of the amount over $7,000.

Now, he deducts his tax credits, totaling $66 for him, his wife and two children. This gives him a final tax due of $46.

Why tax credits?

One reason, explained taxman Huff, is to equalize the credit the low-income worker gets for supporting his wife and children with the credit the higher bracket man gets.

Under the old system, the exemptions came off the top of the income—the level where the tax rate is highest. Each four-member family got the same dollar amount of exemptions, $4,200. It was here that the upper-income fellow got the break.

The low-income man's exemption would have been taxed at only one per cent and thus he saved just $42. The $20,000-a-year man would have four per cent tax on his $4,200 exemption credit, or $168.

But the equity in the new system isn't readily apparent because of the tax increase this year — except at the lower income levels.

The more children or other dependents you have, the greater seems your tax boost this year. And it is, because of the switch to the tax credit system. The amount of tax credit granted was set low enough so that this feature will bring in more money to the state.

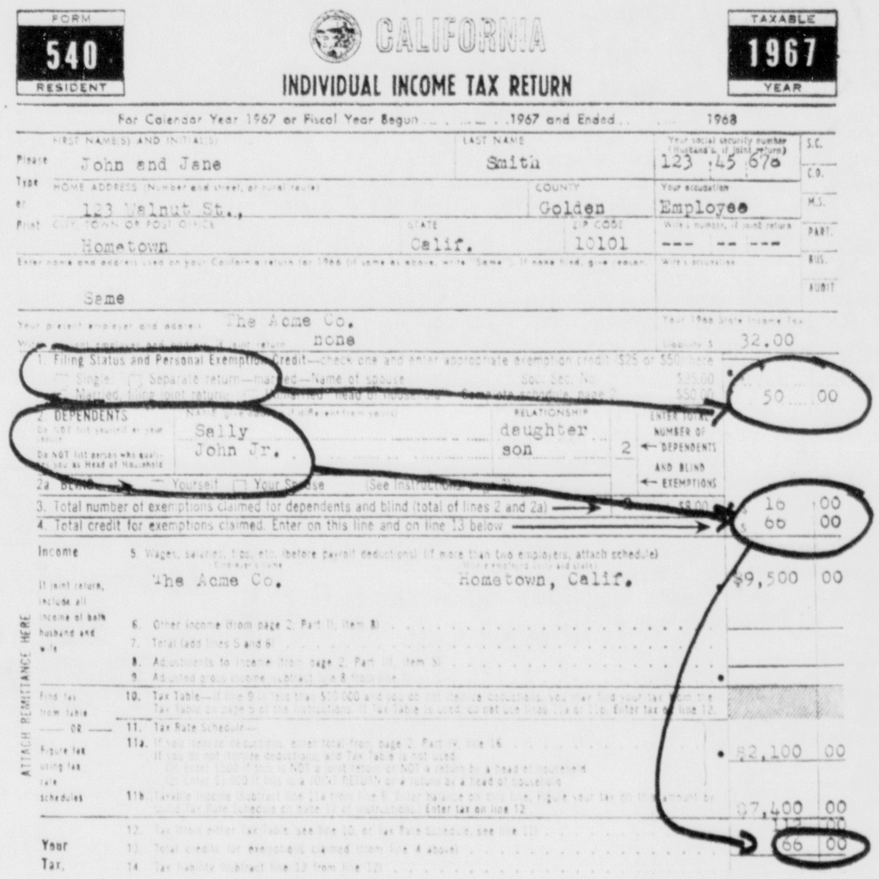
Huff said many people tend to blame Reagan and the Legislature more for higher taxes this year than they really should. They often forget they're making more money, and would have paid higher taxes anyway.

Huff himself said he figured out his tax and when he got done, declared "Whoops. I must have made a mistake."

But he checked it over and found it was accurate.

Most of the surprised taxpayers who have called in for help thought either they had miscalculated their tax, or that the tax table was wrong, Huff said.

And, despite all the publicity given the governor's $1 billion tax bill, many queried Franchise Tax Board officials, "When did all this happen?"



WHAT'S A TAX CREDIT?—California income taxpayers face the prospects of working with tax credits when they figure their state tax this year. In this example, a married couple with two children lists a $50 credit for itself (line 1) and $8 for each child (line 3). Then after the tax is computed, the couple subtracts the total credits (line 13). This leaves the tax due.

KHE SANH THE CORK

Marines Brace For Red Onslaught

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Marines watch and wait in their stronghold here on a red clay bluff in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. Mountains, hills and jungles surround the Khe Sanh combat base and the enemy — perhaps 30,000 strong — are in them.

U.S. military officials expect the North Vietnamese to attack the Khe Sanh base "at any time," in what may become the biggest battle of the war.

"This is the cork right here," one Marine officer said. "If they get past us, they can tear up the countryside way over to the coast."

The 30,000 North Vietnamese troops — three divisions — are positioned to the south, west and north of this combat base and its air strip. Another 10,000 to 20,000 are believed to be nearby, along the demilitarized zone 16 miles to the north.

Facing them are at least 5,000 Marines. They have been reinforced and U.S. Army troops have moved into easy reach, but the total American strength at Khe Sanh is a military secret.

A half dozen or more fights in the last few weeks are considered just a prelude to a major offensive.

If the North Vietnamese could overrun the Marine stronghold here, the broad Quang Tri and Cam Lo river valleys would lie ahead of them. Thirty miles away is Quang Tri, the capital of South Vietnam's northernmost province, and 10 miles from there, they would be at the South China Sea and well in the rear of the bulk of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division, stationed along the DMZ.

A forested ridge towers 1,500 feet above it to the northeast and narrow, jungled ravines lead south three miles into the district town of Khe Sanh. It was from this town that a company-sized garrison was forced to withdraw last Jan. 22.

A valley to the west broadens out toward the Se Pone River and to the northwest are Hill 881 South and North and Hill 861, which rise above a second smaller valley. The Marines lost 138 men killed and 397 wounded last May in a week of bloody battles to drive the North Vietnamese from these hills. They killed 800 North Vietnamese soldiers then and dug new bunkers, to wait for the Communists to make another try.

With the Marines in possession now of the combat base and most of the important hills in the area, they figure they can let the enemy make the first move.

However, if the enemy buildup is translated into fighting over the whole area, the U.S. Command might be forced to commit the elite U.S. Army brigades deployed in the lowlands to the east of Khe Sanh.

Strike Leaves City Hungry For News

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Over an hour-long "newspaper of the air," columnists and distinguished guests take turns reading aloud the televised comics on station KQED.

TV Station KPIX opens and closes its day's program with a list of births and obituaries. TV Station KRON has society items.

A telephone dialing service, set up by radio station KABL averages 250 calls a day from persons seeking taped progress reports on the ups and downs of the stock market.

An enterprising, unemployed diamond setter in Oakland, after buying up from a book dealers copies of the New York Times—20 to 40 years old—makes $15 for a four-hour day. He sells them for 50 cents apiece in San Francisco's financial district.

And Harry Kiczkowski tells his news-hungry customer the paper is every bit as old as its yellowed pages look.

Hippies are even finding a livelier market for the Berkeley Barb, a once-a-week psychedelic paper jammed with eye-popping classified ads of persons seeking sex partners.

These are just a few of the changes in reading and listening habits for San Francisco's 750,000 citizens since a mailers' union strike against a printing company Jan. 5 shut down the morning Chronicle and afternoon and Sunday Examiner.

An alarmed mother of a soldier in Vietnam recently telephoned the Associated Press and pleaded:

To help fill gaps for a daily combined circulation of around 710,000 newspapers, the radio and television stations have increased and expanded newscasts. Over a 24-hour span it is never possible to be more than 15 minutes away from a report by some station.

"Is there any blackout at Saigon: Please fill me in on what's going on."

Asked if she were making use of her radio and television, she replied, "Yes but I'm only getting bits and pieces."

Aware of this, radio station KCBS has set aside two hours on weekends during the strike for an in-depth treatment of such news as the war. At the other end of the spectrum, radio station KFAX has switched from its pre-strike emphasis of national to local happenings.

A unique program, incubated by the strike and touching off a flood of fan letters, is the "KQED Newspaper of the Air." The publicly supported educational TV station puts on live an hour-long news report by veteran newsmen idled by the strike.

With mingled humor and biting acidity, they discuss the latest national, state and local news.

A columnish drops in with some gossip . . .

Ford Foundation funded the production with a grant of $5,000 a week for 10 weeks. That has about five weeks left to go. If the strike continues, KQED plans to turn to public subscription.

San Francisco is not without newspapers.

Across the bay, the Oakland Tribune has avoided stepping up its circulation and intruding into San Francisco. It has protested moves by some individual peddlers to buy up Tribunes then sell them in San Francisco for four and five times the 10-cent price.

More than 4,500 copies of the New York Times are airmailed daily for brisk sale at 30 cents each. Distributors also have stepped up the inflow of the Los Angeles Times from 500 to 4,500.

The San Francisco Shopping News, a twice-a-week throwaway with a 215,000 circulation, has hired strike-idled newsmen, increased local staff assignments and doubled its size.

Ramparts Magazine for the strike duration is putting out 40,000 copies six days a week of a tabloid-size local newspaper.

TV station KPIX mimeographs 16,000 one-page news digests and stock market quotations five days a week for distribution at bus depots and street corners by the Mission Rebels, a poverty area group.

A brokerage firm puts out 15,000 copies of a single page report with just one paragraph of news. One day the distributor failed to show up at the bus depot. The firm's telephone switchboard was swamped by indignant complaints.

No Mystical Formula Operating For National Pollsters Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Political pollsters testing the popularity of President Johnson and those who would like to succeed him rely on the same laws of chance as an expert poker player.

This is true whether the pollster's name is George Gallup, Louis Harris or Archibald Crossley.

Many people have the idea that pollsters use some mystical scientific formula to select the areas they canvass and the people they interview to get an accurate picture of how the candidates would fare if the election were held at that moment.

Under this theory, the pollster interviews a predetermined number of Negroes and whites, rich and poor, famers and workers, in an attempt to duplicate American voting in miniature.

It isn't that way at all.

This "quota" system was abandoned in national polling years ago because it didn't work. For one thing, it gave the person conducting the interview too much leeway in selecting the person polled.

In each political poll, Gallup interviews 1,500 persons in approximately 320 election precincts. In a presidential election, the voter turnout exceeds 70 million from more than 200,000 precincts. At times, Gallup will double or treble his samplings to narrow the chances of error. Crossley says he uses about the same number of samplings in his polls.

The basic Louis Harris polling unit is 1,600 people to be interviewed at 100 sampling points. For his political polls, Harris uses three samples, one each month.

The pollsters say the proof of their accuracy is in the election results. Gallup cites figures to show he's picked every election right since 1954, never being more than 2.8 per cent off the actual vote.

The pollsters' worst year was in 1948 when they were 18 per cent off the vote for Harry S Truman in his upset defeat of Thomas E. Dewey.

This Week In The World

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Nine Soviet-made tanks rumbled down a dusty road from Laos this week to spearhead a North Vietnamese assault that overran a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Marine stronghold of Khe Sanh.

The 400 defenders, mostly Montagnard tribesmen, at Lang Vei, just a half-mile from Laos and four miles from Khe Sanh, destroyed four of the tanks but couldn't overcome the superior firepower. More than 300 of the defenders were killed or wounded, including eight Americans. The rest escaped.

More important than the loss of the camp, said U.S. officials, was the presence of tanks. It was their first appearance in North Vietnam and officials said it meant the opening of still another phase of the war.

The tanks made their appearance one week from the day Viet Cong guerrillas began their assaults on some 35 cities and communities, Jan. 31, the start of the Lunar New Year. The attack at Lang Vei was another of the probing assaults around the giant Marine base the U. S. Command says will soon be hit by the 20,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding it.

The 5,000 Marines at Khe Sanh will defend it at all costs, the U.S. Command reaffirmed Friday.

As North Vietnamese troops continued what they hope is a softening up of Khe Sanh with artillery and mortar shells, Viet Cong guerrillas battled tenaciously to hang onto their footholds in the capital of Saigon and in the former imperial capital of Hue. The cost was dear to the Americans, allied forces and guerrillas.

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Washington: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, guest of honor at a White House state dinner, dramatically broke precedent by advising President Johnson in forceful terms not to heed "impatient and exasperated demands" for stepped-up fighting in Vietnam.

Washington: A new North Vietnamese bid for peace talks, this one from Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, made it clear Hanoi still seeks an unconditional halt to U.S. bombing raids in the North before sitting down to negotiations.

Behind The News

Chicago: Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., claimed there was no prospect for the U.S. forces achieving a military victory in the Vietnam war. His speech was a detailed attack on the administration's policy in Vietnam.

Orangeburg, S.C.: Violence that erupted at a segregated bowling alley in this college community early in the week brought death to three persons and injuries to scores of others by the weekend.

Washington: Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen struck the Seaboard and the Missouri-Pacific railways over the number of crewmen on certain trains.

New York: A strike for higher pay by the city's 10,000 garbage collectors that started on Feb. 2 had left close to 100,000 tons of garbage piled on city sidewalks and streets by the weekend. Mayor John V. Lindsay appealed to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to call up National Guard units to clean up the refuse.

Washington: George C. Wallace, former Alabama governor, announced he would be a third-party candidate for president.

Washington: President Johnson, in other messages to Congress, asked for a $3.04-billion foreign aid bill, an eight-point consumer protection program, and a series of measures to deal with crime, rioting and illegal drugs.

Span Bid Withdrawal Prompts Policy Plea

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District does not require a 10 per cent bond from bidders on bridge work.

Bridge Director E. J. (Nin) Guidotti of Sonoma County demanded yesterday at a meeting of directors, that the district set a policy on the posting of bonds by bidders.

"We just had an insurance company walk out on us and now we have a floor beam bidder walking out on us," said Guidotti, who is vice chairman of the building and operating committee.

BIDS

Guidotti's demand followed a report from General Manager James Adam on bids opened for 1,550 steel sections for floor beam stiffener replacements on the bridge. The lowest bidders were Adams and Smith of Richmond, which offered the sections for $8,900, and Romak Iron Works of Oakland, which bid $19,541.

"Adams and Smith have requested that the firm's bid be disqualified because an error by a subcontractor had resulted in an error of $2,152," said Adam. Because of the gap between the low bids, the bridge directors rejected all bids and decided to call for new ones.

"I don't think we should have a blanket bond requirement, but we probably should have some policy, say on anything over $5,000," Nelson said.

Adam said bonds are required on "major contracts" such as remodeling of the administration building on the toll plaza. "For materials and supplies, we don't require bonds because most of them are less than $5,000 anyway," he said.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

TRUCK — Bought a pickup truck from Stewart Chevrolet Co. of San Francisco, which offered the second lowest bid of $2,733.91. Adam reported the S and C Motors of San Francisco offered a pickup for $2,625, but the vehicle did not meet specifications.

Redwood Students Get Kiwanis Cash Awards

Four Redwood High School students have received cash awards from the San Rafael Kiwanis Club for work they have done with the county's kindergarten for mentally retarded children in Santa Venetia.

They are Lee Mendenhall, Philip C. Hoffman, Bernard Gira, and Dennis Windelman, according to Walt Kubon, chairman of the Kiwanis boys and girls committee.

Mother Enters Double Denial In Stabbing

Mary Jo Goodson, 36, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity yesterday to a charge she stabbed her 3-year-old son to death Dec. 30.

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court set Friday as the date for a preliminary hearing on the murder charge. The insanity plea probably cannot be considered unless the case proceeds to Superior Court, he said.

Mrs. Goodson is accused of fatally stabbing her son, Richard Anthony Goodson Jr. His body was found in a storage room of their apartment building at 725 Kerner Boulevard, San Rafael.

Police said the boy was stabbed twice in the back, either in the mother's bedroom or bathroom. The murder weapon may have been a 12-inch butcher knife, they said.

Mrs. Goodson, who police said had received psychiatric treatment in the past, was ruled sane enough to stand trial by Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley.

One of the psychiatrists who examined Mrs. Goodson on Judge Haley's order reported that she is sane now, but probably was insane on the day of the slaying.

Gas Heaters Being Sought For Recall

CHICAGO (BW) — Sears, Roebuck & Co. has announced it is recalling some 6,000 gas baseboard heaters which it regards as potentially unsafe.

It identified them as four models of its "gas fired baseboard thru-wall heater." They are Homart model numbers 133.72561 or 133.725611, 133.72562 or 133.725621, 133.72565 or 133.725651, and 133.72566 or 133.725661.

Sears said its recall decision was reviewed with the U.S. Public Health Service and the American Gas Association, which will cooperate with Sears in an effort to locate the heaters.

James W. Button, vice president-merchandising, said most of the 6,000 heaters were sold between September, 1962 and December, 1966. They were last offered for regular sale in a catalog circular in August and September 1966. A few remaining units were sold in retail stores during 1967, he added.

Because many customers purchase and install equipment themselves, he added, it will be difficult to locate them unless they notify Sears.

Button emphasized that all other models or Sears gas baseboard heaters are constructed differently and are safe.

Button said Sears decision to recall its heaters was based on the company's field investigation. The investigation showed some the units had developed defects, and in some cases produced measureable amounts of carbon monoxide.

Finding a downtown parking place in almost any city from New York to Singapore has become the modern equivalent of looking for a needle in a haystack.

Charlie Leads A Model Dog's Life

See Page M2

MR. AND MRS. MACK GILES, in their Fairfax home, enjoy the programs on the color television set which their talented dog Charlie bought them for Christmas. Charlie, however, has to be coaxed to join them. Generally, he ignores the TV, even when one of the commercials in which he is featured is on the screen. At left, Charlie at work, posing for a publicity still to be circulated among the advertising agencies.

$25 AN HOUR

Charlie Enjoys Career Success

By DON KEOWN

And it would seem that Charlie would be entitled, as well, to attend meetings of the stockholders of Trans World Airlines, if he so desired.

A portion of Charlie's considerable earnings has been invested in TWA stock in his name.

CANINE money-makers are not all that unusual. Many dogs earn considerable sums in the show ring or in stud fees. But these are the purebred dogs.

"OF THE FIVE dogs registered with San Francisco agencies as professional models," they explain, "the other four are all registered pedigreed dogs. A good many of the jobs call for a dog with the homely characteristics of the mongrel. So naturally, Charlie gets the work. He's the busiest of them all."

Charlie, now going on 4, came to the Gileses in the fall of 1964 as a puppy, the gift of a neighbor, Mrs. Clydie Sweet, who had decided he would become too large for her home.

"CHARLIE WAS really an accident," says Barbara Giles. "My husband actually wanted another hunting dog. But I fell in

Success Hasn't Spoiled Charlie

It was Mack Giles who gave Charlie his name.

The puppy proved to be an amazingly fast learner.

"Within two days, he was completely house trained," Mrs. Giles recalls.

SINCE THEN the Gileses have had no difficulty in teaching Charlie new habits or tricks. "He picks them up, just like that."

As a puppy, Charlie had the appearance of a terrier. "He was funny-looking with big eyes and big feet, and was almost a carrot red." Today he looks more like a small Old English sheep dog. His color now is an apricot with black and white. The big eyes and feet remain.

"We just call him a high-class mongrel," says Mrs. Giles. "But the veterinarian calls him 'the Daisy Dog' because he looks so much like the household pet in the Dagwood and Blondie cartoon strip."

MRS. GILES, now an airline hostess with TWA, had formerly modeled professionally. It was because of that experience and her contacts that she got the idea that Charlie might become a model.

"Because of his unique and appealing appearance and character, I knew that he would not be faced with the competition that confronts most models," she says.

In the fall of 1965, the Demeter Agency of San Francisco booked Charlie as a model for a Safeway Stores billboard advertisement. Soon Charlie was also appearing in advertisements in the leading national magazines and doing "prop scenes" for Macy's of California newspaper advertisements.

THE GILESES were advised by the agency to enroll Charlie in an obedience school.

"We were reluctant to do so because we had heard that such training sometimes alters the personality of the dog, and we loved Charlie as he was," says Mrs. Giles. "Then, we heard about a six-weeks obedience course offered by Bill Meisterfeld at his Meisterfeld Ranch Kennels near Petaluma. It was highly recommended. So we enrolled Charlie."

When Charlie returned home six weeks later, the Gileses were delighted with the outcome. "He had the same old spirit, with even more talent and refinement."

NOW CHARLIE was qualified to add television commercials to his assignments. One week after completing his obedience schooling, he landed his first TV job — a still for a Kraft cheese commercial that was first used on "The Andy Williams Show."

Since then, he has become a familiar and popular figure on television, appearing in commercials for Contac cold capsules, Ford automobiles, Amco oil, Eastman Kodak, Post Raisin Bran Flakes and many other firms and products.

The commercials in which he appears have been shown on such nationally-televised network shows as "Peyton Place," "The Fugitive" and "Gidget."

HE WAS ONE of the "stars" of the longest television commercial ever filmed, made for Ford and shown with the special Easter Sunday presentation of the movie spectacular, "The Robe." Charlie had the role of the family dog so engrossed in watching the Easter special on TV.

One of his most recent television assignments from the agency of Marinites John and Ann Brebner was for Eastman Kodak, and it will be shown on this year's telecast of the Academy Award presentations.

CHARLIE, SAYS Mrs. Giles, enjoys his work thoroughly. "He's a complete ham, but not a self-conscious one," she says.

WINTER IS Charlie's busy season, particularly for television commercials, when activity shifts from the East with its unpredictable weather to milder, sunnier California.

"Charlie found him as a baby kitten and brought him home," says Barbara Giles. "For a time, Charlie acted as mother to the kitten. Now they are playmates. But Charlie still takes very good care of Sam."

When Charlie sleeps on his cushion, Sam sleeps on Charlie.

As a result of his friendship with Charlie, Sam, too, enjoyed a brief fling at modeling. One assignment called for a cat to appear with the dog. And since

The Dog Who Owns A Share Of TWA

Charlie Has Also Built Up Substantial Bank Account

the two got along so well together, Sam was a natural for the "supporting role."

THAT, HOWEVER, has been the extent of Sam's modeling, and Charlie remains the unchallenged star of the household.

Despite that status, he has his regular chores to perform at home. He brings in the daily newspapers. "Since we have 25 steps, that is no small help," notes Mrs. Giles.

Before the two take their daily walk, Charlie brings Mack Giles, a qualitative control expert with Synergistics Inc. of San Rafael, his coat. At night, he carries Giles' slippers to him. He runs other errands and makes other deliveries that save the Gileses steps and the necessity for running up and down the stairs of their two-level home.

ON HIS fun-loving side, Charlie is a great favorite of the neighborhood children, and he is equally fond of them. They visit the Giles yard and house often to romp with him.

Neighbor Mrs. Sweet, Charlie's original owner, now has a handsome collie of her own. But she continues to take an active interest in the career of her one time charge.

When the Gileses are away from home, their landlords, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Barron, care for Charlie. They, too, are extremely fond of the model-dog, and Charlie returns their affection.

"FOR CHRISTMAS this year," says Mrs. Giles, "Charlie gave us a color television set so we could watch his commercials."

But not Charlie, unless coaxed. "He just ignores the television set. He doesn't even want to watch when one of his own commercials is on."

For Charlie, it's all in a day's work. And once a job is done, he is ready and eager to move on to other things.

Those "other things," both the Brebner and the Demeter agencies predict, encompass a bright future career in which Charlie is likely to pop up on your television screen and in your newspapers and magazines more and more often.

AT HOME, Charlie seems to take an active interest in his growing account at the Fairfax branch of the Bank of America, and in the Trans World Airlines stock he has accumulated from his earnings as a professional advertising model. Here he and his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Giles, go over the books and figures.

PHOTO STILLS such as these circulated among advertising agencies' potential clients have won Charlie a growing number of calls for his professional services. You are seeing him more and more in your magazines and newspapers and on your television screen as Charlie builds up his clientele.

"Why Should My Dress Be Damaged By Cleaning?"

It is doubtful that your dress was "damaged" by drycleaning. Damage to garments usually comes from neglected soil. In your dress, it was chemical damage probably from a cold wave solution, at the neck of the dress.

Frequently unnoticed spots from the contents of a medicine cabinet, kitchen aids, cosmetics or deodorants are revealed when a garment is cleaned. It is not the fault of the cleaning. Because the spot was unnoticed, it is permitted to remain in the garment until aging causes permanent damage.

Speaking of age, garments do wear out. According to the National Institute of Drycleaning, suits and dresses may be expected to wear for 3 or 4 years; coats, 2 or 3 years and shirts 1 to 2 years.

So, Mrs. G.N.S., the "damage" to your dress was not the result of cleaning. This time, is was the chemicals in a cold wave solution which were invisible until your dress was cleaned.

Natural Dyes From Plant Life Of Marin

Homestead Weaver Collects Color From The Countryside

By ALAN JONES

There are quite a few weavers in Marin County, but there is probably none other quite like Ida Dean Grae of Homestead Valley.

Mrs. Grae, a teacher and professional weaver since 1945, is widely known as an art weaver, primarily of rugs and wall hangings. Her work has won awards in shows from Seattle to Greensboro, N.C., and she teaches summer classes for the California College of Arts and Crafts.

Every artist's work is unique, but Mrs. Grae has deliberately moved further than most from conformity by seeking out new natural dyes concocted from native plants of Marin County.

FOR SOME of her work, she still uses synthetic dyes and the older natural dyes such as indigo and cochineal, utilized for centuries all over the world.

But for the past decade, she has been gathering new varieties of plants as they come in season, close to home, brewing their juices and cataloging results to build up a palette of home-grown colors.

With a rainbow of commercial dyes available, why does she go to the trouble of finding her own?

IT'S THE same feeling that causes people to do their own weaving instead of buying machine-made cloth. Mrs. Grae says it gives her a feeling of kinship with the ancients who wove and dyed in the same ways she does now.

"I feel a connection with the primitive people while doing this," she said. "I'm using the methods the ancients used, and improvising on my own."

There are objective values as well. "I was bored with the evenness of synthetic dyes," she said. The variability of home-made dyes produces shadings, glows and overtones of color not obtainable any other way.

AND WHILE there is satisfaction in making something yourself from start to finish, home-made dyeing has another benefit.

"It just makes you look at everything around you as a treasure," Mrs. Grae said. Once a flower gardener, she is now reluctant to pull up and destroy a luxuriant weed because it might prove to be the long-sought source of red or bright blue dye.

Bright blue is "most difficult" and elusive, and bright red is "out of the question, but I go on hoping." She has found several sources of light blue dye, and has produced some pinks and a dull burgundy from other sources.

"SOME MARIN plants I'm still hunting, I know, will give me red if I find them," she said. One tiny weed, native to Marin but one she hasn't found yet, is called Sweet Lady's Bedstraw, and it is from the "red" family of dye plants.

Green is difficult to produce, but one combination of dye and fiber has produced yellow shades.

The usual method for testing a new plant is to steep it — leaf, root or flower — in distilled water, drop in samples of carefully scoured fibers (each fiber takes dye differently) and simmer the concoction to see what happens.

IF ONLY A trace of color results, more dyestuff can be gathered for the next trial. In other cases, fermenting the dyestuff for a week or so may produce a stronger or entirely different dye.

In addition to teaching summer courses, Mrs. Grae is teaching four classes two days a week at the Richmond Art Center, and teaches in her studio by appointment. She also holds frequent seminars, inviting other weaving instructors to teach and demonstrate.

Many of the plants Mrs. Grae uses are spread throughout the county, while others may be found only in one or two spots.

SHE WAS at pains to point out that "I don't depredate the countryside tearing down all sorts of plants. I start with a tiny bit . . . a handful" when trying new dyes.

Her routine — letting each plant come in season and taking her time about her dye search — is paralleled by the routine in colonial American. Colonists gathered dyestuffs during the growing seasons, but had no time to use it while the crops were in the fields.

IDA DEAN GRAE, Homestead Valley weaver, straightens up a "found object" wall hanging she made from objects on the beach — rope, driftwood, and a plastic hoop. Mrs. Grae's weaving art has won awards in Seattle, San Francisco, Richmond, Oakland, and Greensboro, N.C. She is now experimenting with dyes made from plants native to Marin County.

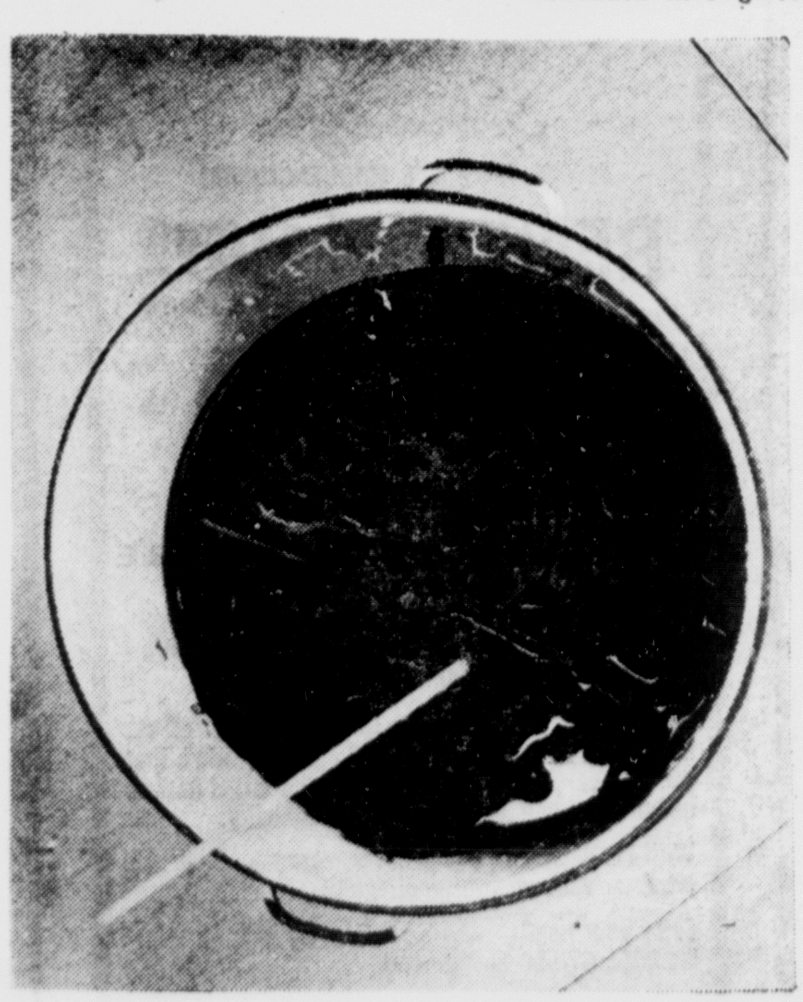
DOCK WEED is a special find for Ida Dean Grae when she goes hunting for plants from which she makes the natural dyes to color her handweaving pieces. Its roots provide gold and light green hues.



THIS HANDSPUN wool is in the process of being dyed. In the pot with it are the prunings from a flowering maple. The end result will be a yarn of an attractive light green hue with which she will weave.

HOMESTEAD VALLEY handweaver Ida Dean Grae examines some of her wool yarn that has been dyeing in a pan to determine whether it has yet reached the desired coloration.

Marin Plant Life Yields New Dyes For Handweaver

In winter, crops in, the family would spin fibers, weave cloth and dye it with the gathered materials.

IT'S AN unhurried process. Mrs. Grae has a little jar full of petunia blossoms which she has been collecting a year, and it may be another year before she tries to distill a dye from it.

One of the best dye sources is dock weed, which produced a golden yellow dye. Mrs. Grae has found dock root many places, most often in a salt marsh bordering Camino Alto in Mill Valley.

A "PROMISING" source of blue dye is the wild iris found in cut cliffs and elsewhere in Marin. While the blossom stains blue, she said she considers the bulb a more promising dye source.

An earthy purple color is produced by a particular type of lichen found on Mount Tamalpais, and the flower of St. John's Wort produces another shade of golden yellow.

MORDANTS, substances which help the fiber take the dye, are a field in themselves. Powdered oak galls are rich in tannic acid, a mordant used for centruies, Sumac is another good mordant for the plant fibers, cotton, linen and jute.

A terra cotta dye (red-brown) is produced in cottons and linens by madrone bark. The color closely matches the bark's color, which is not always the case with dyes and their sources.

Mrs. Grae's workshop is bright and airy, full of the purposeful clutter of someone who knows what she's doing. A dozen or more looms crowd half the space, from a large 60-inch loom to tiny ones used by students in learning the craft.

LOOMS ARE measured by the width they can weave, and Mrs. Grae's range from the 60-inch horizontal loom to a four-inch student model.

Mrs. Grae has written a book, "Dressing the Loom," on what she considers the most critical part of weaving. Dressing, or preparing, the loom for weaving is where most students fail, she said.

What is essential is to get a constant tension on the long warp threads as they are wound onto the loom, or else the weave will come out irregular, wavy and curved, and the material will be too weak to use.

ONE CORNER of the workshop is crowded with skeins and balls of yarn, some in natural dye colors and some in the brighter but flatter synthetics. Opposite are plaited ropes of yarn ready for winding onto looms.

Mrs. Grae started out as a psychologist, taking her bachelor's degree in that field at the University of California at Berkeley. But shortly after graduation she started taking painting lessons and then got a job as a recreational therapist.

Realizing she would need more knowledge of crafts, she went back to school to learn weaving and ceramics, and shortly realized that the loom was her medium. She next got a job teaching weaving at the College of San Mateo, and gave up painting and ceramics to concentrate on weaving.

THE GRAE family does for itself as much as possible, the way people did before mass-produced goods took over the marketplace.

Mrs. Grae's husband, Daniel Grae, is a building contractor, and a skilled cabinetmaker and metal worker as well. Most of the houses and other buildings on their lane in Homestead Valley were built by Grae, including Mrs. Grae's studio, a metal working shop on the ground floor below her studio and a woodworking shop.

"We live in things he makes, eat on tables he made and wear things I've woven," Mrs. Grae said.

THEIR DAUGHER, Bettina, has acquired some of her mother's skills. She collects native plants, and for a sixth grade project last year she made dyes from plants she gathered and dyed handspun fibers, some she had spun herself, using old Indian dyeing recipes. She is now a seventh grader at Marin Country Day School.

An exhibit of handweaving by Mrs. Grae opens Thursday in the Mill Valley Public Library, and will continue for three weeks.

ON ONE of her quests for materials for her natural dyes, weaver Ida Dean Grae gathers in some bay tree leaves. Added to the yarn, it will contribute not only a tan coloring, but a nice aroma as well. Mrs. Grae finds many of her dyes close to home, but sometimes ranges more widely for the more difficult ones.

Stan Fontez Watches Over County's Money

By WAT TAKESHITA

Profile Of A Marinite

Stanley John Fontez, 49, county tax collector-treasurer, is one of many Marin County elected officials who rose from the ranks and won their positions on the basis of professional merit rather than by political acumen.

In 1963 when M. F. (Frank) Donohue retired, then senior accountant Fontez ran against three other men, and beat Russ Lauterwasser in a runoff.

That's the first time he ran for any political office, and all future races will probably be for that same job. "I love my work and I love the county," he asserts. "My main hobby is my work."

FONTEZ, WHO draws $18,000 per year and will get $19,500 from next year, has been offered more lucrative jobs. Last year, he was offered work in the investment field in Los Angeles for considerably more than he is now earning.

"If I were 20 years younger, I might have considered it," he mused. "But it'll take a derrick to get me away from Marin County now."

Fontez' blunt manner, straight talk, bushy hair and casual appearance give him an earthy quality that appeals to the common man.

SOME OF his characteristics probably stem back to the days when he played semi-pro baseball; won letters in baseball, football and track at Tamalpais High School; read meters and dug ditches for the Marin Municipal Water District; worked in the Bethlehem shipyards in San Francisco, and served with the Army in the South Pacific in World War II, coming out as first lieutenant.

Discharged in 1946, he went to work as correctional officer in San Quentin. While working, he attended San Francisco State College where he won his Bachelor's Degree in commerce in 1953.

While working, he taught accounting on the side at Tamalpais High School, San Rafael High School, College of Marin, San Francisco State and at San Quentin.

IN 1956, HE went to work for the county auditor at $380 per month. At night, he taught at San Quentin, making more on the side than from his regular county job. In his spare time, he managed to take courses at Stanford to win his Master's Degree in 1958.

He was one of several younger career men who replaced the old guard in the courthouse during the big changes that brought modernization into county government in the early 1960s.

FORMER TAX Collector-Treasurer Donahue, a progressive among the Old Guard, aided and encouraged Fontez in introducing new systems, including data processing, before his retirement.

Among the changes wrought by Fontez was to put county accounts on a revolving basis rather than on warrants.

"This allowed us to increase our investments because we have a better idea of cash available for investment purposes," said Fontez.

Any spare cash that the county now has does not remain idle for long under the alert Fontez.

LAST YEAR, he earned more than two million dollars in interest for the county, as compared with the less than $500,000 which the county earned before he took over.

"We invest in short term governmental securities like treasury bills and governmental agency papers," said Fontez.

He has some county funds invested at 6.1 per cent interest and several million dollars invested at 5.85 per cent, whereas the maximum bank interest is 5.5 per cent.

FONTEZ' training and knowledge in investments is also put to good use for the county retirement fund.

Because of the modern management procedures and data processing adopted by Fontez, the ratio of the number of employees in his department to the county's population has dropped lower than it was during 1955-56.

His is the only department that did not ask for more space when the new Hall of Justice opens near the end of this year.

The treasurer-tax collector office will remain exactly where it is, on the second floor of the Civic Center Administration Building.

"WE ARENT moving our walls one inch, and we won't have to expand an inch for the next 10 years, assuming that data processing can keep up with the times," said Fontez.

His reputation is statewide. Fontez is first vice president of the State Association of County Treasurers, second vice president of the State Association of Tax Collectors, and vice chairman of the State Association of Retirement Administrators. He is a member of the Lions Club, Native Sons, Elks, American Legion, Marin Rod and Gun Club, and the Marin Historical Society.

Fontez lives with his wife, Florence, and their family at 501 Heather Way, Terra Linda. A son, Lawrence, 23, just out of the service, is working for a service station in Terra Linda. Daughter Kathy, 15, attends Terra Linda High School, and a married daughter, Teri Tischbern, also lives in Terra Linda.

FONTEZ IS a native of San Francisco, but came to Marin with his parents at age 4, and has lived here ever since.

His father, John S. Fontez, owned a bakery in Fairfax in the early 1920s, and later was baking instructor for the state at San Quentin Prison.

He was one of the founders of the Marin Rod and Gun Club and director of the famous bass carnivals that draw thousands of sportsmen to McNear's Point in the 1930s. The elder Fontez died last November.

STAN FONTEZ describes his youth as routine and uneventful. "Nothing ever happened to me," he recalls.

Baseball's New York Yankees spotted him in high school and drafted him for the farm team. He played infield with minor league clubs in Texas and Kansas. "I didn't make any money," he grins. "I would have been better off going to school."

Later, when he worked for the water district, he recalls he "read and repaired meters, and dug ditches, and not too well either."

DRAFTED INTO the Army in 1941, he took his basic training at Camp Roberts, followed the war through the South Pacific and wound up in Okinawa at the time the war ended.

While in the Army, he met his wife at a USO center in Orange County and married her in 1943. Her family owned a ranch in La Habra.

His hobbies include golf, trout fishing and bowling.

He has won the state tax collectors golf tournament twice, and the Marin County employees' tournament once at the San Geronimo National Golf Club.

"I HIT IN the high 80s and low 90s but I have a good handicap (13) which helps," he explains.

His favorite fishing spot is the East Carson River at Markleville (Alpine County), where he usually limits out on trout 18 to 24 inches.

This summer he is looking forward to a trip to Lake Louise in Canada, for both fishing and golfing, which his wife also enjoys.

But his main hobby continues to be his work — making sure that county taxes are collected, and that any surplus money is wisely invested for the greatest financial return for the county.

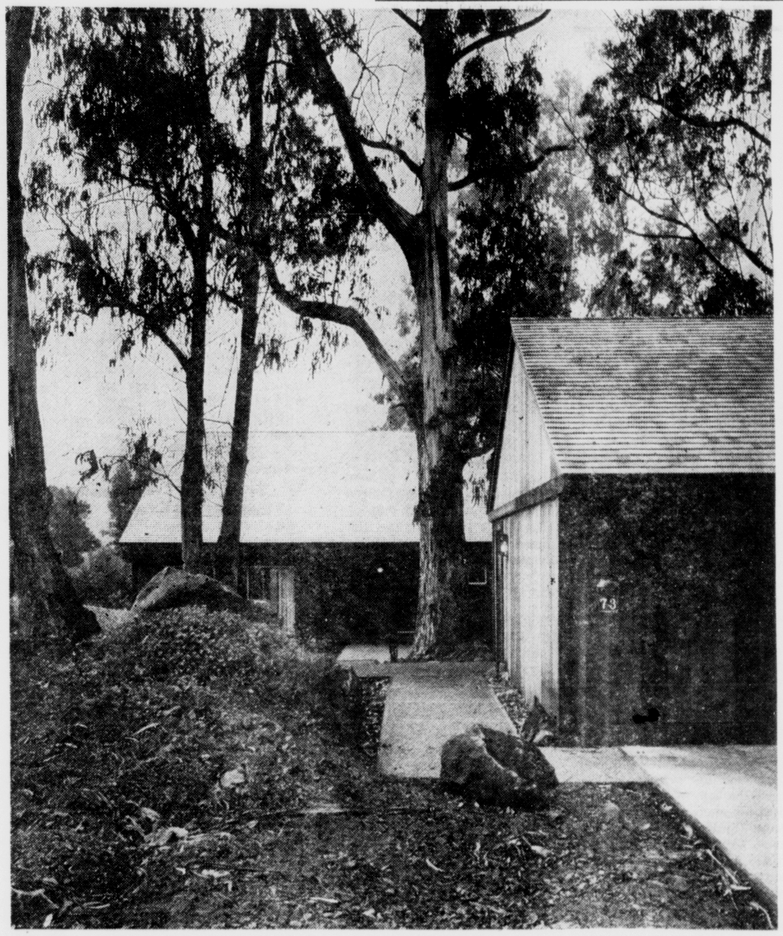
Reedland Woods— Rustic And Serene

A Community Takes Shape Among The Trees And Close To The Bay



HOW WELL Joe Drosihn succeeded in carrying out developer Lawrence C. Olin's request that he design a model that capitalized upon the rural atmosphere of Reedland Woods is shown here. The floor plan of the two-story model home can be seen below.

Only minutes from San Francisco, Reedland Woods, the 48-home community planned by Lawrence C. Olin in a valley near the Bay, nevertheless has a distinctly "countryfied" atmosphere.

Attesting to the quality of the houses is the "Homes for Better Living" award earned by a 2,560-square-foot model in that American Institute of Architects-sponsored competition. Joe Drosihn of Reid, Drosihn-Anderson & Stephens, San Francisco, was the architect.

THE HOUSE WAS the first in the area and set the pattern for a community of strongly architect-influenced homes. Others who have designed or are designing homes in the area include Warren Callister, Harry Reid and Ian McLeod.

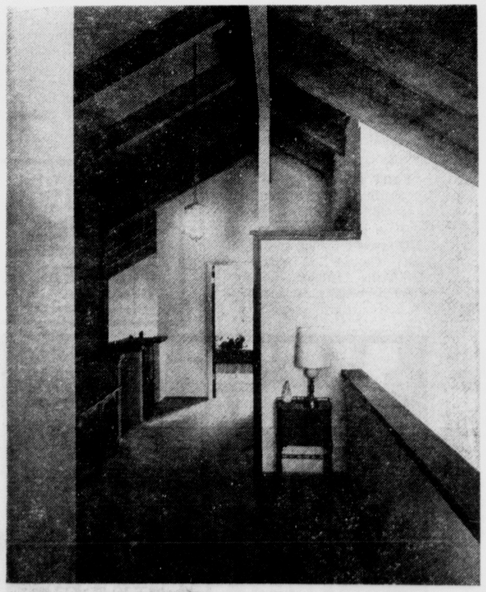
An appearance of permanence as well as a blending with the idyllic setting has been a goal of all.

There's something of the rustic quality of the early barns and fishing camps that were a part of Marin's pioneer history to be noted in the homes. High ceilings, huge baronial fireplaces, the use of natural redwood, shingled roofs all contribute to the effect.

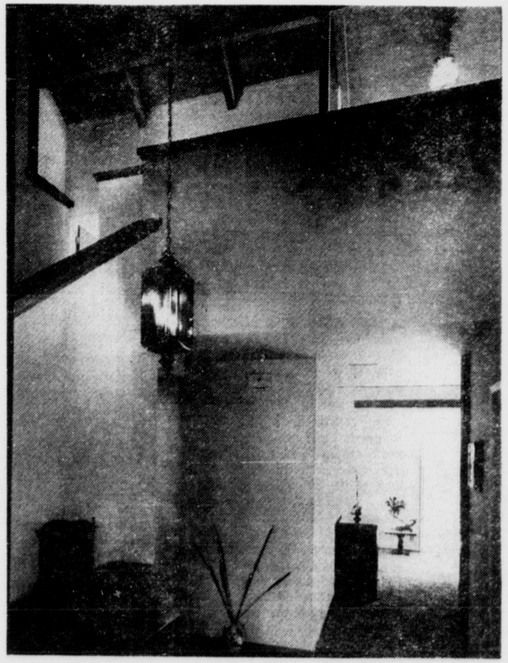
SPACIOUSNESS, TOO, is another notable quality. The Drosihn-designed home has a large family room and four out-sized bedrooms.

Kitchens, of course, are ultra-modern.

So far, 10 homes have been completed in Reedland Woods, and all are sold and occupied. Five more are under construction. And all carry out the Olin intention of relating structure to the surrounding hills and the vintage eucalyptus trees in the secluded development on Reed Ranch Road just off the Belvedere-Tiburon Highway.



THE UPPER HALL of the "Homes for Better Living" award-winner is very spacious — almost a room in itself.



THERE'S CONTINUITY in the house that is emphasized by the continuous flow from room to room of the high ceiling line.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

THE JIMI HENDRIX EXPERIENCE — Reprise 6261:
This group, consisting of an American rhythm 'n' blues guitarist who had to go to England to make it big, plus two cohorts he picked up over there, could not be more aptly named. Their music comes on with such raw, elemental force that it can only be described as an experience.

I must admit their appearance "live" at the Pop Festival was not a pleasant experience for many people because of the sensation-seeking display they indulged in — including setting fire to and smashing of guitars onstage. However, Hendrix' skills in using the electronic feedback effects to create a sort of electronic music invest his tunes like "Purple Haze" and "Foxey Lady" with fantastic qualities not found in any other rock effort today.

Good wide-range speaker systems are a must for this music.

THE ELECTRIC PRUNES — "Underground" — Reprise 6262:
The second album by this Southern California group will probably delight their fans in that area, but San Francisco rock is a different matter. After being exposed to the best of the Airplane, Grateful Dead, Big Brother, et al, the Prunes seem a pale and rather plastic "Sunset Boulevard style."

This is a very successful attempt at the same sort of tongue-in-cheek Baroque-rock which was such a kick in "The Baroque Beatles' Book" on the Elektra label some time ago. This time the tunes are not all the Beatles', but include some Dylan, Pet Clark hits, and even "Strangers in the Night" which features an astounding treatment by three harpsichords!

The arrangements are not at all far-fetched or corny, but very beautiful and musically valid. I expect to be playing this even oftener than the aforementioned project.

One TV Producer Voices Dissent Over Trend To Longer Programs

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Long Form" is the popular phrase in television programming circles these days, and here's one veteran producer who opposes it, Sheldon Leonard.

The Long Form is television talk for shows that last 90 minutes or longer. Network programming chiefs are thinking more and more in such terms, because of the dominance of feature films in the ratings this season.

"It's a natural progression for TV to go in the direction of the Long Form," said one network boss. "The audience is demanding more quality and that usually—though not always—means a longer format: feature movies, and 90-minute or even two-hour dramas that allow room for character and plot development."

THE MOVE toward lengthier entertainment has placed in jeopardy one of television's prestige shows, "I Spy." Sheldon Leonard, creator and producer of the Robert Culp, Bill Cosby series, admitted that the show's future hangs in the balance. This season it has been whomped in the ratings by Carol Burnett and "Big Valley."

NBC has already announced that the Monday night spot will be occupied next season by feature movies. That will be the third night of feature films for NBC, and thus viewers will be able to see network movies every night of the week.

"If 'I Spy' is renewed, it will mean NBC will have to find another time slot for us," observed Leonard. "That won't be easy, with three nights of movies. And much of the network's talk about new series is in terms of 90 minutes or more. If such shows get into next season's schedule, there won't be much room left for an hour show."

LEONARD deplores the trend. He was one of the pioneers of the half-hour situation comedy, partnering with Danny Thomas on the Thomas show, "The Real McCoys," Andy Griffith and Dick Van Dyke.

"I think the networks are making a mistake in going overboard for the Long Form," said the producer. "That's not the real essence of television entertainment. People still want to tune in and see their favorites week after week. It was a comfort to them to know that Dick Van Dyke or Andy Griffith would be in the same spot.

"Now the audience is confused in its loyalties. The viewers are asked to root for Kirk Douglas one week and Elvis Presley the next. There is no continuity to movies."

In addition to being mono or stereo, tape recorders are available as complete tape recorders or as tape decks. The tape recorder, whether mono or stereo incorporates power amplifiers and loudspeakers for playback purposes. The unit is complete in itself. By using a microphone or by recording from a phono or radio source, tapes are made. These tapes can be played back by the recorder without the use of any auxiliary equipment.

The TAPE DECK does not include power amplifiers or loudspeakers. It includes only the transport mechánism, the recorder and playback heads, and the necessary preamplifiers for making tape recordings. With a Deck, recordings can be made with microphones or other sources; however, to play back a tape, the Deck must be connected to a phono system or the radio console, or to a component stereo system or to an amplifier and speakers. Tape Decks are used as part of a home music system just as record changers are.

Sony has just started shipping a newly designed tape deck for use in quality home music systems. The Sony Model 560D tape deck has many new exciting features. The unit contains the new Sony ESP Automatic Tape Reverse. The amazing electronic brain constantly scans and automatically senses the voice or music modulations on the recorder tapes. When these modulations stop, the ESP (Electronic Sensory Perceptor) automatically reverses the tape direction within 10 seconds. The deck is a three speed unit. It contains two large VU meters for setting of proper recording levels. Tape threading is extremely simple, you just wrap the tape around the heads and onto the take-up reel. No slot to fit the tape into. The pinch rollers that move the tape retract to permit this simple one hand threading. An instant pause control and a 4 digit counter is included for precise editing, cueing and tape indexing. Record interlock prevents accidental erasure of tapes. Of course, the unit is a 4 track stereophonic recorder. With the built-in automatic reversing feature, the user merely puts on a 4 track stereo pre-recorded tape on the machine, turns a lever and stereo music goes through the system. When the tape reaches the end of the music, it automatically reverses and plays the remaining two stereo tracks in the reverse direction. When these two tracks are finished, the tape is all re-wound and ready to be put back in its box. The price for all of this, only 299.50.

THE REASON WHY

I've seen the marchers back at home,
Their protest signs held high,
They read; "Stop the war in Vietnam;
"Why must our young men die?"
Now that I have been here,
Though I do not fight myself,
(I just sort of watch the war
From a well-protected shelf)
Still they're men out there
Who are fighting very hard
They're sweating out each and every day
Hoping they're not hit hard—
They're fighting for a cause
That's placed high in their own mind,
They're fighting for a worthy cause—
The freedom of all mankind.

Don't Overlook The Versatility That Is Offered By The Rose

Roses are often relegated to a bed of their own, which is fine if you have space to spare, or a hobbyist's interest in roses as such.

Yet, such treatment fails to consider the modern rose's tremendous potential as a plant of many forms and just as many uses.

A FLOWERING rose hedge is one possibility—not the scraggly multifloras of an earlier day, but vigorous showpieces with cuttable blooms and a full, hedgelike character.

Many varieties have been bred for hedging even heights in one growing season. A wide variety of floribunda roses can be used for low boundaries—between neighboring driveways and lawns.

Or consider the floribunda as a general foundation plant. You can grow it as a continuous line of color at the base of a house wall or interplant it with other shrubs to provide lovely spot color.

One caution here: Don't use it as a foundation shrub against east or north walls. They're too shady.

AND AS A specimen plant, the rose is unrivaled. Give it a tub of its own and a sunny spot on your deck or terrace.

Few shrubs can match the continuous show of color which tubbed roses give, especially floribunda roses like the new All America Rose Selection Europeana and grandifloras like Scarlet Knight, another AARS winner for 1968.

Standard or tree roses find their greatest popularity along a driveway or a front walk, but don't overlook their possible use in the border, where eye-level color is often a rarity, or at the base of a deck where their color can be viewed at your feet. Tree roses can also be used as rather formal showpieces in containers.

CLIMBING roses can be used to cover a fence, to top a wall, or to wind up a post. You even see them growing up and around a lamp post occasionally.

They will also smother a pergola with color or drape a trellised house wall.

The rose garden as such will always have its place, but roses have other places in the landscape also and wise gardeners will make the most of this.

A WHITE BIRCH, or better yet, if you have the room, a group of them, can be a beautiful sight in the yard. They can be enhanced by a base planting of azaleas or spring-flowering bulbs. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

Trees Can Do So Many Things To Your Yard – All Of Them Good

We can think of countless reasons to plant the shade trees now available bareroot and all of them are good.

To start with the obvious, they provide shade for us to sit in or look out into. They also frame our views of both the outside world and of the house itself and in so doing they influence our outlook on life itself.

Yet, all of this is just a start.

TREES ALSO protect us from the wind or hide a view that we don't want to see. Their silhouette against the sky can be a study in aesthetics day or night, and at the property line they provide a background for living against which life can be beautiful, indeed.

When one builds a house where trees already exist, he often alters his architectural plans to accommodate this or that tree. Nurserymen suggest that this, more than any other action, points up the respect in which trees are held and the care which we should take in planting them in the right location. For if cutting down an established tree is a "sin," what greater sin it would be to grow a new tree in the wrong location and be faced with cutting it down at some future time.

More than likely trees that one gardener plants will be around for many another gardener to enjoy. There are no hard and fast rules to plant by, but the following may be of some help:

Generally speaking trees are planted on the periphery and the center of the garden is left open.

When a tree is planted near the house to provide shade, it is usually best to choose a deciduous variety, thus permitting light and sun to penetrate in winter time.

One way you can be sure of planting correctly is to draw a plan of your house and lot, then take it to a nurseryman for advice. Tell him what you want from a tree, and he'll tell you what to plant and where to plant it.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

- You'll get instant color from camellias and azaleas that are in bloom in nurseries this month.
- Plant all deciduous shrubs and trees now while they are still dormant. Time is running out.
- Plant the perennial vegetables such as artichokes, asparagus and rhubarb now.
- Prune fuchsias sometime this month. If you haven't already done so, roses should be pruned immediately.

- There's still time for a dormant spraying before your trees and shrubs begin to leaf.

Science Vs. Tourism

Archaeologists Fume As Thousands Visit Pyramids

BY EMIL ZUBRYN
Science Service International

WHILE ARCHAEOLOGISTS fume, tourists take advantage of the restoration work that has been accomplished at the site of Mexico's historic Teotihuacan pyramids to scramble in search of relics and recreation.

The apparently unending battle between the users and the preservers has broken out bitterly in Mexico.

"The Mexican government, more interested in commercializing the pyramids of the Teotihuacan archaeological zone than in preserving their tremendous archaeological value, has turned the project into a sort of Hollywood spectacular," charges Jorge Acosta, one of Mexico's leading archaeologists.

"It's really tragic," mourns Acosta, who has made important discoveries at the site, "the maze of electrical wiring, floodlights, more than 1,600 of them, trained on the pyramids of the Sun and Moon and on monuments, trees, and still uncovered mounds."

FIVE HUNDRED tourists each, at two shows nightly, one in English and one in Spanish, pay 25 pesos ($2) for what is billed as "a fabulous sound and light show in the city of the Gods."

"The script does give visitors an idea of the past grandeur of the pyramids and their relation with Mexico's present," conceded Acosta. "Author Salvador Novo, official chronicler of the history of Mexico, is a dedicated man."

But the over-all effect with the lights, the music of the National Symphony Orchestra, and the narration by voices of 40 actors, including Hollywood's Charlton Heston, Burt Lancaster, Vincent Price and Agnes Moorhead, only accentuates, for Acosta at least, the corniness of the show.

"ADDED TO which, more than 12,000 tourists, both Mexican and foreign, swarm all over the site on weekends and holidays, turning the entire area into a sort of archaeological amusement park!"

Acosta and many of his associates have been disgruntled by lack of federal funds to continue excavations begun in 1962. The official reply is that the spectacle will provide a budget so scientists can go on exploring.

According to Luis M. Farias, Mexican Tourist Bureau executive, the area is not a Disneyland, and the spectacle itself brings back the historical past. Similar shows are given in Egypt, France, Spain and other countries, he notes.

FARIAS STRONGLY denies charges by Acosta, and Ignacio Bernal who led archaeological explorations at Teotihuacan, that the zone has been converted in to "subdivision of the national tourist effort."

Archaeologists would prefer that the site should be kept as close as possible to what it must have been centuries ago — with nothing modern in sight and no sounds to distract scientists and visitors.

The site, some 35 miles northeast of Mexico City, probably has been seen by more visitors than any other of Mexico's 11,000 archaeological zones. The ruins, dating back thousands of years, according to some opinions, form a major archaeological mystery.

ACCEPTED OPINION is that Teotihuacan, at its height some 1,200 years ago, supported 250,000 people. The city, built in concentric rings, had a circumference of nine and three-eighth miles, with what appear to be planned apartment houses 197 feet long flanking wide avenues. The outer walls were red and decorated with murals.

The main avenue bisecting the zone was named the "Avenue of the Dead" by diggers who began a major restoration in 1962.

Acosta, Bernal, and archaeologist Ponciano Alazar, working with a $1,600,000 grant in 1962, hired a force of 550 laborers and started scraping away the dust and dirt of centuries.

The Travel Pages

A WEALTH of objects was uncovered, including shallow dishes cut from the tops of human skulls and huge bowls containing thigh and hip bones. These discoveries suggest that the unknown Teotihuacanos practiced cannibalism.

Apart from this, diggers unearthed obsidian razor blades, arrowheads, statues, paved streets and scores of proofs that Teotihuacan was undoubtedly the largest city in pre-conquest America.

But there is yet to be indisputable proof of the identity of the early civilization which mysteriously abandoned the city. Later it was inhabited by the Toltecs and the Aztecs, although the original empire must have been far larger than that established by the Aztecs some 500 years later.

SOME archaeologists claim the early Teotihuacan civilization flourished from around 160 to 330 A.D., although others hold that city was already thriving in an unknown pre-Christian year.

Certain experts claim that Teotihuacan was dedicated to Quetzalcoatl, the plumed serpent, which would make the culture Nahuatl. But full examination of current finds, including a curious mongoloid funeral mask and almost a half million archaeological pieces, will take years. Even then the mystery may remain: Why did a people who built such an astounding city abandon it and disappear?

THE BOOK PAGES

The Man Broadway Hated, And A Guide To Fine Drink

By DON KEOWN

The adage that money cannot buy happiness is regarded with some skepticism by those of us who have never been sufficiently endowed with pecuniary riches to find out for ourselves.

The biography, "Billy Rose: Manhattan Primitive" by Earl Conrad, however, supports the saying.

The late, uniamented little Caesar of Broadway earned millions. Yet neither success nor wealth could purchase for him what he wanted most from life — the acceptance, respect and admiration of his fellow men. There is no doubt but that he died a lonely, embittered, and unfulfilled and disappointed figure.

While the Billy Rose tragedy makes the less restive, less flamboyant, more modest life of the middle class look very good by contrast, one nevertheless feels more sympathy for Rose than satisfaction with one's self.

In his compulsive chasing of the buck and fame, the showman made himself one of America's most heartily disliked personalities. He was a shameless exploiter of the talents and energies of others. No creative spirit himself, Rose could latch on to those who were and use them to his own advantage.

Still, Conrad makes it clear that Billy Rose was not entirely a non-contributing leech. His abilities were those of the coordinator and promoter, particularly the latter. But his tactics were often those of the out-and-out scoundrel; thus his unpopularity.

In his desperate efforts to counteract that reputation, Billy Rose did not, except sporadically, attempt to change his personality or way of life.

DRINKING CHAMPAGNE AND BRANDY by Youngman Carter; Hastings House, 95 pages, $3.95.

That would have been impossible. Rather, he hired press agents to help construct a phony personage to present to the public. That false facade may have fooled some of the millions who did not know him. But it did not fool those who mattered most — those who did know him, and who almost unanimously hated or despised him.

Earl Conrad is a veteran biographer and writer of other non-fiction. Most frequently, his books have dealt with the Negro issue and with other social topics. This book represents a decided shift in subject matter, but he handles it quite well.

At times, he appears to totter on the brink of bad taste, such as marred Irving Schulman's sensationalized "Harlowe," but he seems to pull back in time. One hopes he has not succumbed to the temptation of exaggerating Rose's bad traits and the opprobrium to which he was held by show business for the sake of a good story. The strains of sympathy and understanding that run through the book seem to indicate a genuine effort at objectivity.

Certainly, Conrad, a San Francisco resident teaching writing for the University of California extension program, has authored a most interesting book in his chronicling of the life of Billy Rose, the man who could not settle for what he was, a successful theatrical impressario, but who wanted to be the things he could not be, a creative songwriter and columnist, an author, an art connoisseur, and most of all a happy, well-liked and well-adjusted American.

YET ANOTHER consolation for the non-wealthy is that so many of the finer things of life no longer require excessive affluence.

For instance, champagne and good brandy were once considered the special privileges and possessions of the very wealthy. Now, at least in limited quantity, and the good things are most appreciated that way, they are available to all.

It is a small book with a somewhat misleading title. The emphasis is not upon the consumption or use of the finished wine and cognac, but rather upon the growing of the grape and its processing.

Considerable history is also related.

The book is divided into two sections, the first dealing with Champagne country and its famed product, the second with Cognac and its equally renowned drink, with some attention paid as well to its near-relative, Armagnac.

It suffices as an easily absorbed if incomplete explanation of what Champagne and Cognac are that is sufficient to satisfy the curiosity of most. It will, however, serve only as a starting point for those who really want to dig deeply into this fascinating field. Other more detailed — and more expensive — books will have to take over from there.

ASIDE TO Marin County's freelance writers: Writer's Digest has published two new books of prime interest to the profession.

One is the new 1968 edition of "Writer's Market," as essential to the freelancer, established or aspiring, as his typewriter and his dictionary.

The Market grows in size annually and this year totals 711 pages. There is no new, major innovation in this year's table of contents. But as always, the listing of the potential markets for writing has been brought up to date, no small service to the serious writer. This, after all, is why the market guide sells, although earlier instructions on manuscripts preparation and submission are retained.

The price is $7.95, and, of course, if the big book points the way for one sale, you have your money back and more. The writer who tries to function without it is simply subjecting himself to a needless handicap.

The second book from the same publisher is smaller and more specialized. Lee Wyndham, teacher, author and reviewer of literature for juveniles, has written "Writing for Children and Teen-Agers" (249 pages, $5.95).

It deals largely with the basics, and will be of greater use to the beginner than to the seasoned professional. But that is not to say the latter will not find a great deal of help in it.

From her store of experience, Mrs. Wyndham offers guidance on work habits, story-telling techniques, plotting, organization, dialogue, manuscript preparation, sales, research and a number of other topics.

One wishes she might have been more specific in her discussions of markets, but realizes at the same time that the rapid changes that occur in the field would quickly outdate any such comments.

On the whole, it seems a sound and useful home text.

TOPPING THE latest list of paperbacks from Ballantine Books is the first American edition of Doris Lessing's "Going Home," an account of that writer's experiences with racism in her native Southern Rhodesia. She has written an additional chapter telling of her hopes for the future especially for the Ballantine edition.

Sleuths & Suspense

ILL MET BY A FISH SHOP ON GEORGE STREET by Mark McShane; Doubleday, 191 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Australian Mark McShane has written a dandy.

In Sydney, two men meet for the second time. The first encounter had taken place 30 years earlier, with one a fugitive fleeing the scene of a slaying, the other a police officer. Since then, their lives had altered drastically.

McShane keeps his reader in doubt and suspense as to the eventual consequences of this second meeting. And he introduces some very interesting secondary characters in addition to making his two principals believable and meaningful.

With both irony and humor, it is one of the best Crime Club Selections of the season.

Two Swinging Novels

IN THE BALANCE by M. E. White; Harper & Row, 218 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Norman Moser.

Almost too good to believe, two solid novels at a time by swinging young writers with something to say. Something dynamic and contemporary.

Both novels are made of substance. In both, scenes from the protagonist's past are spliced into the present action.

The hero of Weston's third try at the novel is Karl Dixon, returned for a day to Yavapai Valley, Ariz. Karl is between the devil and the deep blue sea. Home from an Ivy League college, he's on his way to Vietnam, a volunteer in the U.S. Army. Karl keeps trying to explain this to townsfolk and the Dixons, richest landed gentry in the valley.

He was always the black sheep: Mixed-up in his brother's accident which lamed a leg for life, a reconciliation of sorts between the brothers finally comes about. There are still complications centering around Karl's new-found manhood, an individuality long buried and in need of only a little nurturing.

What we begin to see is the growth and expression of a youngster who has reached in and found a rewarding, rich, swinging self he isn't about to let go of—not for any idea, and country, county, college, farm, family or even filly. What is truly paradoxical is that just as he so clearly finds himself, he must face the commitment he made.

Weston earns every effect achieved. Some scenes, however, stand out in comparison to others or to the whole: Several at a childhood swimming-hole, the annual birthday-party for brother Forrest, a neighborhood affair, when Karl's gift turns out to be an Indian mummy gifted him by the aged woman. Then there's the end of the party, the entire family drifting out into the moonlight to join Karl as he does a wild collage on the barn with a curious set of images.

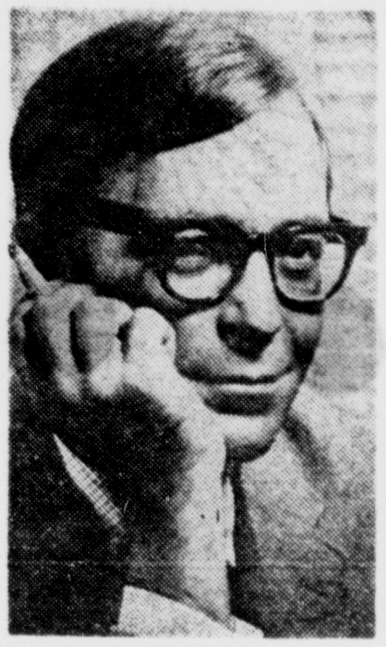
Baylor Irish, a sometime actress, can't quite hit her stride with her family either, college also being part of her problem. But only part: here again, a groovy, goofy, inquisitive, quick-witted, slightly cynical girl who so obviously loves life and being alive she just can't fit into a ready-made box set aside for her on graduation. Why should she, when she already knows more than most of her instructors, fellow-students, admirers, boy friends and friends?

The person closest to her is the only one clearly tougher and sharper-witted than she — Jackson, cold-blooded past the point of being a little demented. And capable, she is fairly certain, of killing her.

Like "hero" Karl, Baylor, Jackson and her friends are the new generation: renegades already at 17, never to come into the fold of a society they cannot believe in because they so adeptly see through its shams, devices and general flim-flam.



JOHN WESTON
A story with substance

Baylor doesn't know whether she really wants Jackson — for keeps, as they say — but she does dizzily realize she never forgets him as she spills from party to party and play to play. She finally hooks up with a set of way-out North Beach characters, presumably making an experimental flick even the director ad libs as he goes along from the seeds of immediate setting and freaky cast. These scenes are among the most fantastic as well as most dynamic.

Baylor finally splits. No more far-out complications to add to the daily ache. Typically, she buys a ticket to the only place she can afford, Petaluma. There she falls in with a friendly Mexicano and a somewhat simpler way of life.

This seems to, for now (and now is all she knows), fit the bill. Baylor begins to see where she is really at. Believing in nothing, seeing the futility and hollowness of most alternatives, she goes anyway, even runs the field to find the Mexican. "I did not believe in talent or the prophecies of others," she says, "for inside I felt and knew my talent was insanity . . . " She adds —" . . . the insane are not easily destroyed; they can rebuild endlessly in their minds."

"In the Balance" is a marvelous, powerful book. Miss White can do anything John Weston can do, and more. Her images sound the depths like a poet's. Hers is a probing, solid talent which produces pictures sharper, more real than reality and incisively cuts and reveals the stuffings, the makings of life. Even a blurb-writer hits home: "In the Balance is a satire and very funny in parts, but it is also a tragedy."

Fascinating Story: Animals In Captivity Past And Present

ZOOS OF THE WORLD: The Story of Animals in Captivity by James Fisher; Natural History Press, $5.95. Reviewed by Rachel Farrara.

With illustrations that are glorious, ranging from cave paintings to fine engravings, bas reliefs, sculpture and detailed drawings and photographs, it succeeds in being entertaining as well as informative, as it gives the reader a complete outline of the history of man and animal relationships through the years.

Especially interesting are the earliest beginnings of zoology — when man was a hunter and knowledge of animals was essential for survival. His cave paintings were indicative of his curiosity and knowledge of the animals he hunted.

From ancient times to modern the purpose of zoos has been essentially the same — the education and entertainment of man. From the earliest experimental farms in Old Egypt to our present-day fine facilities with more humane accommodations, zoos have provided special opportunities for studying animals.

This fine book tells of the first great zoo in Alexandria, the problems of breeding and attempts to recreate extinct species, the realization of the need for zoo reform, the difficulties of collecting (with a fresh look at Frank Buck and his "bring them back alive" legend), the trading between zoos and, a look at the zoos of today with their modern and efficient management.

Through this book we get a clear look at the story of animals in captivity by a noted British scientist whose knowledge becomes our own.

"The Art and Science of Color" is one of those sneaky textbooks.

You're not really sure that's what it is until near the end, nor are you sure how smart you ought to be. Author Hal Hellman never specifies age level, but our guess is seventh grade on.

More science than otherwise, it is still a practical and sometimes humorously ancedotal guide through the fascinating subject of color, its components and staggering use in industry, art and science today. And it's a book which should prove a palatable addendum to heavier-handed texts on the subject.

It might take a couple of years to execute the dozens of recommended experiments but the more than 50 detailed black and white diagrams by Mark Binn as well as a thick insert of color illustrations keep understanding intact for the perusing reader.

For the artist there's a comprehensive section on color mixing and reaction but for the rest of us who'd just like a fairly simple, readable explanation of everything from butterfly wings and the common rainbow, to color television and lensless photography, Hellman's approach makes one feel painlessly learned.

Your summer vacation starts tomorrow

If you belong to a group that has chartered a plane, now's the time to make your reservations. In fact, you'd better do it today.

Charter flights fill up fast, and no wonder. Charter flights are the greatest value in air travel today. Your charter flight can go almost anywhere in the world, anytime your group wants to go. Just make sure you're on World Airways, the world's largest charter airline flying Boeing's biggest, finest, newest, 707 intercontinental fan jets. But there's more to your World charter flight than big new jets and top flight crews.

There's peace of mind that comes from flying with the only airline to win the National Safety Council's Award of Honor every year for the past three years.

There's the unmatched comfort you get on World's charter jets. Roomier, deeper seats, spaced farther apart, that tilt 'way back if you want to snooze. Only on World. And the meals! Your choice of complimentary cocktails, garden green salad, shrimp cocktail, Chicken Cordon Bleu or Medallion of Beef, broccoli Hollandaise, fruit and cheese served with select California wines. Coffee. Cordials. Served by gracious stewardesses, world travelers from many lands who give your flight true international elegance.

So don't be left standing at the gate this summer. Call your club or organization and tell them to count you in. Then you can relax. It may be winter outside—but your summer has begun.

(P.S. If you don't belong to a club or organization, there's still a way you can enjoy the luxury and savings of a World Airways flight. Ask your travel agent about Berry Private Jet Holiday tours to Hawaii and to the Orient. Also S.T.O.P. Student Tours to Europe from New York.)

The Wren flew thataway STAN DELAPLANE ON RIDING THE BIG JETS*

"As soon as we are airborne, we will be serving cocktails and dinner," said the stewardess. She draped a life jacket over her head.

"What's that for?" asked my household wren.

"She has to show you how to do it," I said. "It's a safety rule. Like fire drill in school."

"I can't do it," she decided. "I simply can't wear yellow."

Here's eight million dollars worth of modern, jet airplane, streaking silently six miles high, ten miles a minute. How do you explain it to a home bird? Stick to home furnishings.

The button overhead? "It turns on your reading light. Twist the little cup beside it and it blows in cool air."

How do they chill the martinis? "They carry enough ice for a cocktail party for 165 people. Any kind of drink you want. And wine with dinner."

"Pay? Pay for what?" I said. "It's all included on the charter jets. You can't even tip."

How do they serve the dinner so hot? "The airlines have been working on this for so long, they can serve a dinner equal to a deluxe restaurant. There are two kitchens—they call them galleys—with electric ovens."

I said: "Turn the do-hickey on the seat in front of you, a tray pops out over your lap.

"Push the button beside you, the seat reclines.

"Push the button marked 'call', a stewardess brings you a magazine and a pillow," I said. "Anything else?"

"Yes," she said, "how does the Captain KNOW where he's going."

I said: "He punches a button—Honolulu, Tokyo, Rio de Janeiro, London."

(Well, the computer business of flying is almost like that. Why try to explain radar, long range navigational aids, advance weather information to a home bird who is baffled by a pencil sharpener.)

"I hope I brought enough clothes," she said. (Some wren!)

Shutters For Use And Looks

You can give the outside of your house a fresh and interesting look by the addition of shutters to one or more windows.

These shutters would be purely for the purposes of decoration and so would remain in fixed positions at all seasons of the year and in all kinds of weather.

However, under certain circumstances, they would have an indirect function — that of creating an illusion intended to correct a nonappealing structural detail.

A WIDE expanse of exterior wall, broken only by a narrow window, can be made less monotonous to the eye by placing a wide shutter on each side of the window. An extra-wide window or set of touching windows requires a narrow shutter at each side.

ters of various sizes and shapes and of almost any kind of material, including plastic and metal.

Whether you paint the shutters or coat them with a transparent finishing material, remember that the joints as well as the visible sections must be protected from the weather. Therefore, before using nails and screws to attach two pieces together, be sure to apply the paint or spar varnish or whatever you are using to the parts being bonded.

SINCE YOU will not be opening and closing the shutters, they can be attached directly to the house. If you wish to go to a little more trouble, you can attach them to the window frames with hinges, considered by some to be an advantage because it permits them to be swung outward for cleaning and future painting.

There are many uses for shutters other than to decorate the outsides of windows.

The louvered types sometimes are used on the insides of windows, where they keep out the sun when they aren't just being decorative. They also are used as swinging doors between rooms where some privacy is desired without the use of full-length doors.

They serve, too, as room dividers and radiator covers.

AN INEXPENSIVE hollow-core flush door set on two fiber drums forms the basis for this versatile table that can be used as a workbench, a desk, a game and hobby area or a snack bench. The drums, covered with a self-adhering, wood-grained plastic covering, serve not only as supports, but also as storage bins for infrequently used articles. Metal lids are bolted to plywood squares, which in turn are screwed to the underside of the door. A panel of white plastic-finished Marlite provides a smooth, snag-free table top.
